WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Eisenhower was reported last night to be considering a veto of the bill to free natural gas production from direct federal control.

Word that the President was about to veto the measure came from a representative of the gas producing industry and also from Senators in both the pro- and anti-bill groups.

Persons in the industry heard that George St. Hughes, the Secretary of the Treasury, had flatly predicted a veto.

Humphrey, however, in response to a question sent him by a reporter, relayed word that he had made no prediction of any kind on the subject.

White House itself was silent.

The bill, which would allow producers to make, use and sell their own gas, is a major step in the President's program to reduce government interference in the economy.

The bill becomes a law without the President's signature, unless he vetoes it in the meantime.

Completed in inquiries.

Potential explosion of party-shattering force clearly under the force, which had become complicated by current and prospective Senate elections.

MOSLEY GIVES UP FIGHT,
HOLLIS NOMINATED SHERIFFName of Maplewood Man Submitted to County Council for Unexpired Term.

The name of David L. Hollis, former Maplewood city councilman and president of a tool company, was submitted to St. Louis County Council today with the recommendation that he be named sheriff of the county for the unexpired term of Arthur C. Mosley, who said he would make no further effort to fight a Missouri Supreme Court order ousting him from office.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews submitted Hollis's name after a conference with Mosley and other county officials, including County Counsel Herbert C. Funke, who informed Matthews that a vacancy existed in the office of sheriff.

Funke previously had been told by Mosley's attorneys that no further appeal against the Supreme Court's ruling would be sought. Mosley was ousted for permitting carnal relations with a woman while on bond and seeking a share of a reward given to two of his deputies.

For the council to confirm Hollis, it must suspend the rules by a simple majority vote, then consider confirmation, Funke said. Mosley's unexpired term will end next Dec. 31.

In leaving office, Mosley said: "I feel innocent and am walking out holding my head high." Mosley said he would assist Hollis in taking over the office so that there will be no interruption of service.

SCHOOL BOARD TABLES MOTION AGAINST LUGS
ON EMPLOYESActs After Two Members Say Staff Will Not Be Asked to Give to School Vote Campaign.

A resolution which would have assured employees of the Board of Education that they need not make contributions to election campaign funds was tabled last night at the board's regular monthly meeting.

Last week key members of the Democratic City Committee decided in a closed meeting to extend to nonteaching employees of the board a 1 per cent "lug" or salary assessment to raise a fund to elect a slate of charter freeholders selected by political organization leaders.

The resolution, which was proposed by board member Daniel L. Schlafly and would have applied to any election, was tabled by a 9-to-2 vote. It would have directed board executive officers to inform all employees that they "are under absolutely no obligation" to contribute to such funds.

No Lug for School Vote.

The move to table the proposal came after two board members said that employees would not be asked to help pay for the cost of this year's school tax rate election campaign. No direct reference was made to the planned charter freeholder lug.

Oscar A. Ehrhardt, a member of the board's tax campaign committee, and Mrs. Edward M. Harrington, committee chairman, said some board funds have been set aside to finance the tax campaign. In some previous election, campaign funds have been collected from school employees.

Voting to table Schlafly's motion were Ehrhardt, Mrs. Harrington, Edward C. Donnelly, Charles J. Dyer, Mrs. H. H. Fried, Dr. James J. McCaffery, Dr. Walter A. Young, H. Lee Bruns and James F. Morrell, board president.

Against the motion were Schlafly, Louis H. Antoine and Charles H. Christel.

Rule Abolished.

Last June the board abolished a rule which had been intended to protect school employees from being solicited for political contributions by their superiors and co-workers. It did not block contributions to political ward organizations.

That rule had been adopted three months earlier when the so-called "blue ribbon" faction controlled the board. In the April 1955 election, board control passed to the "old guard" group.

Any board action on the controversial insurance program was deferred to next month's meeting after Dyer, chairman of the insurance committee, promised to bring in a report at that time.

Following Dyer's statement, Antoine, a member of the insurance committee, said the motion he had made asking the board to approve most of a plan proposed a year ago under which school buildings would receive insurance coverage.

Brokerage Fees.

The motion did not include the question of disposition of brokerage fees on existing board insurance policies. The Post-Dispatch reported last month that Dyer has been selecting persons to receive these fees.

Antoine, an insurance company executive, said he was "frightened" by the lack of insurance on almost all schools. He said the board would have "no place to go" for funds to replace Chouteau elementary school, if the school had been destroyed by the recent fire there instead of being damaged.

The board formally approved submitting a special election April 12 a tax rate proposal which would authorize a levy of $1.30 for each $100 assessed property valuation. The proposed rate is 15 cents higher than the present $1.15 tax and, if approved, would go into effect for two years.

The board referred to committee a request for construction of an additional school building, for the fifth through eighth grades, on the grounds of the present Windsor primary school, 4092 Robert avenue. The request was made by a parents' group.

Donnelly was elected a member of the board of trustees of the Public School Retirement System, replacing Ehrhardt, who resigned. Donnelly defeated Schlafly by a 6 to 4 vote.

GOES TO GEORGIA
FARM, EXPECTED TO REACH FINAL DECISION THERE6 Doctors Say President 'Should Be Able to Carry On an Active Life... for Another
5 to 10 Years.'

(Texts on Pages 9 and 10A)

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—President Eisenhower flew south today to begin a second winter vacation and think over the finding of his doctors that, medically speaking, he should be able to serve another term in the White House.

A six-man team of physicians, headed by Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted Boston heart specialist, agreed yesterday that Mr. Eisenhower had made a "good recovery" from his heart attack and "should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years."

Under questioning, Dr. White made it clear beyond doubt that he and the other attending physicians now believe there is no medical reason why the President cannot run again and, if elected, serve another four years.

Basis of Opinion.

Dr. White explained that this opinion was based on evaluation of medical examinations and consideration of "what we have seen of the job and the way he has carried it out during the last five weeks."

Major Gen. Howard McSnyder, the President's personal physician, recalling his own estimate of last September that the President had been in better physical condition than he had observed in 10 years, just before he suffered the heart attack, said: "We don't know that he won't have another cardiac accident."

With the doctors' opinion to study, Mr. Eisenhower will go into seclusion at the plantation home of Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey near Thomasville, Ga., where he is expected to reach a final decision on whether to run again. He has indicated he would announce his decision by March 1.

The presidential plane, Columbine III, took off from Washington's Military Air Transport Service terminal at 10:35 a.m. for the flight to Thomasville, in southern Georgia near the Florida line.

The President was accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, and by a small staff. He appeared in high spirits, and chatted for a few moments at the foot of the landing ramp with an old friend, Col. Tom Belshe, who came to the airport to see him off.

Others on Plane.

Others on the Columbine were Secretary and Mrs. Humphrey, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and his wife, and a small White House staff.

The President landed at Spence Air Force Base at Moultrie, Ga., at 1:26 p.m. From there it was an hour's drive to the Humphrey plantation. The weather was sunny with the temperature in the mid-70s.

On the drive to Thomasville, the President stood up frequently in the slide-roof car to wave at crowds along the way. He held on to the roof with one hand, however, and did not use the familiar two-handed greeting of his 1952 campaign.

In Moultrie, a huge sign made of red and pink carnations spelled out "Welcome Ike—Mamie" at one intersection, and the President waved and smiled at a crowd of small children. He gave reporters the definite impression he was acting like a candidate.

May Stay 10 Days.

Depending on the weather, Mr. Eisenhower probably will stay there about a week or 10 days, working over the pros and cons of his decision and resting on the plantation. He is expected to do some quail hunting and perhaps get in a little golf.

The report on his health, easily the most optimistic in the four and one-half months since his Sept. 24 heart attack, gave the President unmistakable medical approval should he choose to run again.

However, Dr. White emphasized, as he has before, that "the choice is his, not ours." The President told a press conference a week ago that in making up his mind he probably would rely more on how he felt than on what his doctors told him about his condition.

Asked yesterday if there were any medical reasons why Mr. Eisenhower should not run, he said: "I don't know."

RED SPEAKERS
INDORSE TALK
BY KHRUSHCHEVBulgarian Slated to Report on Five-Year Plan to Communist Party Congress.By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (UP).—The twentieth congress of the Russian Communist party today heard a series of speakers express their approval of the long exposition of Soviet policy delivered by party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Premier Bulganin was expected to deliver the next major address before the party gathering, with a report on the new five-year plan.

Speakers today included Elena Furtseva, chairman of the Moscow committee of the Communist party; N. S. Patolich, first secretary of the Ukrainian party; and N. A. Stukhin, Premier of Uzbekistan.

As the speakers droned on behind closed doors in the grand palace of the Kremlin, there was no indication when Bulganin would speak.

Khrushchev, in his massive keynote address yesterday, challenged the capitalist powers to an all-out economic war for survival. He said the Soviet Union would eclipse the United States through economic means, without resorting to war. But he admitted the Russians had a lot to learn from Americans about science and technology.

On Halting H-Bomb Tests.

Khrushchev said Russia was ready to agree to a global ban on H-bomb tests even before East and West agree on disarmament.

"As long as no agreement is reached on the main questions of disarmament," he said, "we declare our willingness to a number of partial measures, for instance to cease tests of thermonuclear weapons, the equipment of troops on German soil with atomic weapons, and to reduce military budgets."

The Soviet Union, which recently tested a hydrogen weapon in a high air burst, had called previously for discussions with the United States and Britain on the question of barring further "nuclear" tests.

"Nuclear" could mean both atomic and hydrogen weapons. "Thermonuclear," however, means the H-bomb. The first test of a British H-bomb was expected sometime this year. The United States also has announced plans for new H-bomb tests.

Revisions of Doctrine.

Khrushchev's debut as the Communist party's chief ideological spokesman was marked by a series of significant revisions in the basic Marxist doctrine.

While reaffirming what Communists believe to be eternal truths of Marxist-Leninist theory, Khrushchev postulated the following modifications:

1. War between two conflicting ideological systems is not inevitable.

2. The inevitability of Socialism—a primary article of Communist faith—can be achieved by parliamentary means and not necessarily by violent revolution and civil war.

3. The world is not divided into two irreconcilable camps but now contains a large "zone of peace" which includes the United States.

Specialist Makes It Harder
For Eisenhower Not to RunDr. White's Statement Gives Impression He Has Discussed Decision With President.By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Dr. Paul Dudley White didn't exactly push President Eisenhower into another campaign for the presidency yesterday, but he certainly opened the door and invited him in.

The least that can be said about the extraordinary news conference with the Boston heart specialist is that he made it much more difficult for the President to refuse to run on the ground of health.

He put his name to a careful clinical analysis of the President. He was more optimistic than the President himself, who has said it would be "idle to pretend" that he could ever regain the health he had before his Sept. 24 heart attack. He admitted there were "hazards and uncertainties" ahead, but he concluded that, after weighing the stresses and strains of the presidency, he believed Mr. Eisenhower could carry on for another "five to 10 years."

More than that, Dr. White gave it as his opinion that while strain and tension might aggravate a heart case, they were not the main cause of heart disease.

Not the Final Answer.

This, of course, doesn't settle the matter. The President has said that he must consider his historical, constitutional and many other factors besides the doctor's report, but it is now clear that he will have to invoke these "other reasons" or ignore the widely publicized report of his doctor.

It would be hard to prove it from the precise words of the transcript of the conference, but from his manner there and his private remarks later, one got the impression that Dr. White had discussed the big decision with the President and come away with the belief that Mr. Eisenhower would run.

For example, Dr. White seemed to know what the President would discuss when he finally made his decision known, and in the light of this, it seemed unlikely to the reporters that Dr. White would have got himself involved in the "five or 10 years" prediction if the President had given him the impression that he was definitely going to pull out.

Doctors, Not Politicians.

At the start of the conference, James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, emphasized that Dr. White and the other physicians were present as "doctors, not politicians," and that they were present to "report on their medical findings—nothing else."

An official statement, mimeographed in advance of the conference, stayed within this rule. It catalogued the medical facts of the past and present, and avoided any speculation about the future, but thereafter Dr. White said:

Pupils Take Fifth Amendment,
Won't Sign Honor System Pledge

HAZARD, Ky., Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Goebel Ritter, a Hazard high school history teacher, gave mid-month examinations yesterday. She explained she had to leave the room and expected the students to abide by the honor system rules.

When the tests were over she asked them to sign pledges they did not give or receive help. Later, glancing over the papers, she found most of the students had written the following: "I refuse under the Fifth amendment to make an answer in regards to the honor system for fear of incriminating myself."

EISENHOWER NOW LEFT WITH HEAVY TASK OF COMING TO A DECISION

Doctors Give Him Green Light but He Alone Must Ponder Strains of Presidency and Second Term.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 —

"The choice is his, not ours." This statement of Dr. Paul Dudley White, the Boston heart specialist, summarized the political situation left today by the "more or less" final medical report yesterday on President Eisenhower's present and future health as determined by the six doctors who attended the President since his coronary attack Sept. 24.

The President himself has emphasized — and the White House has repeated the emphasis — that he would trust his own feelings more than the doctors' report on whether he should seek reelection.

Given Green Light. Yesterday's report gave him the green light to go ahead from the medical standpoint. Between now and March 1, with time for contemplation and self-examination, he will decide, as he has said, whether he will be able to stand the emotional strain and the periods of intense concentration required by four more years in the White House.

The report of the doctors, particularly their amplifying oral remarks, was more optimistic than the President has ever been. It caused stock markets to jump and renewed the hopes of the Eisenhower Republicans, who have no other presidential candidate in view with anything like Mr. Eisenhower's popularity among the independent voters.

In view of previous medical reports, a favorable final statement was expected from the heart specialists. It was more optimistic and conclusive than the earlier reports but it did not overcome the President's own cautionary observation that a doctor's sole care is with the patient while he himself had to think of what the Presidency, with its emotional strains and periods of intense concentration demands.

Multitude of Decisions. Former President Truman, in his memoirs, recalls some of the many simultaneous demands on the presidency. Recounting the many pressures on him when he and his advisers were called on for immediate American action to save Greece and Turkey from Communist domination in 1947, when Great Britain was forced, for economy reasons, to withdraw its troops from Greece, he wrote:

"The President faces a multitude of decisions every day. To illustrate, this is what was happening. At the time that I was weighing the problem of aid to Greece and Turkey, Ernest Bevin had just made a public statement about our policy that cast a dark shadow over our relations with Britain; the economy bloc in the new Eighteenth Congress was threatening to cut some vital government programs; and the State Department was getting ready to attend his first foreign ministers' conference; there were events in Argentina, in India, in China that called for decisions; Senator McKellar was blocking the atomic energy program by his stubborn opposition to the confirmation of David Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; the bill for the unification of the services was at last ready for Congress; the press wanted me to announce my plans for 1948. Amidst all these demands on his time, the President must be ready to perform the necessary functions of a head of state, whether they be ceremonial or informal and he can, of course, never close his doors to the public and, even less so, to the press."

First Presidential Patient. Dr. White conceded yesterday that he had never before had a President or one facing the Presidency as a patient, but asserted that the panel of specialists thought Mr. Eisenhower "should be able to carry on as active a life as he is leading now on a full job" for another five or 10 years. He added that the doctors knew "full well" the hazards of the future.

Replying to a woman reporter's observation that "the President has not been bearing the full load of the Presidency" during the past few weeks, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary said:

"Well, all I can refer you to is the schedules for the past five weeks, and if they are not full working schedules of the President I don't know what is with the exception of dinners and social events."

Hagerty's reply puzzled many reporters. The President's conference list has been cut to three or four a day; on doctors' orders he has rested every afternoon and he has taken long weekends on his Gettysburg farm.

Enlarged Staff. By reorganizing and greatly enlarging the White House staff, Mr. Eisenhower has lessened many of the burdens and demands about which former Presidents Roosevelt and Truman complained. In addition to Sherman Adams, as his "chief of staff," the President has about him far more "consultants," "special assistants," "deputy assistants" and "assistants to the deputy assistants" than any of his predecessors. These White House officials channel and minimize the material which reaches the President's desk for final decisions.

Discussing President's Heart Condition

DR. PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, Boston heart specialist, answering question at press conference which followed release of report on President Eisenhower's condition yesterday. At table (from left) are: COL. BYRON POLLOCK, Fitzsimons Army Hospital, Denver; Dr. White, JAMES HAGERTY, presidential press secretary, and MAJ. GEN. HOWARD M. SNYDER, White House physician.

dent's desk for final decisions. Despite this organizational change, Mr. Eisenhower, who has been schooled in "command decisions," has said that the Presidency is the most "wearing" job he has ever held.

Five Weeks of Pressure. During the five weeks since his return to Washington, Mr. Eisenhower has been under pressure from the demands of the office. He has sent to Congress three major messages on the State of the Union, the budget and the economic condition of the country and several special messages on specific legislation. Whether these demands have been comparable to the burdens of the early White House years of Roosevelt and Truman, and whether he has given the same detailed personal study to problems as they did, is a debatable subject on which no definite answer can be given.

Last week that while his clinical record was excellent, he sometimes felt more tired than before his attack. He added, however, with a smile: "But that may be just advancing years." This was an indirect reference to the fact that he is 65 years old and would be 70 years old at the end of a second term.

Preference Not Decisive. Within the next two weeks, the President will make his greatest political—as distinct from governmental—decision. He has said that his personal preference will not be the determining factor in deciding whether he will run again, and has implied that the decision will not be based on partisan issues.

"I shall strive to see," he said in January, "that the decision is based on my best judgment on what is best for the country."

He has also said that "the problem is what will be the effect on the presidency, not on me." This was an elaboration of a statement he had made earlier in Key West that "it is not merely what the doctors say. It is a very critical thing to change governments in this country at a time that is unexpected."

He obviously was referring to the fact that the presidency of the United States is not only at present unique in world power but that the office is unlike that of a Prime Minister, who can be ousted on a vote of lack of confidence by the Legislature, or a dictator, who can rule without regard to the Legislature or the people.

The four-year term of the presidency and the possible succession of a Vice President to the position of world power were the reasons for his statement to reporters that "I have to guess as to the next five years."

Chairman Hall's Position. In view of yesterday's optimistic medical report, which would have been sensational world news if it had been pessimistic, the frequent statements of Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall have political significance. A check at the Republican and Democratic national headquarters verifies that Hall has carefully avoided saying that Mr. Eisenhower will run again "if he thinks he is able."

All of Hall's 1956 campaign plans have been based on the theory that President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon will be the Republican candidates in November. The favorable medical reports put the question up to Mr. Eisenhower and to him alone. The questions for the American voters and the world are what will his decision be, when will he announce it and how.

ATOM SCIENTIST REJECTS COMMITTEE BID TO TESTIFY

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Walter H. Zinn, atomic scientist, has declined to go to Washington to give his views on the Government's atomic reactor program to the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee. Instead, Zinn promised to write a statement for submission to the joint committee.

Senator Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, committee chairman, also wants to ask Zinn why he is resigning as director of the Atomic Energy Commission's Argonne National Laboratory. Zinn's rejection of the committee's invitation to testify was disclosed by an AEC spokesman for the Argonne laboratory, in suburban Lemont, Ill. In his letter of resignation last week, Zinn said he was leaving because his directorship "has been sufficiently long." He has headed the laboratory 10 years. However, in Washington, the Post and Times Herald said Zinn resigned in a policy disagreement over awarding of an AEC contract for a particle accelerator, to be used in further atomic work.

G.O.P. Views Medical Report As Green Light for Eisenhower

Democrats Express Gratification Over President's Recovery but Some Doubt He Will Run Again.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Republicans predicted joyfully today that yesterday's medical report will convince President Eisenhower he should run again.

Democrats expressed gratification at the extent of Mr. Eisenhower's recovery. A few of them maintained he would say "no" to a second term.

Senator William F. Knowland (Rep.), California, who has indicated clearly he will seek the nomination if Mr. Eisenhower does not, said that everyone "will rejoice at the progress reported by the doctors." Knowland, who had urged an announcement by Mr. Eisenhower by today, said he would disclose his own plans no later than March 7. That is the last date on which candidates may enter the California primary.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts termed the medical report a "green light" and added: "I believe... the President will not feel... to respond to what is almost a universal call of the people." "Like all Americans," said Adlai E. Stevenson, "I am of course delighted at the favorable report on the condition of the President's health."

Stevenson, whom Mr. Eisenhower defeated for the Presidency in 1952, is an active candidate for the Democratic nomination this year.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic floor leader, said: "As a fellow man being who has gone through the same thing, I am very pleased that the medical report is so favorable. I know every American will be happy." Johnson suffered a heart attack last July.

Former President Harry S. Truman said: "I am just as happy as I can be about President Eisenhower's recovery from his heart attack. We want our President in good health at all times. I think it is fine that Mr. Eisenhower can run again if he wants to."

Republicans were optimistic over the new medical report. Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado said, "We should thank

2 REPORTED FIRED BY FRANCO OVER STUDENT RIOTS

Chief of Falange Party, Minister of Education Said to Have Been Dismissed.

MADRID, Feb. 15 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco has dismissed the chief of the Falange party and the Minister of Education because of last week's student riots, it was reliably reported today.

Raimundo Fernandez Cuesta, minister-secretary general of the Falangist party, only party permitted in Spain, learned he had been fired when he returned from Brazil and the Dominican Republic yesterday, informants said.

He is being replaced, it was said, by Jose Luis Arrese who held the same post from 1941 to 1945 and found the Falange "blue division" that fought in Hitler's German army against the Russians.

Joquin Ruiz-Gimenez, Education Minister since 1951, was reported out with Fernandez Cuesta but it was not yet clear who will replace him.

None of the changes has yet been announced officially. Three days of fighting between Falangists and students last week resulted in 20 injured and more than 50 arrests. Student dissatisfaction has produced the gravest political conflict this government has experienced in its 20-year existence.

Senator Frank Carlson (Rep.), Kansas, one of the original Eisenhower-for-President boosters, said: "It's the best news the people of the United States and the world have had since the President was stricken. This gives added hope and assurance he will serve for another four years."

Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said there was "a great deal of difference between carrying on the full load of the presidency and still staying in the White House."

"There's a great deal of difference, too, between staying in the White House and carrying on an active campaign for the presidency," Sparkman said. "The President has indicated he will take these factors into consideration. When he weighs everything, I still believe he won't run."

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, who has been maintaining Mr. Eisenhower would run, said that "the decision... is in his hands, and his personal feelings and judgment will be the determining factors."

Israel Seeks Plane Damages. JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Feb. 15 (AP)—Israel has asked for more than $2,500,000 compensation from Bulgaria for the shooting down of an Israeli plane over Bulgarian territory last July.

Storm Over Nixon's Remarks On Segregation Ruling Spreads

Northern, Southern Democrats Criticize Assertion on 'Great Republican' Chief Justice.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The controversy touched off by Vice President Nixon's remarks on civil rights accomplishments by the Republicans spread in Congress today.

The storm centered around Nixon's assertion at a Lincoln dinner Monday night in New York that "a great Republican Chief Justice" led the Supreme Court in outlawing school segregation.

Northern Democrats accused Nixon of dragging the Supreme Court into politics; some southern Democrats seized on the remarks as evidence that the court's decision against racial segregation was politically motivated.

President Eisenhower has publicly stated that the Supreme Court should not be mixed with politics. What he thought of Nixon's remarks was not disclosed. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty declined comment yesterday when asked (1) whether Nixon's speech had Mr. Eisenhower's advance approval and (2) if it did, how that squared with what Mr. Eisenhower has said about politics and the Supreme Court.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, called on the Eisenhower Administration today to "exercise its leadership rather than its lungs" in obtaining congressional action on civil rights legislation.

Humphrey struck back at Nixon's charge that the Democrats have proved themselves "helpless and futile" in the field of civil rights. "We might make some substantial progress in this Congress if we can get a little help from Republicans," Humphrey said in an interview. "If we do the Administration will have to exercise its leadership rather than its lungs."

"I might remind the Republicans that during the Eighty-third Congress while they were in control a whole series of civil rights bills were introduced and I don't recall that a single one of them was ever brought up for action."

Humphrey joined Senator John Stennis (Dem.), Mississippi, in criticizing Nixon's statement that "a great Republican Chief Justice, Earl Warren, has ordered an end to racial segregation in the nation's schools."

Humphrey favors integration of white and Negro pupils; Stennis opposes it.

Should Study Constitution. "I didn't know the Supreme Court was Republican or Democratic," Humphrey said. "Vice President Nixon might do well to study the Constitution, as President Eisenhower evidently has done."

This was an apparent reference to a Jan. 25 statement by Mr. Eisenhower that "confusion between politics and the Supreme Court" should be avoided. The President added that "on every official there lies the responsibility to do his part in keeping these separations..."

Stennis told the Senate yesterday that Nixon's statement had acknowledged "officially" that the court's desegregation decision was—in Stennis words—"purely a political one."

"Certainly," Stennis said, "we have slipped a long way from the non-political, non-partisan tribunal when in an approaching national election the Chief Justice of the United States is referred to as a 'great Republican Chief Justice' by the Republican Vice President while recounting the political achievements of a Republican administration."

Senator Lister Hill (Dem.), Alabama, interrupted Stennis at one point to say that the Chief Justice "represents the people and is not a representative of any political party."

Senator Sam J. Ervin (Dem.), North Carolina, said in a statement: "It is a most disconcerting thing to have the Vice President of the United States assert in substance that when the Chief Justice handed down the decision in the school segregation case he was acting in the capacity of a Republican."

Paul M. Butler, Democratic national chairman, commented in a statement: "We must assume that Mr. Nixon was fully aware that he was dragging the Supreme Court into the arena of partisan politics over a problem which calls for the light of non-partisan reason rather than the heat of partisanship."

"Mr. Nixon's statement is a blatant effort to exploit and capitalize on a decision which we are entitled to assume was made by the justices of the Supreme Court without concern for any partisan political advantage which might accrue from it..."

"I would be just as shocked and just as indignant if a member of my party sought in similar fashion to exploit a decision of the highest court of our land for political advantage. I would, for instance, consider it deplorable if Democratic leaders sought to get votes on the ground that seven of the nine justices who rendered the desegregation decision were Democrats."

Why? Here's how: there is no finer... or higher octane... gasoline in St. Louis than Cresyl 110. We can PROVE it too... by independent laboratory reports. But... even though Cresyl 110 is "top quality"... we sell it for less to bring more people into our stations. This gives you the profit we need and it gives YOU liberal savings. RABBI IN MOSCOW DENIES REPORT OF JEWISH PURGE

Declares Stories of Mass Arrests of Members of Race in Soviet Are 'Rubbish.'

MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (AP)—S. M. Schliffer, rabbi of Moscow, said today that reports of mass arrests of Jews in the Soviet Union are "rubbish." He said he had heard nothing about any impending purge trials of Jews here.

"If any such arrests had taken place, I would have heard of it," Schliffer said in an interview at the Moscow synagogue.

Rabbi Schliffer was commenting on an Associated Press story from Berlin Feb. 7 which reported that sources there with contacts behind the Iron Curtain said purge trials of Jews were being prepared in the U.S.S.R. and Czechoslovakia by secret police.

The Berlin story reported that Israel sources said hundreds of Jews in prison in both Moscow and Prague were the potential defendants and that a Communist authority confirmed this. The story added that the predicted trials were intended to discredit pro-Israel elements inside Communist ranks and bolster Russian prestige in the Arab world.

Rabbi Schliffer said there may have been isolated cases of Jews arrested in Moscow for theft or other crimes on the same basis as other Soviet citizens accused of law violations.

"But as far as I know there is no move of a national character against the Jews in the Soviet Union either at the present time or impending," he said.

NIKE ROCKETS TO REPLACE A.A. GUNS HERE WHEN OUTPUT GOES UP

Area's Priority Low — Plans for 90-MM. Weapons Possibly Justified Because of Other Defenses.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Retired)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 — Nike guided anti-aircraft rockets will replace the 90-mm. anti-aircraft guns now planned for the defense of St. Louis as production of the rocket increases and new units are trained, according to authoritative sources in the Department of the Army.

The priority for receipt of Nikes slated for the defense of St. Louis is classified. It easily can be seen, however, that it probably is low. The reason for this is not that St. Louis is unimportant, but rather that St. Louis is the beneficiary of the defenses to the north, east and west of it.

Any attackers headed for St. Louis from any direction will first have to get through at least two lines of interceptor defense before they can reach the defenses of St. Louis.

The Nike anti-aircraft rocket, the 120-mm. and 90-mm. anti-aircraft guns are all last ditch defenses, intended to knock down hostile aircraft that may get through the advanced fighter defenses.

Effectiveness Falls Off. Against jet bombers flying at 600 miles per hour and at altitudes of more than 40,000 feet, anti-aircraft guns are of slight value. High-speed aircraft at great altitude are in the field of fire of the guns for only seconds and the effectiveness of the guns falls off rapidly above 30,000 feet.

Up to 30,000 feet the 90 mm. gun is an effective weapon. It is highly probable that if St. Louis were attacked it would be on one-way missions and the planes might come in low for greater accuracy. The cost of the temporary local defense supplied by 90 mm. guns possibly is justified on this basis.

Gun defense has a disadvantage against nuclear weapons. The atomic or hydrogen bomb would be armed by the time the aircraft reached the defenses and if the aircraft were shot down before the bombs were dropped, they would fall close enough to the city to do some damage with atomic bombs and major damage with thermonuclear bombs.

The Nike rocket, which reaches out 18 miles in the present model and will go out much farther in larger ones soon to be in production, should be able to protect the defended area from atomic attack and save much of it from thermonuclear damage.

Replacement Plans. It is anticipated that replacement of anti-aircraft guns around the principal cities in the United States with Nike anti-aircraft rockets will be completed for regular army units in from two to three years.

Following this, a large number of National Guard battalions will then be armed with Nikes. There is no information available about the priority of equipping National Guard units with Nikes.

St. Louis, Kansas City and other south central cities in the United States are particularly fortunate in their geographical position. On the direct route from Siberia to the West and Murmansk to the East, enemy aircraft headed toward St. Louis would have to fly over thousands of miles of friendly territory to get past two or more lines of defense.

The air defense system to be completed by 1960 will have three successive defense lines warning lines north, northeast and northwest of St. Louis. In addition the Dew warning line is being installed in the Canadian Arctic, Alaska and Greenland.

All this will be tied together

Freeholder Candidate

MRS. ROGERS DEAKIN presenting her petition to JOSEPH P. UXA, chief clerk of St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners.

FIRST CANDIDATE FILES FOR BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS

Mrs. Rogers Deakin, 6237 McPherson avenue, filed a petition with the Board of Election Commissioners today as a candidate for the board of freeholders to draft a new city charter. Mrs. Deakin, wife of a physician, was the first to file.

Only 250 names are required on each petition, but she had more than 300.

She is first vice president of the Twenty-eighth ward Republican organization. Mrs. Deakin said she thought all freeholder candidates should be well acquainted with the mechanics of the city government, and should approach the job of charter revision "with an open mind."

Thirteen freeholders, the candidates with the most votes, will be chosen at an election May 8. Deadline for filing is April 6.

$108,044 IN ESTATE OF ONE OF 3 ASPHYXIATED BROTHERS

Charles Hoening, one of three bachelor brothers who were found asphyxiated in their home at 3915 Iowa avenue last Dec. 27, left an estate valued at $108,044, an inventory filed in probate court showed today.

It included $76,196 in stocks, $16,405 in bonds, and $15,133 in cash. Charles was 62 years old; the others were George, 64, and Henry, 67. George was a bookkeeper, and Charles stayed at an invalid.

Charles had not held a job for many years, and it was assumed that he accumulated the estate from investments. He willed the estate to George, saying he knew George would provide for Henry. Four cousins were made the alternative beneficiaries.

SUSPECT IN CARR KILLING BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Thomas Fiss, a former St. Louis bartender, waived preliminary hearing today in Edwardsville on a charge of murdering Boy George Carr last July 19 and was bound over to a Madison county grand jury. Fiss was released on $25,000 bond posted by Dave S. Goldford, a professional bondsman of East St. Louis.

Others charged in warrants with the killing are Louis D. Shoulters Jr., Bobby D. Martin and George Harvill. Fiss was arrested Jan. 13 at Miami, Fla., on a federal complaint charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the killing.

Carr's body, bearing stab and bullet wounds, was found in the trunk of his automobile near a mine northeast of East St. Louis.

with a three-billion-dollar system of communications and computers. Information of enemy aircraft being transmitted automatically from the display consoles of one SAGE (semi-automatic ground environment) computer to the next on the route.

As the planes move, the computers are guiding the nearest interceptors toward them and alerting the defenses farther to the south. This system and developments of it in prospect, when it is completed, should be able to knock down more than 90 per cent of hostile aircraft.

Beyond the Range. The high rate of kill is apt to make the enemy concentrate on the closest and most remunerative targets. These are from Chicago northeast and southwest to the coast and in the Pacific Northwest.

A dog-leg course from Siberia or European Russia over the North Pole and down central Canada is more than 4,500 miles each way to St. Louis and is beyond the range of existing Soviet bombers.

Courses over the Pacific and Atlantic oceans to enter the United States south of the heavily defended areas to the north are still longer. Nevertheless defenses have been extended to below San Francisco and on the Atlantic coast to below Norfolk to take care of almost any contingency.

The United States as a whole is geographically fortunate beyond any country in the world in respect of air defense. St. Louis, the hub of a whole series of defense systems, is doubly fortunate.

Nevertheless, the requirement for effective last ditch defense for St. Louis is recognized and will be met with Nike batteries and the latest interceptors to be stationed at Scott Air Force Base.

'FENCE' IN TEEN-AGE THEFT LEAVES CITY

Tells Principal of Looted School He Is Sorry About Burglary.

A confectioner who was not prosecuted by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd's office after admitting he served as a "fence" for teen-age burglary suspects, has left St. Louis.

A reporter visited the confectionery today and found the front door locked. Furniture and personal belongings had been removed from living quarters in the rear.

Kendall J. Wentz, principal of the Eliot School, from which the teen-agers admitted taking a typewriter and tools, said the confectioner told him Monday morning he was going back to his former home in Arkansas.

The man returned a pair of pliers, taken in the burglary Jan. 5, and said he had decided "the best thing for me to do is leave town." Wentz reported. He said he was sorry about the burglary.

Wentz said the man denied he had furnished burglary tools to the three boys, who were 14, 16 and 17 years old. He acknowledged he should not have accepted a $160 typewriter taken in the burglary in payment of a $4 debt, Wentz said.

Police previously reported the confectioner had admitted furnishing the burglars tools. School authorities severely criticized Dowd's office for failure to file charges against the "fence" about a week ago.

Wentz told his students the confectionery was "off limits" to them. Wentz said seven boys from the neighborhood would be brought into juvenile court this week to answer delinquency charges.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Edward W. Sumner, explaining why he had not authorized a warrant against the confectioner for receiving stolen property, said his office could have used the 17-year-old burglary suspect as a witness against him.

He expressed the opinion it was more important to prosecute the accused burglar than the accused "fence."

WOMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTO ON WALK

Miss Marie Hinn, 3812 Lawler drive, Arbor terrace, suffered fractures of both legs and head injuries today when she was struck by an automobile that ran up the sidewalk, hit her and then continued on. The accident occurred at Natural Bridge road and Avondale avenue, Arbor terrace.

Two witnesses, who said they were driving behind the automobile that struck Miss Hinn, gave chase and stopped the car about a mile away. The driver denied striking the woman.

Glenn Rhodes, 4310 St. Dominic lane, Bridgeton, said the machine weaved before jumping the curb. Neil O'Brien, a sailor attached to the Naval Air Station at Lambert Field, said he saw the same thing. Rhodes and O'Brien were the two drivers who gave chase.

Emmenegger, a contractor, 9332 Aster avenue, was booked at Clayton suspected of careless driving. Andrews, who said he was talking on the radio when the crash occurred, was treated for shock. He and Wohlschlaeger had been dispatched to the tavern to question two suspicious persons.

TEEN-AGE BOYS IN STOLEN AUTO SEIZED IN CHASE

Two Youths Overtaken in Illinois After Speeding Up to 120 Miles an Hour.

A 20-mile automobile chase at speeds up to 120 miles an hour, in which shots were fired, ended early today in O'Fallon, Ill., when police from St. Clair and Madison counties closed in on a stolen machine and arrested two Indiana boys, 14 and 15 years old.

The chase began at 3:30 a.m. after the youths aroused the suspicions of the attendant at a filling station north of Edwardsville, where they stopped for oil for the new two-tone automobile the 14-year-old boy was driving. Madison county authorities were notified, and a police machine began the chase on U. S. Highway 66.

Officers began firing after the boy speeded up and turned south into State Route 157. Collinsville police, alerted by high-way patrol radio, joined the pursuit, which led to U. S. Highway 50. St. Clair county deputies were waiting there, and turned in behind the other police machines, four in all at that point.

In Front of Train. On State Route 157, the young driver of the stolen machine disregarded a flashing signal at a railroad crossing, and sped across the tracks in front of an approaching train. Deputy Sheriff William Warfield, of Madison county, close behind, also crossed in front of the train. Later one youth observed to Warfield, "We were hoping the engine would get you."

The speeding machines neared East St. Louis, then the route turned east toward O'Fallon. Patrolman Ralph Titter, of the O'Fallon force, was waiting beside the road in a police machine. He followed the youths into a new residential subdivision.

Plunges Into Ditch. The young driver, who had swerved dangerously off the highway several times, lost control of the machine, which plunged into a ditch. Both youths jumped out and ran, with Titter pursuing them on foot, firing as he ran.

One boy halted and surrendered, and his companion was arrested a few minutes later on a highway. No one was injured in the chase. One bullet struck the boys' car.

The prisoners told officers the machine was stolen Sunday in Indianapolis, their home, and they were en route to Ferguson, where one of them formerly lived. The chase, they said, "was for excitement."

One youth boasted he has served two reformatory terms and has stolen 33 automobiles. Both were held at Edwardsville pending action by Indiana and federal authorities.

COUNTY POLICE AUTO WRECKED IN 3-CAR CRASH

A new St. Louis county police car, only a week in service, was wrecked last night in an unusual accident involving two police machines and a third automobile in the 300 block of Lemay Ferry road, Lemay. There were no serious injuries.

Patrolmen Joseph Wohlschlaeger and Billy Dean Andrews were pulling away from the curb in separate cars, following an investigation at a tavern, when a machine driven by Donald R. Emmenegger, of Affton, crashed into the automobile driven by Andrews. That machine, rammed into Wohlschlaeger's car and was wrecked.

Emmenegger, a contractor, 9332 Aster avenue, was booked at Clayton suspected of careless driving. Andrews, who said he was talking on the radio when the crash occurred, was treated for shock. He and Wohlschlaeger had been dispatched to the tavern to question two suspicious persons.

MRS. MILTON HAD PISTOL REPAIRED BEFORE KILLING

Gunsmith Identifies Her — She Is Named in Homicide Verdict in Siebert Death.

Mrs. June Joy Milton, who admitted she shot and killed Walter A. Siebert, chief supervisor for the St. Louis County Highway Department, with a pistol early last Sunday, took the pistol to a St. Louis gunsmith for repairs the day before the killing, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Mrs. Milton, 26-year-old divorcee, was named in a coroner's verdict of homicide returned at Clayton today following an inquest in Siebert's death. The verdict recommended that she be held for the grand jury.

Robert Vaughn, Negro gunsmith, identified Mrs. Milton from newspaper photographs as the woman who brought a Luger pistol to his shop, 2521 Marcus avenue, between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Saturday. The serial number of the pistol, recorded by Vaughn, is the same as that on the weapon used in the killing, police were told. The pistol was owned by Siebert, who had instructed Mrs. Milton in its use, she has told police.

Reported to Brother. Following the killing, Robert Vaughn reported the incident to his brother, Patrolman William S. Vaughn, of the St. Louis county police department. He said the woman bought new cartridges for the Luger, after firing showed that ammunition in the weapon was unreliable due to age. Two discharged shells and three cartridges that misfired were turned over to police by the gunsmith.

Mrs. Milton's inquest testimony was limited, on advice of her attorney, to her name and her address, 455 DeBaltiere avenue. She wept silently throughout the hearing and was comforted by her mother, Mrs. Gladys M. Krueger, 7475 Hawthorne avenue, Richmond Heights, who placed an arm around her daughter's shoulder. Other relatives of the young woman attended the hearing.

Dr. John P. Pfaff Jr., pathologist, testified that Siebert, who was 59 years old, was shot in the right side, near the back, the bullet passing through a lung and the heart. Death was almost instantaneous, Dr. Pfaff said. He added that blood tests revealed a quantity of alcohol sufficient to cause symptoms of overconfidence.

Police Sgt. Otto Piffel, of Webster Groves, told the jury he spoke to Mrs. Milton near the Siebert home, 522 Ambergate drive, Webster Groves, at 1:40 a.m. Monday. An hour later he discovered the house was on fire, and gave the alarm, Sgt. Piffel related. The witness testified that Mrs. Milton, arrested on U.S. Highway 66 following discovery of the fire, admitted she shot Siebert and later set fire to the home.

Pistol Shown. Webster Groves Police Chief Ovid Yaddon testified the pistol was recovered from a laundry bag in which Mrs. Milton had hidden it at her mother's home. Yaddon said Mrs. Milton described to him and other officers how she picked up the pistol from Siebert's bed, and fired the shot.

A hearing on a petition for bail for Mrs. Milton opened today and will continue tomorrow in the St. Louis Court of Appeals. She is held without bond on a first-degree murder warrant.

Edwin Rader, her attorney, said the young woman is suffering both mentally and physically, and requires medical attention. A plea for release on bond was denied in circuit court in Clayton yesterday. County Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz said he will present new testimony tomorrow to show why she should not be granted bail.

ELLEN STEVENSON WINS FIGHT TO OPERATE CLUB

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP) — Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson won a fight with her neighbors yesterday for permission to operate her 1020 Club on fashionable Lake Shore drive.

The Chicago zoning board of appeals held the club is a not-for-profit club organized under state law and therefore may be located in an apartment house district.

The divorced wife of Adlai E. Stevenson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, has been operating the club at 1020 Lake Shore drive as a means of raising funds to help finance an art center she founded.

The club was issued a liquor license last March 1, over protests of neighbors that the place would be turned into a tavern. Chicago's building commissioner approved operation of the club almost a year ago, but 22 North Side residents appealed to the zoning board of appeals. They contended the club was a commercial venture and tended to lower property values in the area.

Mrs. Bessie Martin, 3659 Folsom avenue, kept an armed man from entering her home today by slamming the front door shut in his face, she reported to police.

Mrs. Martin said the man rang her doorbell, and when she opened the door, displayed a revolver and said, "This is a holdup."

Before the robber could enter, Mrs. Martin said, she slammed the door, then telephoned police. The man had fled by the time officers arrived. He was seen running east in Folsom.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee was told today that Russia and other nations "have achieved world leadership" in civilian atomic energy programs, while the United States has no program worthy of the name.

Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association, said "dynamic administration and leadership" is needed in place of what he called "the present inertia" at the Atomic Energy Commission. He said changes also are needed in the Atomic Energy Act.

Ellis was the first witness as the committee began its annual review of civilian aspects of atomic energy development.

Ellis said industry was not assuming the full risks and burdens of developing an atomic power program.

He said the only reactor under construction that will operate under "normal utility operating conditions" was the pressurized water reactor being built by Westinghouse for operation by the Duquesne Power Co. at Shippingport, Pa.

Ellis said private industry was hesitant about investing money in developing atomic power, so Congress should provide funds for federal construction of six to 10 full-scale atomic plants "to hasten the development of this great resource."

Tom Pickett, executive vice president of the National Coal Association, said information indicated "the nation's long-range dependence upon coal as the primary source of low-cost power."

The coal industry, he said, take the position that the country's best interests are not served by "unwarranted optimism" over the early availability of low-cost nuclear power.

BOARD ADMITS AIR, NOT GAS; TESTED FOR RAID SHELTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UP)—Government scientists have developed a wooden board that lets clean air through but screens out poisonous gases.

Richard E. McArdle, chief of the Agriculture Department's forest service, announced the discovery at a closed hearing of a House appropriations subcommittee on Jan. 24. His testimony was made public yesterday.

"This board has a peculiar property," McArdle said. "It will admit oxygen, but it will not admit any poisonous gases that we know of, and it will let carbon dioxide go out."

He said that if the board is used to construct air raid shelters, it would prove "a very effective defense against poisonous gases."

He said he made this statement on the basis of tests by the agency's laboratory and the Defense Department.

LONGE AND VITALE RELEASED ON HABEAS CORPUS PETITION

Isadore Longe, gangster recently released from Missouri penitentiary after serving nearly 16 years of a 25-year sentence for a bombing, and John J. Vitale, former Mafia leader, were released by police yesterday after their attorney, Morris A. Shenker, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry J. Fredericks said the police were finished interrogating the men and were ready to release them when the writ was filed. Chief of Detectives James E. Chapman was reported to have indicated to Longe that he is "unwelcome" in St. Louis.

Longe was arrested for questioning in connection with the murder Jan. 24 of Robert L. Brown, parliamentarian of the Board of Aldermen, who was shot to death in an alley a short distance from his home at 4562 Holly place. Longe denied any knowledge of the shooting.

Vitale was arrested in the continuing police drive against St. Louis hoodlums.

4 FINED TOTAL OF $1400 ON POLICY GAME CHARGES

Four persons were fined a total of $1400 today by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal after they were found guilty of charges of establishing a lottery. They were arrested Jan. 31 by members of the police gambling squad at 4215 East Cozens avenue.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. McGee and William L. Lewis, both of the Cozens avenue address, were fined $500 each. A fine of $200 each was imposed on Oliver Seddens, 4300 block of Maffitt avenue, and Lawyer Jackson, 4300 block of Easton avenue. All are Negroes.

When the four were arrested, police seized top sheets, tabs and other policy paraphernalia. Some of the sheets indicated that in 16 days $2862 had been taken in, police reported.

EISENHOWER FLIES SOUTH TO STUDY DOCTORS' REPORT

again, Dr. White replied: "No." He added: "Medically, I think, we would agree that his present condition and the favorable chances in the future should enable him to be able to carry on his present active life satisfactorily for this period, as I have said, for five to 10 years, knowing full well, as we have just emphasized, the hazards and uncertainties of the future."

Means in Presidency. When a reporter asked if the phrase "present active life" referred to the office of the presidency, the heart specialist answered in the affirmative.

The medical report was based on an extensive examination of Mr. Eisenhower at Walter Reed Hospital last Saturday, supplemented by Dr. White's personal tests at the White House yesterday. The examination was expected to be the last full-scale one before the President makes his decision.

After the press conference, Dr. White cleared up for the New York Herald-Tribune the reasons for specifically mentioning the period five to 10 years. It was based on a statistical survey that Dr. White made concerning life expectancy of patients who had recovered from heart attack. He said that of 19 patients 65 years old—the same age as President Eisenhower—18 were still alive after five years and 11 were alive after 10 years.

Statement by All 6. Opening yesterday's meeting with reporters, Gen. Snyder read a statement signed by all the physicians and summarizing their findings.

"Again we can report that the President's health continues to be satisfactory," the statement said. After discussing Mr. Eisenhower's condition, the report concluded: "Thus, the above findings show that the President has made a good recovery from the attack of coronary thrombosis which occurred last fall."

Snyder was asked if he thought Mr. Eisenhower could serve another term without injury to his heart or health in general. He replied: "We believe that he can serve four or five years or longer in a very active position of great responsibility."

Snyder clearly was referring to the Presidency, and any doubt was removed later by Dr. White's comments. Asked the same question, whether Mr. Eisenhower could serve another four years without harm to himself, Dr. White responded:

"After weighing very carefully all available evidence, including our own experience, and fully aware of the hazards and uncertainties that lie ahead, we believe that medically the chances are that the President should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years."

Reporters pressed the specialist on whether any physical limitations now remain on the President's activities, and in particular whether he could stand a full-scale campaign for a second term.

On the first point, Dr. White answered in general terms, saying Mr. Eisenhower had been increasing his physical activity and would continue to do so. On the specific question of a campaign, which normally includes extensive travel and a heavy load of speech-making, Dr. White declined to comment, saying that was a political question he thought the President would have to answer.

Like to Move Slowly. Asked by Raymond P. Brandt of the Post-Dispatch when the point would be reached at which Mr. Eisenhower would no longer have to think of his physical condition, Dr. White replied that the physicians liked to move slowly, increasing the physical activity gradually up to a "sensible maximum."

The specialist said it should be less than a year before the President is able to play regular rounds of golf. In their written report, the physicians said Saturday's examination revealed no symptoms of weakness of the heart muscle or "insufficient coronary reserve; that is, lack of blood supply to the contracting heart muscle."

"This cardiovascular examination revealed no physical abnormalities other than those associated with the scar in the heart muscle," the statement continued.

X-rays, fluoroscopic examinations and electrocardiograms showed a well-healed scar about two centimeters (a little less than an inch) in diameter on the left ventricle, the doctors added.

Other Points in Report. Their report made these other principal points:

1. Mr. Eisenhower's heart had not enlarged over a 10-year period before and after his heart attack.

2. His temperature, blood pressure, pulse and circulation are normal and stable and his blood-clotting time "has been maintained at the desired level."

3. His weight has not exceeded 172 pounds normal for Mr. Eisenhower. His diet has been kept generally at 1800 calories a day.

4. He has experienced "no attacks of shortness of breath or anginal pains or rapid pulse action."

The report made no mention of the occasional signs of fatigue which Dr. Snyder reported after an examination of Mr. Eisenhower in December. Dr. White said later that such fatigue was normal in a patient with heavy responsibilities.

In answer to another question, Dr. White and Gen. Snyder told reporters Mr. Eisenhower was not taking any drugs to stimulate his heart, but was continuing to take anti-coagulant medicines to delay blood clotting.

Other physicians present at yesterday's conference were Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commanding officer of Walter Reed Hospital; Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, chief cardiologist at Walter Reed; Col. Byron E. Pollock, chief cardiologist at Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denmark where the President was a patient and Maj. Walter Tkach, assistant White House physician.

RED SPEAKERS INDORSE TALK BY KHRUSHCHEV

cludes the great neutral non-Communist countries.

Orthodox on One Point. Khrushchev was actually being an orthodox Marxist when he said the emergence of a new epoch precludes the necessity of violent class struggle and upheavals in order to introduce the socialist era.

Karl Marx himself said socialism was achievable in highly industrialized countries like the United States and England, without revolution.

Khrushchev declared the rise of a powerful labor movement plus the fact that one-third of the world was already socialist enabled parties to vote themselves into power by parliamentary means.

At the same time he reasserted the conviction that Communism was riding the wave of the future and that sooner or later citizens of capitalist countries would voluntarily prefer socialism to capitalism.

Khrushchev explained his departure from the thesis that war was inevitable, as long as the two conflicting systems existed, by citing the immense rise in power of the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

Not a single country now enjoys a sufficient edge to now gamble on war, the Soviet leader implied, therefore nobody was likely to be lunatic enough to take that risk.

View of Pro-Soviet World.

The pre-Stalinist Communist party textbook held that the Russian revolution divided the world into two irreconcilable camps. The pro-Soviet world, in Khrushchev's thinking, has been enlarged to include non-Communist if not anti-Communist countries like India, Burma, Afghanistan, Egypt and Syria.

That is what he said constituted a new "zone of peace"—a brand-new word in Soviet lexicon.

The Soviet party chief drew further optimism from the orthodox Communist belief in a deepening economic crisis in the capitalist world and in rising competition for world markets among the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Japan.

Capitalism already is falling into a crisis, he said. He cited commodity surpluses and the high level of borrowing in the United States as evidence that disaster, not prosperity, lies around the corner in the West.

However, he said, Lenin "pointed out that capitalism's general degenerative trend did not exclude technical progress or an upswing in production in one period or another."

"Therefore," he added, "we must study the capitalist economy attentively and not take a simplified view of Lenin's theses on the decay of imperialism, but study the best that the capitalist countries' science and technology have to offer in order to use the achievements of world technological progress in the interests of Socialism."

Preview of 5-Year Plan.

Khrushchev gave an ambitious preview of the 1955-60 five-year-plan. By 1960, he said, industrial output is to increase by 65 per cent and consumer goods production is to "nearly three times more than in 1950."

The United States, he said, "has passed the peak in the use of its postwar economic possibilities and no new markets are in sight." And, he added, "new economic crisis and upheavals are inevitably bound to emerge in the capitalist countries."

Khrushchev said the United States must recognize that the Communist camp is "invincible" and will have to establish good relations with the Soviet Union along the lines of the recent friendship treaty offer to President Eisenhower.

GAS BILL VETO REPORTED UNDER CONSIDERATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)

—A broadened investigation into all contributions having "any possible relation to the natural gas bill" was urged last night by Senator Edward J. Thye (Rep.), Minnesota.

Thye, a member of the special Senate committee looking into the $2500 campaign contribution rejected by Senator Francis Case (Rep.), South Dakota, said the committee's authority should be expanded.

"A limited investigation will not sufficiently clear this matter up in the minds of the public," he said in a statement. Thye said he had conferred with Senator Walter George (Dem.), Georgia, committee chairman, and with Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, another committee member before issuing his statement.

He said that Bridges "concurred." He said he could not say that George also concurred, but he observed that George earlier in the day had asked for any Senator or anyone else with evidence of "improper pressure" for or against the gas bill to notify the committee immediately.

Day's Developments.

No one immediately stepped forward, but the day brought new developments in the situation which grew out of the offer of a $2500 campaign contribution to Case from attorneys for Superior Oil Co. of California.

1. George's invitation gave rise to reports a special committee be ready to seek to keep jurisdiction over the inquiry. Senator Albert Gore (Dem.), Tennessee, new head of a Senate Elections subcommittee, is on record in favor of a broader investigation of campaign funds and lobbying, but has indicated he would not interfere with George's group.

2. A Federal grand jury began its own study of the case to see whether anyone should be indicted. The Department of Justice sent two of the highest ranking officials of its criminal division to present evidence to the jury. Oil attorneys John M. Neff and Elmer Patman told reporters they were ready to tell the jury all they know; they told the George committee they forwarded the money, from the personal funds of oilman Howard B. Keck. Case turned down the offer.

Jury Hears Neff.

Neff was before the grand jury for about five hours yesterday, and was apparently the only witness it heard before recessing overnight. The proceedings were shielded with unusual secrecy, even for a grand jury, and Assistant Attorney General

Warren Olney avoided reporters.

Neff was questioned briefly again today before being excused.

The grand jury then turned to questioning Patman. Olney and William A. Paisley, chief of the trial staff for the department's criminal division, were the officials assigned to the case.

3. Senator William F. Knowland of California and other Republican Congressional leaders discussed the gas bill and the $2500 offer with President Eisenhower at the White House. Knowland said Mr. Eisenhower did not say whether he would sign the bill.

The natural gas bill, narrowly passed by the House last year and approved by the Senate Feb. 6 by a vote of 53 to 30, would exempt natural gas producers from direct federal price controls.

Most of the debate centered on whether the bill would result in higher prices for gas consumers and big profits for oil companies and other gas producers.

Case reported the $2500 offer the weekend before the Senate voted. A 90-0 vote in the Senate created a special committee headed by George to look into the matter. Since then there have been several demands that the investigation be broadened to look into any and all efforts that may have been made to influence legislation.

Bridges, for example, told a reporter that pressure is building up for a wider investigation. He said: "There are requests that we look into the activities of the gas distributing companies and the labor unions that were against the bill, as well as those of its proponents."

The Senate Elections subcommittee, now headed by Gore, may get into the case with an inquiry that would not be limited, as George's committee was, to the Case matter.

Details to Be Obtained. In inviting anyone to step forward with any evidence he may have of "improper pressure," George told the Senate his group already has gone into the great bulk of the facts surrounding the Case matter, but "there is still some detailed information" to be gathered and "some documents to be examined."

He said he did not know whether the remaining information would justify a broader study.

Neff, of Lexington, Neb., and Patman, of Austin, Tex., both told the George committee they sent the $2500 of Keck's money to Case with no strings attached.

Case, in reporting to the Senate, said he viewed the offer as a sign of undue financial interest in the legislation. He voted against the bill, but said he had been inclined to favor it until he got word of the $2500 contribution left for him in currency at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Counsel Charles W. Steadman of the George committee passed along word yesterday from Neff that he made another $2500 contribution—this one last October to the Republican state central committee of Nebraska.

Meanwhile, a third committee moved to enter the picture. Chairman John F. Kennedy

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Wed., Feb. 15, 1956 5A

(Dem.), Massachusetts, of the Senate Reorganization subcommittee said he will start hearings early in March of his measure designed to obtain sufficient information from the lobbyist "to enable the Congress and the public to identify him and those he represents."

He said the "events of recent weeks have emphasized the defects and ineffectiveness of the present lobbying regulation act."

Kennedy said his subcommittee will examine, among other things, "the use of financial or other support to influence legislative action."

He said the inquiry also would cover lobbying before Federal departments, penalties for violations, special rules for lawyers, special problems of former Congressmen acting as lobbyists, the tax-exempt status of some lobbying organizations, and other problems.

Turned Down Gift, Says Nebraska G.O.P. Finance Chairman.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 15 (UP) — The chairman of the Nebraska Republican finance and budget committee said today he turned down a $2500 campaign contribution from lawyer John W. Neff of Lexington because Neff did not reveal where it came from.

John Wishart said Neff offered the money to the Nebraska Republican organization last Oct. 28.

He told me that he was on the oil lobby and that he and several other people had contributed to a fund to be given to the Republican party in states they felt had been fair to and had an interest in their industry," Wishart said.

FIGHT RAGES IN ASSEMBLY OVER POUJADISM

Chamber Thrown In Uproar — Socialists,
Reds Side Up Against Tax Rebels.

PARIS, Feb. 15 (AP) — A brawl broke out today on the floor of the French National Assembly. Socialists and Communist deputies sided up against the followers of Pierre Poujade.

Assembly President Andre Lequer cleared the galleries and suspended the session, but the enraged deputies continued their battle in front of the assembly rostrum.

Some deputies began throwing chairs. From one of seats the noise of firecrackers was heard. The French news agency reported that the "explosion" came from a toy cap pistol.

A Poujadist, Jean Damasio of the Seine department (county), started the fight when he and another Poujadist rushed for the speaker's dias in an effort to halt a vote on an anti-Poujade motion.

Several Communist deputies dashed from their seats to haul the Poujadists down, and the fight became general between Communists and Poujadists. Then some Socialists joined in to help the Communists.

Damasio was the center of an incident in the Assembly yesterday when he attempted a filibuster against a motion to invalidate the election of a Poujadist from the Haute Garonne department last Jan. 2. Yesterday he refused to budge from the rostrum, forcing Retroquer to suspend the session.

The same motion was up for debate today, and Damasio apparently was eeking possession of the rostrum to repeat his maneuver.

As he and a second Poujadist raced up the steps of the rostrum from one side, two other deputies, a Socialist and a Communist, raced up from the other side. They all met at the top and the fight began.

The opponents seized voting turns and stools used by the ushers and hurled them at one another. In an instant the chamber was in an uproar. Several ushers who attempted to restore order were attacked by the fighting deputies. One assemblyman, Jean Dides, an independent favorable to Poujade, was struck full in the face, and retired with blood flowing.

Poujadists tied up the Assembly last week after that body had unseated two of their delegates and declared second-place Socialists elected. Retroquer met that filibuster threat by adjourning the Assembly for three days.

The Assembly has taken up nothing but the challenged members since it approved Socialist Guy Mollet as Premier Feb. 1.

MARDI GRAS PARADE ENDS REVELRY AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 15 (UP)—The Lenten season replaced the parades and frivolity of Mardi Gras here today. As Ash Wednesday dawned, a few revelers still wandered through littered streets, but others started homeward by midnight when the bells of historic St. Louis Cathedral signaled the start of 40 days of repentance.

Thousands of costumed revelers roared a welcome to Comus, the God of festive joy and mirth, as his huge flowered floats crept along Canal street last night in the final phase of Mardi Gras.

REDS SAID TO GET COPPER MINED WITH U.S. AID

Strategic Wire Produced by British Reaches Russia, Inquiry Witness Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP).—Investigating Senators received testimony today that Russia is buying from Britain war-strategic copper wire produced from metal mined with United States financial aid.

The testimony, by Jerome S. Adlerman, assistant counsel to the Senate Investigations subcommittee, marked the start of potentially stormy public hearings.

In an opening statement, Chairman McClellan (Dem., Arkansas, accused Government officials of withholding information about what he termed mounting free world sales of strategic materials to Russia's "war machine."

"This subcommittee is determined to get that information if it is within its power to do so," McClellan said.

Senator Bender (Rep., Ohio) commented that, while he did not oppose the investigation, "we ought to use the greatest discretion." He expressed concern that repercussions against nations which are "allegedly our friends" might damage the free world's cause in the cold war.

McClellan Gives Objective.

One objective of the hearings, McClellan said, is to show whether this country keeps many items under embargo to the Soviet bloc but has consented to sale of the same items to the Russians by Allied nations. Adlerman testified that that is the case. He said the United States agreed at Paris in 1954 to remove 90 items from the list of items embargoed by free nations for sale to Russia, eased restrictions on others but left this country's own embargo and control lists unchanged.

Adlerman named Herbert Blackman, a Commerce Department official, as one of those involved in the international talks that led to the eased restrictions. He termed Blackman a "very clever young man, but not the man for the job."

Asked by Bender whether he considers Blackman competent for his post of chairman of a joint operating committee on trade policy in the Commerce Department, Adlerman said, "in my opinion he is not."

"Desperately short," Adlerman said Russia is "desperately" short of copper, and is getting "substantial quantities" from Britain with this country's consent.

Illustrating, he said this country produces 20 per cent of the world's copper output, or 900,000 tons a year. But in wartime would need twice as much. Russia, he said, produces only 10 per cent of the world supply, or 350,000 tons a year. He said "we must assume" that some copper mined in Rhodesia with the help of United States foreign aid "ended up behind the Iron Curtain" in Russia in the form of wire fabricated in Britain.

Rhodesian interests, Adlerman said, received $22,400,000 of foreign aid in dollars and about 14,000,000 in pounds sterling from this government to assist their copper mining enterprises.

Senator McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin, asked if this didn't mean the "American money under the foreign aid program was used to finance the shipment of copper through Great Britain to Russia."

"I wouldn't want to put it as directly as that," Adlerman said, then added his testimony that "we must assume" some did.

Prior inquiries into East-West trade have set off some bitter rows between the subcommittee and administration officials.

The start of public hearings came after a closed-door meeting yesterday between McClellan and Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. Neither Hoover nor McClellan would comment, but other subcommittee members, who declined to be quoted by name, said Hoover had advised strongly against a public investigation, citing possible impact on United States relations with Western allies.

McClellan said the easing of the trade curbs "has been harmful to the security of the non-Communist world."

"I would be less than frank," he said, "if I did not tell you that some of the information that has been given this subcommittee (in preliminary closed-door hearings) as to the nature and extent of the relaxation of these controls over shipments of vital and strategic material to the Soviet bloc is very disturbing."

He said the materials include heavy metal working machinery, electric generators, minerals and metals, and transportation, electronic and industrial equipment.

U.S. OUTPUT RATE NEARLY HITS 400 BILLION A YEAR

Nation's Total Production Last Year is Valued at Record $387,300,000,000.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The nation's economy missed touching an annual rate of four hundred billion dollars by only $2,700,000,000 in the closing months of last year, the government announced yesterday.

The four hundred billion annual rate for the gross national product (sum total of all goods and services produced by the country) has been a goal of administration economists for the last three years. They hoped that level might be attained as last year ended.

The office of Business Economics of the United States Department of Commerce reported the gross national product advanced all through 1955 and reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $387,300,000,000 in the final quarter.

Administration spokesmen said the four hundred billion annual rate mark probably would be reached during the first half of 1956.

Yesterday's report showed that the entire year of 1955 hung up a record gross national product value of $387,000,000,000. This was $26,500,000,000 or 7 1/2 percent higher than that for 1954 and surpassed the previous peak in 1953 by 6 percent.

Price Changes Calculated.
"Allowing for price changes," the report added, "the increase in real volume was 6 percent above 1954 and 4 percent above 1953."

National Income. according to the report, was $322,500,000,000 last year as compared with $299,500,000,000 the year before.

"Agriculture was the only major part of the economy that did not share in the income gain," the report said. "Lower farm prices more than offset the rise of farm production to a record volume."

Consumer spending, residential construction, business capital outlays, and state and local government purchases all figured prominently in the 1955 upturn.

"National security expenditures by the Federal Government, which had been one of the primary factors in the 1953-54 output decline, stabilized in 1955," the report continued. "Inventory investment, another principal factor in the earlier decline, shifted direction, moving from liquidation in 1954 to accumulation last year."

Personal consumption expenditures reached a new peak in 1955, rising to $252,500,000,000. They outstripped the 5 1/2 percent rise in disposable personal income from $255,000,000,000 in 1954 to $269,500,000,000 in 1955, and the proportion of income saved dropped from 7 percent to 6 percent on an annual basis.

New Car Sales.

Led by the record advance in new car purchases, sales of consumer durables rose to $35,500,000,000, one-fifth higher than in the preceding year. Purchases of non-durable goods and services rose steadily through the year, totaling 126 billion dollars and 91 billion dollars respectively. Each category advanced five billion dollars compared with 1954.

Gross private domestic investment rose by 12 billion dollars to a new record of 59 billion dollars. The largest single factor in the increase was the six billion dollar shift in inventory investment, from liquidation of three billion dollars in 1954 to an accumulation of similar magnitude last year. On an over-all basis, the accumulation was moderate and the ratio of inventories to sales for manufacturing and trade combined declined as a result of the relatively greater rise in sales than in stocks.

Compensation of employees was roughly 6 percent more than in either 1953 or 1954. The bulk of the advance was in private wages and salaries which rose to $173,000,000,000 as compared with $162,500,000,000 in 1954 and $164,500,000,000 in 1953.

The rise in hourly earnings was the most important element in the 1955 payroll increase, the report said. This factor and the lengthened work-week together accounted for approximately two-thirds of the total advance, with the remainder attributable to the rise in employment.

MORE WATERWAYS PREDICTED BY BARGE LINE PRESIDENT

Demands by shippers for low-cost water transportation will result in the extension of navigable waterways, construction of additional terminals, construction of more and better-designed towboats and barges, improved operating efficiency and broader co-operation between all forms of transportation, A. C. Ingersoll Jr., president of Federal Barge Lines, said yesterday.

Ingersoll, who spoke yesterday at a meeting of the Transportation Association of America in Chicago, said great advancements in the barge industry would be realized in the next 10 years. Full commercial development of the Missouri river waterways already has been planned as a result of shipper demands, he pointed out.

Text of Report On Health of President

WASHINGTON,
Feb. 15 (AP).

Following is the text of the report on the examination of President Eisenhower issued by his physicians yesterday.

THE twentieth week of convalescence following the heart attack suffered by the President on Sept. 24, 1955, was concluded by a complete cardiovascular examination at Walter Reed Army medical center on Feb. 11, 1956.

Again we can report that the President's health continues to be satisfactory.

There are no symptoms indicating either weakness of the heart muscle or insufficient coronary reserve; that is, lack of blood supply to the contracting heart muscle.

This cardio-vascular examination revealed no physical abnormalities other than those associated with the scar in the heart muscle. X-ray, fluoroscopy and cardiogram show a well-healed scar about two cm. (centimeters) in diameter in the antero-lateral aspect of the left ventricle. Measured heart shadows on X-ray films covering a period of 10 years confirm the fact that the heart has not enlarged during this period.

The President's temperature has been normal. His pulse is usually in the 60s or low 70s. After swimming or other exercises, the pulse runs up to 80 or 84, but quickly returns to its prior level in the low 70s or upper 60s. His blood pressure has been stable, occasionally above 120 systolic, at times slightly below 80 diastolic, but never at an unsatisfactorily high or low level.

The President's general circulation, including the circulation in his legs and feet, is excellent. He has suffered no attacks of shortness of breath or anginal pains or rapid pulse action.

The blood clotting time has been maintained at the desired level. The blood sedimentation rate has remained at a point about the junction of the middle and upper third of the normal range. It was 8 mm. per hour on Feb. 11, 1956.

The white blood count has remained between 6000 and 7300 with a normal distribution of types during this period. The red cell count has been slightly above 5,000,000. Study of the blood platelets and other cellular elements in the blood stream indicate no abnormalities.

The serum cholesterol varies slightly, but continues within the normal range. The cholesterol on Feb. 11 was 217 mgms.

The President's weight has not exceeded 172 pounds on a diet which is low in fats and which rarely exceeds 1800 calories per day.

Thus, the above findings show that the President has made a good recovery from the attack of coronary thrombosis which occurred last fall.

This is a more complete report than is usually issued under circumstances of this type; however, we make this report because the President wished that the people of this country be made acquainted with the facts as revealed by this recent examination.

AFFTON PUPIL AWARDED HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLARSHIP

Gary Cutting, eighth-grade pupil at Seven Holy Founders School, Affton, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to St. Louis University High School. It was announced today. The scholarship is valued at $880.

The new board of directors consists of Flug, Berdon, Mitchell, Karp, Kessel, Victor J. Vohsen of St. Louis, Charles B. Long of St. Louis and S. M. Heimlich of New York. The 61-year-old firm is one of the largest manufacturers of shoe repair machinery in the United States.

(Rankine) "Chances are" phrase that sometimes is understood.
White: Well, how do you want me to phrase it?

Q. (Rankine) Leave it out.
Say that, "we believe that medically the President should be able to."
Dr. White: All right; because we have already said "fully aware of the hazards and uncertainties that lie ahead."
That's all right.
Q. (Rankine) Thank you.
Q. (No name) Dr. White, if the President decides to run again, would there be any medical limitation on the type of campaign he could conduct?
Dr. White: That is a political question more or less, and I think he himself, if he decides to run, would have to answer that.

What do you say, Mr. Hagerty?
Hagerty: That is right.
Q. (No name) What is the political aspect of a question as to whether or not there is any medical limitation on his ability to campaign? We are asking now from a medical standpoint if it is possible for him to go through a campaign.
Dr. White: Well, I don't know about the rigors of a campaign, myself. I am not a politician, so again somebody else will have to answer that.

Q. (No name) Dr. White, how long were you with the Presi-

Dr. White: Today?
Q. (No name) Yes.
Dr. White: Oh, I think a half an hour, and then we met him

Dr. Snyder: I would say a tion, and then again later.

Dr. White: Yes.
Q. (Martin S. Hayden, Detroit News) Dr. White, avoiding any political emphasis at all, can we say that the doctors met with the President today and said that medically, so far as you are concerned,

there is no reason why he cannot run?
Dr. White: Yes, we told him just what I have said to you.
Q. (Hayden) All right.
Q. (No name) Did you tell him what Mr. Hayden said?
Dr. White: Put it in these words that I have just given you.
Q. (Merriman Smith, United Press) Dr. White, aside from what you told him, try to get this thing a lot simpler than what it is now, do you feel medically there is any reason why he should not run?
Dr. White: No; medically, I think, we would agree that his present condition and the favorable chances in the future should enable him to be able to carry on his present active life satisfactorily for this period, as I have said, for five to ten years, knowing full well, as we have just emphasized, the hazards and uncertainties of the future.

Q. (No name) His present active life?
Dr. White: His present active life.
Q. (No name) Meaning the President's?
Dr. White: The President's.
Q. (No name) Doctor, this is really a medical question: you

COURT APPROVES LIQUIDATION OF BROWN'S FIRM*Widow of Dead Board of Aldermen Parliamentarian Obtains Disposal Order.

A court order approving liquidation of Brown & Sons Tobacco Co. and disposal of its inventory, valued at $61,495, was obtained today by the widow of Robert C. Brown, murdered Board of Aldermen parliamentarian.

John B. Sharpe, attorney for Mrs. Brown, told the Post-Dispatch the inventory, consisting principally of cartons of cigarettes, tobacco and candy, had been sold at cost, for $61,495. He did not identify the buyers, although he said he understood they would open a tobacco firm in another name.

In an application filed with Probate Judge Thomas J. Boland, Mrs. Brown said continued operation of Brown & Sons was not "feasible" because it would require additional capital from her husband's estate and might endanger its assets.

The best interests of the estate would be served by orderly liquidation of the firm, Mrs. Brown's petition stated. At the same time she obtained Judge Boland's approval to continue operation of the W-R Cigarette Co., another firm in which she and her husband were partners, also with offices at 3723 Goodfellow boulevard.

Operation of the W-R Cigarette Co., a vending machine firm, would not involve any expenditure of funds in the estate, the petition stated.

Brown, who was shot to death in an alley near his home, 4562 Holly place, left his entire estate to his wife, who was named executrix in the will.

SPECIALIST MAKES ANY DECISION NOT TO RUN HARDER

White initiated the speculation about the future by reading an addition to the official statement.

This was written in his own handwriting on a small library card. Though the questioning started immediately after the official statement was read, Dr. White interrupted to get a record of the statement he had written.

This said that "after weighing very carefully all available evidence, including our own experience, and fully aware of the hazards and uncertainties that lie ahead, we believe that medically... the President should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years. But the choice," he added as an afterthought, "is his, not ours."

Meaning of "Active Life." This handwritten addition to the mimeographed "medical statement" opened a floodgate of questions that had definite political implications. What was meant by "an active life"—did he mean in the presidency? The doctor clearly didn't want to get into that, but having raised the question, he finally had to answer it and he agreed, yes, he meant an "active life" in the presidency.

There was some confusion about whether Dr. White meant the full burdens of the presidency, or the routine he is now carrying. Dr. White seemed to be saying he could carry on the present routine, which included one vacation in Key West in January, another in Georgia starting today, and a two-hour rest each afternoon. However, when a questioner asserted that Eisenhower has not been "bearing the full load of the presidency" Mr. Hagerty said:

"Well, all I can refer you to is the schedule for the last five weeks, and if they are not full working schedules of the President... I don't know what is—with the exception of dinners and social events."

In short, the White House is saying that the President is now carrying a full load of work, Dr. White is saying that, but as the President's health is concerned, the chances are he can carry that load for another five years, and that anyway, Dr. White does not think that "stress and strain" are the "fundamental cause" of arteriosclerosis, which is the disease back of coronary thrombosis.

ruption in service. Hollis has assured Matthews, the latter said, that he would co-operate with the county police and that he intended to retain all the present deputy sheriffs. Hollis said he would ask the circuit judges, meeting en banc today, to approve the deputies' appointments.

Hollis, a Republican, has agreed not to seek election for the full term of office at the elections this fall. Walter Wehrle, one of Mosley's attorneys, said he advised the sheriff that the Missouri Supreme Court's action recently in declining to give Mosley a rehearing on its ouster order closed the door on any further legal proceedings to be taken in his behalf.

Mosley agreed with this position, Wehrle said. Mosley has been sheriff since 1944. His salary is $10,000 a year. Police powers were removed from the sheriff's office and given to the newly-established county police department last July 1 as a result of a charter amendment.

St. Louisans Request

of important business men about our air service."

Edwin M. Clark, president of Civic Progress Inc., told of a survey started yesterday at the field by a group of engineers who are gathering data concerning airline schedules, field operation, military use of the field and other matters.

"Inadequate Service." "We have an awakened city," he said, "in the past our facilities for airlines passengers have not been tempting, but they will be in a month." He was referring to the scheduled opening of the new terminal building at the field.

The survey is being financed by the Airport Commission and the chamber's airport committee. The facts obtained will be used by the chamber in hearings before the Civil Aeronautics Board to assist airlines in obtaining certificates of necessity to include St. Louis on their routes.

Howard F. Baer, of the city's airport commission, said St. Louis is not seeking to deprive other cities of air service. It merely wants service that is deemed adequate for a city of its size and importance, he said. Lee K. Matthews, director of the chamber's transportation committee, presented statistics designed to show the number of airline passengers in St. Louis as compared with national totals, the amount of air traffic carried into and out of the city and the number of aircraft arrivals and departures in relation to national totals.

Samuel H. Liberman, city counselor, the last speaker in the delegation, referred to recent decisions of the CAB in granting additional airline service to Denver, Kansas City and Louisville.

"Awakened City." In the Denver case, he said, the board found that Denver's long-haul needs justified service by a second transcontinental carrier. In a Chicago-New York case, the board noted that "competitive air service offers greater assurance that the public will receive the quality and quantity of air service to which it is entitled."

The board's decision in the Kansas City case will provide that city with direct service to the Pacific Northwest.

"The number of enplaning airline passengers in 1954 in St. Louis," he said, "was 538,481 as compared with 482,065 in Denver and 461,540 in Kansas City."

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Mo., introduced each of the members of the St. Louis delegation and told the committee that the St. Louis area had been "bypassed and overlooked" when it comes to adequate airline service.

Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Mo., who also attended the two hour and 15 minute hearing, said St. Louis is "a milk-run stop on airline schedules" as compared with other cities.

C. E. Woolman, president of Delta Air Lines, in a statement delivered to the subcommittee, said the number of passengers between St. Louis and New Orleans did not warrant non-stop service between the two cities. He added that most passengers leaving St. Louis on their airline go to Chicago, Memphis or Houston, and that Delta has non-stop flights between St. Louis and those points.

HALF OF PUBLIC
FAVORS FIXED FEES BY DOCTORS

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—About half the public thinks doctors should charge the same fees to all persons, regardless of ability to pay.

Two-thirds of the doctors favor a sliding scale, charging some patients more than others. These divergent views were shown today in a report on nationwide survey sponsored by the American Medical Association to determine what complaints people have about doctors and how services can be improved.

The public and the nation's doctors are even more sharply divided on whether advance news reports to the public on experimental drugs and treatments are desirable.

Four-fifths of the 500 doctors questioned in the survey believe such publicity causes more harm than good. However, a majority of the 3500 lay persons questioned contended such reports create interest and speed up research.

Viewpoints also differed on the question of fee-splitting. Eighty-one per cent of the doctors questioned believed the public has an exaggerated impression of fee-splitting. Only 10 per cent of the public shared that view.

LEGION POST WANTS U.S.
TO FORGIVE TOKYO ROSE

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 15 (AP)—Tokyo Rose should be forgiven for her World War II broadcasts to United States servicemen in the South Pacific, members of the Cultive-Ward American Legion Post resolved last night.

The resolution asked that Mrs. Ivan Ikudko Toguri D'Aquino be restored to United States citizenship. It said Mrs. D'Aquino, who was released from the Federal reformatory for women in Alderson, W. Va., in January after serving six years, has paid her debt to society.

The Legion post's request will be sent to Congressman (Rep.), Ohio, urging him to suggest to the Department of Justice that it reconsider its decision ordering Mrs. D'Aquino deported.

"Stabbing" Attempted Suicide. CLEVELAND, Feb. 15 (AP)—Police Capt. David E. Kerr said last night the director of the Western Reserve Historical Society admitted he attempted to commit suicide by stabbing himself with a museum scalpel.

Dr. J. H. Starn, who first blamed an intruder, Detectives said Storm attributed the suicide attempt to a "burden of decisions."

TALK ON LOUIS ARMSTRONG ON B.B.C.'S HIGHBROW SHOW

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Old Satchmo has finally made the grade in one of Britain's most select temples of culture.

Famed trumpeter Louis Armstrong will be the subject of a lecture on the British Broadcasting Corp.'s Third Program, which is so highbrow that even the highbrows are perplexed by some of the talks.

B.B.C. announced today that Eric Hobsbawm, lecturer in history at the University of London, would talk on "The Art of Louis Armstrong" on Feb. 26. Listeners also will hear recordings of Armstrong's "Struttin' With Some Barbecue," "West End Blues" and "It's Tight Like That."

Argentine Church Bombed.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 15 (AP)—A bomb exploded yesterday at the main door of a Roman Catholic church at Segundo in Argentina's central Cordoba province. No one was injured, but damage was extensive.

UNION WON'T TALK UNTIL MITCHELL LEAVES HAWAII

HONOLULU, Feb. 15 (AP)—Contract talks in the strike-threatened sugar and pineapple fields were stalemated today by union refusal to meet until United States Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell "has left the territory."

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, announced the union's stand less than 12 hours after Mitchell arrived for a nine-day visit.

The Secretary spoke last night at a Republican $100-a-plate Lincoln day dinner but made no mention of the controversy.

The Secretary started the controversy when he told newsmen it was his opinion the ILWU leadership was subversive. He named Jack W. Hall, the ILWU leader in Hawaii, who is appealing a conviction under the Smith Act.

Dwight Steele, president of the Employers Council, called the union action "highly improper." He told Bridges "We reject your proposal to delay the talks."

Bridges replied: "We're not asking your agreement. We've taken that action. We just won't be available while Mitchell is around."

KOREAN SHIP THAT FOUGHT WITH JAPANESE HUNTED

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (UPI)—Fifteen armed coast guard ships from Japan hunted today for a Korean vessel that battled with Japanese fishing boats in a pirate-like skirmish off Tushima island.

Crews of the three fishing vessels fought with pistols and long knives yesterday. The Korean vessel slipped away as a Coast Guard boat raced to the scene.

Kyodo news agency said the unidentified Korean vessel lured the Koyo-Maru by signaling it had engine trouble, and then one of the Koreans opened fire. A second Japanese boat, the Chosei-Maru, rammed the Korean craft, allowing the Japanese crew to swarm over it with knives swinging.

DEATH OF JAPANESE LAID TO 1945 HIROSHIMA RAID

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Kyodo news service today blamed the 1945 atomic bombing of Hiroshima for the death of Kazuo Sasaki.

It said Sasaki died yesterday in a Hiroshima hospital of a liver ailment and anemia caused by atomic radiation. He had become ill in May 1952, the report said. He was 52 years old.

Sasaki was the third Hiroshima resident to die this year from "atomic sickness," Kyodo said.

RED CHINA SAYS RUSSIANS WILL SUPPLY ATOM REACTOR

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Peiping news said today that Russia would set up a 6500-kilowatt experimental atomic reactor in Red China to be used to train Chinese scientists and technicians.

"With Soviet assistance, (Communists) China plans within a short period of time to master the world's most advanced scientific techniques in atomic energy," the broadcast said.

BURGLARS KEEP HEAT ON HOT
CANARY TAVERN

JERSEYVILLE, Ill., Feb. 15—The heat's been on the Hot Canary tavern for the last two weeks, burglars having broken into the place on Highway 67 near the Jersey-Madison county line, four times.

The latest break-in was during the weekend, Sheriff Herman C. Kirchner reported. "It was a different outfit that committed the last robbery," Kirchner said.

"Five youths, arrested in Madison county, have admitted earlier burglaries at the tavern," the sheriff said. Two have been brought here and are free on bond awaiting the convening of the grand jury in March, he added.

Also, in the latest burglary, the thieves were more destructive. They tore a door off the tavern and threw it into the yard. The earlier burglars went through a window. Last weekend liquor was taken, cigarette machines and coin-operated record players were raided and the place was torn up in general.

WOMAN PAST 40 CAN HAVE BABY SAFELY, STUDY SHOWS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 15 (AP)—Women beyond 40 years can have babies safely because of the latest surgical and medical progress, says Dr. Andrew A. Marchetti of Georgetown University.

He told 400 obstetricians that a study of 300 women between 35 and 44 years showed that all gave birth to babies with no maternal mortality.

"This proves," he said yesterday, "that older women can have babies safely if due care is taken. They can have babies just as well as can their younger sisters. Admittedly, however, there is somewhat more chance of miscarriages. None of the 300 we studied ever had had a baby before."

FIRE LOSS $350,000 IN EDWARDSVILLE

2-Story Building Housing Stores, Office Burns After Blast.

A two-story building in the Edwardsville business district was destroyed by fire early today, with damage estimated at $350,000 by Fire Chief Dennis Hentz.

The building, of brick construction at 120 North Main, was occupied by the Silverbloom department store and Overbeck paint shop on the ground floor, and Overbeck's stock room and the offices of Wayne B. Cox, optometrist, upstairs.

CROWD OF 40,000 HEARS BILLY GRAHAM IN HONG KONG

HONG KONG, Feb. 15 (AP)—American Evangelist Billy Graham addressed 40,000 persons jammed into a football stadium here tonight. Hundreds were turned away.

A choir of 2000 sang at the rally. Only a few persons stepped forward when Graham called for "decisions for Christ," however.

The fire started with an explosion at 3:40 a.m., and residents of apartments across the street were awakened by shattering glass, Hentz said. The cause was not determined.

Edwardsville's five full-time firemen and 26 volunteers, aided by firemen and equipment from Wood River and Collinsville, confined the blaze to the building.

The roof and the ground-floor ceiling fell in, and the optometrist lost all of his equipment. Its value estimated by the fire chief at approximately $10,000.

No one was injured.

TRANSFER OF COUNTY NEGRO PUPILS ASKED

Urged to Shift Group to Schall School.

A request that a group of Negro pupils be transferred to Schall School in Webster Groves, now attended by only a few Negroes, was being considered by the Webster Groves Board of Education today.

Morris Henderson, president of the St. Louis county branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and two others made the request at the board's monthly meeting Monday night.

They presented a petition signed by a number of parents, asserting that their children are required to walk six to eight blocks to Douglas School, where the attendance is all Negro, and that Schall is four to six blocks closer.

The Supreme Court decision of 1954 calling for an end of segregation was cited in the petition.

Leonard A. Steger, Webster Groves superintendent of schools, said the present districting was decided upon because the routes to school are the most convenient for the children, and safest with regard to traffic. He said there are four or five other instances in the district similar to that involving Schall and Douglas.

A small number of Negro children attend Schall and Bristol Schools, Steger said.

Last spring the board received a petition similar to the present one but decided to go ahead as before. Pupils in the first six grades were integrated last September, and the others are to be integrated next September. Those who prefer to remain where they have been, however, are permitted to do so.

PRESIDENT WAITS FOR HEART REPORT BY KEEPING ON JOB

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower kept to his job yesterday—the day picked for the doctors to tell him just how far he had recovered from his heart attack.

He had his usual morning callers. They included Mobilization Director Arthur S. Fleming, the Republican leaders of Congress and economic advisers Arthur Burns and Gabriel Hauge.

While the doctors talked among themselves, Mr. Eisenhower took his regular swim in the White House pool.

At 12:20 p.m. he went to his living quarters with Dr. Paul Dudley White, the chief heart consultant, and Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the President's personal physician. There Dr. White gave the President his conclusions in an hour-long session.

Gen. Snyder and Dr. White joined the other doctors for luncheon downstairs in the White House and discussed the President's health. At 2:30 p.m. all the doctors spent a half hour with Mr. Eisenhower going over the report they later issued.

As the doctors met with newsmen across the street in the old State Department auditorium between 3:25 p.m. and 3:58, Mr. Eisenhower went on with his usual work.

WESTERN ENVOYS RESUME TALKS ON MIDDLE EAST

Meeting Called Rejection of Russian Bid for Influence in Holy Land.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—American, British and French diplomats resumed today their talks on a possible course of action to prevent war in the Middle East.

Assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen, a specialist in Middle Eastern affairs, met French Ambassador Maurice Couve de Murville and British Minister John Coulson.

Francis O. Wilcox, assistant secretary for United Nations affairs, joined the meeting. A number of United States, British and French aids also were there. The meeting was a pointed rejection of Russia's attempt Monday night to deal the Soviet Union in on any action chosen by the western Big Three to keep the Palestine truce.

They are under orders to recommend by March 1 "the nature of the action which we should take" if either the Arabs or the Israelis try to force the truce lines. Those orders were laid down by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Eden in their Washington conference two weeks ago, and accepted by the French.

March 1 is considered a key date because Israel has served notice that, unless the Arabs have agreed by then to joint development of the Jordan river, the Israelis will go it alone. If that happens, Syria has indicated it may act militarily to prevent diversion of Jordan waters which flow from Israel into Syria.

Furthermore, soon after March 1 Egyptian forces are expected to be trained in the use of new weapons acquired from the Soviet bloc.

Last Monday night, the Soviet Foreign Office issued a statement saying Russia opposes "entry of foreign troops" in the Middle East without prior approval of "interested governments" and the United Nations Security Council. The Russians obviously consider themselves an interested government.

This marked the strongest Soviet bid yet for an effective hand in a critical situation which the three Western powers have been treating as outside the Soviet area of interest. The State Department served notice yesterday that the Big Three would continue to regard the Middle East in this light.

Syrian Leaders Praise Russian Middle East Warning.

DAMASCUS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Syrian leaders today applauded a Soviet warning against Western intervention in the Middle East. Many interpreted the Russian move as a declaration of support for the Arab position.

Faris el Khouri, Syria's 83-year-old elder statesman, said he believed the declaration "has reduced the threat of close war" between the Arabs and Israelis.

BALLOON ASTRAY OVER RUSSIA QUITS SENDING SIGNALS

TOKYO, Feb. 15 (AP)—An American weather balloon which went astray over Russia stopped sending radio signals tonight and apparently landed at an undetermined location, the Navy said.

The balloon, launched from Japan and supposed to travel to the United States, last radioed its position at 6:20 a.m. Wednesday (3:20 p.m. Tuesday St. Louis time) 30,000 feet above the Siberian city of Chita, some 1,300 miles inland and near the border of Outer Mongolia.

The Navy earlier said the balloon was moving southwest toward Outer Mongolia at 115 miles per hour and predicted it would continue several hundred miles westward into the Asian continent before resuming its America-bound course in the normal west-to-east winds.

"Wild and unpredictable" winds and abnormally low pressure over the Aleutians were blamed by the Navy for causing the balloon to reverse its trans-Pacific course.

He said the Russians stand would cause the Western powers "to act more seriously" to prevent Israel from carrying through its plan to divert the waters of the Jordan river for irrigation purposes.

Dr. Mar'of Dawalibi, deputy chairman of Parliament's foreign affairs committee, said the Soviet warning made it clear that "any new Israeli adventure will result in world-wide consequences."

Israeli Paper Warns West Plan May Start 'Second Korea'.

TEL AVIV, Israel, Feb. 15 (AP)—The right-wing Tel Aviv Daily Heruth warned today that the British-American proposal to send United Nations troops to the Middle East to prevent an Arab-Israeli war might start a "second Korea."

The paper said the move—even if only a "political measure to frighten Israel"—would be "made to measure for the Soviet Union's purposes." Heruth explained that it would give Moscow "the excuse to transform the region into a Korea-style battleground."

PLAYBOY PLEADS GUILTY OF OIL
STOCK SWINDLERobert Schlesinger Used $132,000 of Money to Buy Jewels for Linda Christian.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Robert H. Schlesinger, 38-year-old playboy son of a millionaire mother, pleaded guilty yesterday of an oil stock swindle.

He had used $132,000 of the proceeds from a shaky Louisiana oil promotion to buy jewelry for actress Linda Christian. Schlesinger faces a possible maximum sentence of 10 to 20 years. He might get off with less by making restitution to the three men he duped in the oil deal. Sentencing was scheduled for March 14.

Harris B. Steinberg, Schlesinger's lawyer, told the court: "He realizes the foolishness of his past acts and as a first step towards straightening out his life he has to realize that he has wronged other people and to make whatever redress is possible."

Steinberg said Schlesinger, an Air Force veteran, now has a steady job as a pilot and flight instructor.

Schlesinger's mother inherited $12,000,000 in 1953 from her second husband, Harrison Williams. She is now married to Count Albert Edward Bismarck. She has long been rated one of the world's best dressed women.

Schlesinger was the object of a six-month search before he voluntarily returned from a Canadian hideout last December. At first he pleaded not guilty to eight counts covering a $330,000 swindle. Yesterday he was allowed to plead guilty to two counts, covering $170,000 of the total.

Schlesinger got three men to invest in the Louisiana promotion by telling them the deal was so good that his mother was investing a million of her own money in it.

Richard and John W. Herzfeld, Milwaukee department store owners, were taken for $30,000 apiece.

Robert B. McCulloch, former St. Louisian, now a Los Angeles auto dealer, first gave Schlesinger $120,000 and later followed with a check for another $150,000. McCulloch stopped payment on the check after Schlesinger had invested $132,000 of it in jewels for Miss Christian, former wife of Actor Tyrone Power.

The check bounced and a big Fifth Avenue jewelry firm, Van Cleef & Apple, demanded that Miss Christian return the jewels. At first she refused, but later returned them for an undisclosed settlement. Schlesinger fled after his indictment last May 26.

McCulloch is the son of the late Richard McCulloch, who was president of the United Railways Co., which operated the St. Louis streetcar system for many years. Robert McCulloch's grandfather was John I. Beggs, a multimillionaire utility owner. McCulloch shared in the $30,000,000 Beggs estate. He left St. Louis 20 years ago.

GETS 35 YEARS IN FATAL
AUTO CHASE OF EX-WIFE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 15 (AP)—Prentiss T. Parrish, 23 years old, was sentenced yesterday to 35 years after he was convicted of second degree murder of Shirley Ann Miller, 19, in a high speed automobile chase.

Mrs. Miller, his former wife, fled in her car Sept. 22 after Parrish struck at the window of the automobile with a bayonet. With Parrish in pursuit in another car. The young woman drove her automobile into a fatal crash with another vehicle at an intersection.

Nathan Schevitz, assistant state attorney, said the state's theory was that Parrish so terrified Mrs. Miller that her involuntary act of passing through a stop sign at the intersection became the act of Parrish.

ARDENT PHONE COURTSHIP

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Frank Saye was accused by his divorced wife, Rose, of being too ardent in attempting to woo her back.

She told Municipal Judge Joseph A. Pope yesterday that Saye, a truck driver, had telephoned her 343 times in the last month. Last Saturday, she said, he telephoned her 67 times. She said she doesn't want him back. The couple divorced a year ago, have a 3-year-old son.

Khrushchev New Red Dictator, British Commentators Say Think His Behavior at Party Congress Ended Committee Rule Which Followed Stalin Death.

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP) — British commentators pictured Nikita S. Khrushchev today as the new dictator of the Soviet Union. They credited him with all the might of the late Joseph Stalin, and the undisputed authority to revise basic Marxist doctrine.

They said his behavior at the opening of the twentieth congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow yesterday and his long speech confirmed his position and ended once and for all the "rule by committee" which followed Stalin's death.

"Khrushchev the dictator," headlined the Daily Mail (Conservative), whose diplomatic correspondent wrote:

"Mr. Khrushchev, the 61-year-old Soviet Communist party leader, has won the struggle for supreme power in Russia. . . with Stalin-like authority he showed he intends to exercise full control over both home and foreign affairs."

"Khrushchev makes it clear he's boss," said the Daily Herald (Labor). The Daily Sketch echoed: "Khrushchev shows he's boss."

Said the Express: "The ex-miner, son of a miner, stands in the floodlights of the Kremlin's white and gold palace and speaks with all the authority and assurance of the supreme boss of Russia. The new Stalin."

The Independent Times commented: "By delivering the report of the central committee of the Communist party in his capacity of first secretary, Mr. Khrushchev appears to have gained increased stature. It was Stalin himself who delivered the congress reports until just before his death. It was this appearance by (Georgi) Malenkov at the previous party congress (in 1952) that indicated he was in line for succession as prime minister."

Virtually all the papers emphasized Khrushchev's revision of Marxist tenets—his pronouncements that war is not inevitable, that violence and revolution are not necessary to install Communism worldwide, and that the world is not divided into two irreconcilable camps.

The Manchester Guardian echoed Khrushchev for declaring letters with President Eisenhower.

French Interested in Socialism, Coexistence Paris Speech.
The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

PARIS, Feb. 15—French observers were particularly impressed by two points in the Khrushchev speech:

1. His contention that the "transition to socialism" might now be attained in other countries by parliamentary means, although this had not been possible in Russia.

2. His statement that the "Marxist-Leninist premise" of the inevitability of war, while true at the time it was enunciated, was not necessarily true today in a changed situation. Thus coexistence between Communist and capitalist states was possible, he held.

The Communists here have made strenuous efforts for several months to form a coalition with the Socialists and some radicals.

Writing in France-Tireur, Charles Ronsac said this was the first time Moscow had given its blessings to revolution by parliamentary methods.

Ronsac thought the speech confirmed that Khrushchev was not only first secretary of the Communist party but the dominant member of the "collective" direction of the Soviet empire.

British Note That Offer on Bomb Tests Is Not New.
The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

LONDON, Feb. 15—British diplomats noted today that Nikita S. Khrushchev's offer on Russia's behalf to agree to stop hydrogen bomb tests pending agreement on major questions of disarmament was not new.

The Moscow radio made a similar offer last autumn without tying it to agreement on disarmament. The British position then—and presumably now—is that the Government is willing to discuss any practical measures.

Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons Monday that the United States and British governments shared the conviction that "the radiation dose to a human being arising from ingestion (hydrogen bomb) weapons . . . was insignificant compared with the radiation dose received from natural causes."

This statement probably completed the gradual decrease in public interest in the left-wing campaign to "ban the H-bomb tests." Britain's hydrogen bomb tests are to take place this year.

One expert on the Soviet Union dissected Khrushchev's proposals for "partial" disarmament in this manner:

1. Cessation of tests of thermonuclear weapons would mean the Soviet Union had made all tests necessary at this stage and knew Britain and the United States each had tests scheduled.

2. A bar on atomic weapons in Germany would mean, if accepted, that the United States would withdraw its atomic artillery and the Russians would withdraw nothing since they had no such artillery.

3. Reduction of military budgets would mean the Russians would juggle their budget that way next year without cutting arms expenditure.

DONNELLY OK'S BOND VOTE, SILENT ON SPECIAL SESSION
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 15—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly issued a proclamation today formally declaring the approval of the $75,000,000 state building bond issue by Missouri voters, but declined to say when he will call the Legislature into special session to allocate the bond funds.

Donnelly would not discuss the date or scope of the special session, saying he had not prepared the official call. He previously announced he will call the Legislature back to work to decide how the bond funds should be distributed among state eleemosynary, penal and higher education institutions.

The Governor issued the formal proclamation on the bond issue after receiving the Secretary of State's official canvass of the Jan. 24 special election. That report showed the bond proposal was approved 114,570 to 46,609, in the smallest turnout in a state election in more than 30 years.

U.S. STATE AID URGED IN TRANSIT SURVEY

Head of Metropolitan Committee Seeks Financing for Study.

A request that Missouri and federal highway agencies pay for the most expensive part of the proposed survey of mass transportation problems of the St. Louis area was made yesterday by James E. Crowe, chairman of the Citizens' Metropolitan Transit Committee.

Crowe said he conferred with state highway officials in Jefferson City and asked that the state and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads finance the traffic origin and destination part of the survey. He said this portion is estimated to cost from $200,000 to $250,000.

This part of the study, Crowe said, would require interviews of residents of 17,500 homes in this area to determine their uses of transportation facilities. This would constitute a 5 per cent sample considered necessary for a valid survey, he added.

Crowe said Samuel Rudder, state highway planning engineer, and Robert L. Hyder, highway department counsel, were "receptive" to his proposal and told him they would advise him later of a decision on it.

The last such survey, Crowe said, was made in 1946 and is now "almost useless" because of the subsequent increase in automobiles and the expansion of populated areas.

In addition, he said, payment of this part of the cost of the entire survey would enable St. Louis and St. Louis county to fulfill their commitments in financing the study.

Crowe said he was unable at present to provide an estimate of the cost of the entire project, which is to include the study of the feasibility of some form of rapid transit system.

He said he felt the study would provide the federal agency with information on which to base planning for future highway developments. The transit committee is studying proposals submitted by engineering firms for the survey, which is to serve as the basis for a comprehensive program to meet the transportation needs of the area.

duplicates hand-washing methods

Every item on this young miss can be washed automatically—and beautifully—in the new Maytag. It does the same three things you do when you hand-wash delicate things.

1. Gentle action. Maytag's "Modern Fabrics" cycle automatically slows agitation and spinning speed. Set wash time for as little as one minute, if you like.

2. Controlled water level. Maytag's exclusive Automatic Water Level Control matches water to the load. Set on low for small loads, save up to 11½ gallons!

3. Cold water wash and rinse. Push Maytag's "Cold" water button—wash even cashmere automatically! Perfect for all heat sensitive synthetics. (Choice of hot or warm water, too.) Maytag's Gyrafoam washing action is so thorough, regular fabrics get Maytag clean.

FOUR CAPTAINS TRANSFERRED IN SHIFT OF POLICE

Troy Ferber Relieves Leonard Murphy as Night Chief—Health
May Be Reason.

Transfers of four police captains "for the good of the service" were announced today by Chief Jeremiah O'Connell.

Capt. Troy Ferber, deputy commander of the Traffic Division, will become night chief of police. Capt. Leonard Murphy, present night chief, will take over as night supervisor of the record room at police headquarters.

Capt. James Doherty was shifted from the Newstead Avenue Station to the inspector's office as deputy inspector of police. The present occupant of that position, Capt. Ola McCallister, was transferred to the Newstead Avenue command.

The transfers are effective tomorrow.

While Chief O'Connell declined to spell out the reasons for the shifts, observers at headquarters believe they are attributable to the recent physical examinations which captains were ordered to take.

It is known the chief is eager to get younger and more active men in the front line for the active fight on crime. Capt. Murphy has been ill recently. His replacement as night chief by Capt. Ferber will permit a more active man to be on the streets when close supervision is necessary, it was said.

UNION NAMED IN SHOW-CAUSE ORDER IN COCA-COLA STRIKE

Teamsters Union Local 688 was ordered today by United States District Judge Ruben M. Hulen to show cause why the union should not be enjoined from alleged unfair labor practices in the strike of 200 drivers of the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. A hearing was set for Friday, Feb. 24.

The action was taken after Ralph E. Kennedy, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, filed a petition for an injunction against the union upon complaint by the company. The petition asks that the union be enjoined from including employees of various retail outlets to refuse to handle Coca-Cola.

Three charges of unfair labor practices against the union must be settled before an election may be held among the 200 drivers, the NLRB ruled Monday. Harold Gibbons, secretary-treasurer of Local 688, said that "when the board claims it has a policy of not proceeding in representation cases while unfair labor practice charges are pending, it fails to state that it also has a policy of dismissing such charges in cases where the company is operating in bad faith."

POPE APPEALS TO CHILDREN OF U.S. TO GIVE FOR POOR

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 15 (UPI)—Pope Pius XII appealed to American Catholic school children today to "give until it hurts" in Lenten collections for the help of poor and suffering children "in a world of wonders and tears."

The Pontiff made his appeal in a recorded message which was broadcast from New York. It was the first time in three years that the 79-year-old Pope's health had enabled him to record the appeal which he started in 1945 to help the children of war-shattered homes.

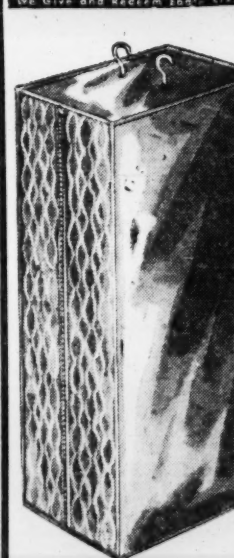

"Lent is indeed the opportunity time to give until it hurts, at least a little, to the poor and suffering members of His (God's) body," the Pope said. "By all means let your collection this year break all your records for a generosity that has long since merited for your country the admiration of a grateful world."

LUTHERAN HOSPITAL HONORS 29 RED CROSS GRAY LADIES

Twenty-nine volunteers of the Red Cross Gray Lady service received special awards last night from the administrative staff of Lutheran Hospital at a dinner in their honor at the hospital. The group has contributed 6376 hours of service in the last year.

Kenneth Woltz, administrator, commended the volunteers who "perform many and varied services which make the stay of patients more congenial and leave members of the professional staff free to perform more urgent duties." Mrs. O. E. Pfeiffer, 4954 Parker street, received a red service bar for 14 years of Red Cross service.

Is part of this traffic crowding the wrong road?

We think it is. And its presence wastes your time, frays your nerves and creates added hazards for you and your family.

Many trucks on the highways perform vital hauling services. But many others carry freight that would ride the rails—out of your way—if the railroads were permitted to price their services competitively.

Even when the railroads can haul freight more economically than the trucks, present transport regulations often prevent us from giving you the benefit of these economies.

This helps keep your highways cluttered with big trucks. It also keeps you from benefiting from lower freight charges. A Cabinet Committee appointed by the President of the United States to study the problem recommends relying more on competition and less on regulation to set freight rates.

Such competitive pricing will help you. And it will help us to serve you and all our friends and neighbors more economically and helpfully than ever. We're for it.

STEVENSON SAYS U.S. IS UNREADY IN NEW COLD WAR

He Accuses G.O.P. of Trying to 'Sell' Instead of 'Explain' Foreign Policy.

The New York Times News Service. Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 15—Adlai E. Stevenson charged last night that Eisenhower Administration policies had left the country unprepared for a new Communist cold war offensive of perilous proportions. He described our situation as "more perilous than ever."

"At a Democratic fund-raising dinner he accused the administration of trying to 'sell' instead of 'explain' American foreign policy to the one third of mankind not yet committed to Soviet Russia or the west."

Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential nominee and candidate for the party's 1956 nomination said the administration was attempting to conduct one foreign policy for the nation and another for the Republican party, at the same time.

New Phase of Cold War.

"Meanwhile," he said, "the cold war has entered a new phase. The Communists are on the move again—with aid, trade, arms, goodwill missions, technical missions, student exchanges, athletes and neutrality propaganda—while people in high places in our government shout 'no help to neutrals—you've got to be for us or against us.'"

Stevenson chose Seattle for a foreign policy speech just as Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, another Democratic presidential aspirant, had done last November, when he made a direct onslaught against President Eisenhower in the foreign policy field.

Stevenson noted that Seattle was at the "western doorway" of the nation. Therefore, on its doorstep, he said, would be delivered, sooner than many thought, the question whether millions of Asians would improve their living standards the Western way or the Communist way.

Too many of them, he said, were hearing things from us that leave "the emphasis on 'Goa' and colonialism, on 'the brink of war' and atomic devastation of Asians; and more military pacts and less economic assistance."

Foreign Policy by Slogans.

He condemned the conduct of foreign policy by slogans, threats, boasts or subordination to domestic politics.

Stevenson said he agreed with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles's recent call upon "Patriotic citizens" not to "shake confidence abroad in the solidarity of the United States' position" on foreign policy.

He added, however, that he wished Dulles had felt the same way four years ago "when he wrote the Republican platform which charged that President Truman's administration had 'squandered the unprecedented power and prestige' of this nation, and 'abandoned...friendly nations to fend for themselves against Communist aggression.'"

"This in spite of the fact," Stevenson asserted, "that President Truman did more to fight the spread of Communism than any living man—before, yes, and since."

"I do not for a moment suggest that honorable men will find license in this sorry precedent. But let there be no hypocritical protest that criticism is unfair and un-American—when it is of Republicans by Democrats."

Not All Wrong.

Stevenson dissociated himself from those who feel, or say "for partisan advantage," that all the administration of President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles have done in the foreign policy field is wrong or has wholly failed.

He said, however, he was "shocked" when he read daily that "all is well, that any criticism of this Administration and its frequent and foolish failures is just campaign oratory."

"The fact of the matter is," he declared, "that as we enter the second decade since the last war, devastated, bleeding Russia is more powerful than ever before and enfeebled war-torn China is a pervading influence throughout Asia."

"We have been spending 40 billions of dollars a year for peace and security—and there is none. There isn't even a preponderant power in the new weapons any longer, as we are now learning from escaping facts, yes, and resigning officials."

By the Associated Press.

Meantime in Los Angeles, the president of that city's branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called Stevenson's position on civil rights "absolutely not acceptable" to his group.

"By his words alone, Adlai Stevenson has made it impossible for Negroes anywhere to support him in good conscience," attorney Thomas G. Nelson, president of the 25,000-member Los Angeles branch of the N.A.A.C.P., told a press conference yesterday.

During his recent three-day visit in Los Angeles, Stevenson said he did not believe segregation should be enforced with federal troops. He also declined to endorse the Powell amendment which would withhold federal funds to school districts which practiced segregation. Later Stevenson said he hoped segregation would not be made an election issue.

Meat Packer Reuben Rath Dies.

The TRUMAN MEMOIRS

Mr. Truman 'Busts Loose'
Against G.O.P. Demands That He Fire Acheson . . . How Bi-Partisanship Ought to Work.

By HARRY S. TRUMAN

Thirty-third President of the United States.
TWENTY-SECOND ARTICLE, VOLUME II

THE mail, telephone and telegraph messages that poured into the White House after this radio speech (on Dec. 15, 1950, proclaiming a national emergency because of the Korean War) indicated overwhelming approval. Only a small percentage were in dissent. But I was greatly annoyed that there should arise at this time a noisy clamor of complaints by some Senators that I should prove my desire to promote the national interest by, of all things, firing Dean Acheson!

The Secretary of State had long been under attack from certain elements of the press and of the Congress. This most recent attack on him aroused me to such anger that I issued a statement. I am sure that Acheson would not have consented, either to the statement or to its tone, if he had been in Washington at the time! However, I had once told a press conference that I would "bust loose" one of these days—and this was it!

Mr. Truman Speaks Up for Acheson.

"There have been new attacks," I said, "within the past week against Secretary of State Acheson. I have been asked to remove him from office. The authors of this suggestion claim that this would be good for the country.

"How our position in the world would be improved by the retirement of Dean Acheson from public life is beyond me. Mr. Acheson has helped shape and carry out our policy of resistance to Communist imperialism. From the time of our sharing of arms with Greece and Turkey nearly four years ago, and coming down to the recent moment when he advised me to resist the Communist invasion of South Korea, no official in our government has been more alive to Communism's threat to freedom or more forceful in resisting it.

"At this moment, he is in Brussels representing the United States in setting up mutual defenses against aggression. This has made it possible for me to designate General Eisenhower as Supreme Allied Commander in Europe. "If Communism were to prevail in the world today—as it shall not prevail—Dean Acheson would be one of the first, if not the first, to be shot by the enemies of liberty and Christianity.

"These recent attacks on Mr. Acheson are old in the sense that they are the same false charges that have been made time and time again over a period of months. They have no basis in fact whatever.

"It is the same sort of thing that happened to Seward. President Lincoln was asked by a group of Republicans to dismiss Secretary of State Seward. He refused. So do I refuse to dismiss Secretary Acheson.

"If I did anything else, it would weaken the firm and vigorous position this country has taken against Communist aggression.

"If those groups attacking our foreign policy and Mr. Acheson have any alternative policies to offer, they should disclose them. They owe it to their country. This is a time for hard facts and close thinking. It is not a time for vague charges and pious generalities.

"There are some Republicans who recognize the facts and the true reasons for these attacks on Secretary of State Acheson and who do not agree with their colleagues.

"This nation needs the wisdom of all its people. This is a time of great peril. It is a time for unity, for real bi-partisanship. It is a time for making use of the great talents of men like Dean Acheson.

"Communism—not our own country—would be served by losing him."

'Among Truly Great Secretaries of State.'

History, I am sure, will list Dean Acheson among the truly great Secretaries of State our nation has had. I had four Secretaries of State in a little less than eight years: Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., was in office when President Roosevelt's death placed me in the White House; James F. Byrnes served for about eighteen months, the final months of the war and the beginnings of the postwar period; General George C. Marshall was Secretary of State for two years, the years of aid to Greece and Turkey, of the Marshall Plan, and of the Berlin Blockade; Dean Acheson held the office for four years, and he had been Assistant Secretary and Under Secretary before that. There were few men who came to the Secretaryship as fully prepared for the job and as eminently qualified as Acheson was. His keen mind, cool temper and broad vision served him well for handling the day-by-day business of the great issues of policy as well as the Department of State.

Acheson had been subjected to closest questioning by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations at the time of his confirmation. But now the attacks had become vitriolic—especially since our action in Korea. Most of the criticism came from those members of the Senate who have sometimes been called the "China First" block. These men kept repeating the completely baseless charge that, somehow, Acheson had brought about the Communist victory in China, and they now charged that it was Acheson who was depriving General MacArthur of the means of gaining victory.

With his Formosa statement to the Veterans of Foreign Wars and with his more recent public utterances, General MacArthur had given these Acheson-haters an argument behind which they could gather their forces for the attack. In other words, they wanted Acheson's scalp because he stood for my policy.

Hitting at Mr. Truman Through Secretary.

There was never a day during the four years of Dean Acheson's secretaryship that anyone could have said that he and I differed on policy. He was meticulous in keeping me posted on every development within the wide area of his responsibility. He had a deep understanding of the President's position in our constitutional scheme and realized to the fullest that, while I leaned on him for constant advice, the policy had to be mine—it was.

The men who struck out against Acheson were thus in reality striking out at me. Unfortunately, the long years during which the Republican Party had been in a minority position had brought about the rise of a faction within that party that seemed to know no approach to government except to belittle, to denounce, and to negate. It was distressing that even in a period of crisis these men could not see that a two-party system, in order to succeed, needs a responsible opposition as much as a working majority.

I could certainly have done no more to stress just how serious a crisis we were in than what I had done at my several meetings with the leaders of Congress, namely, to make available to them the same kind of top-secret briefing that I and my advisers had access to. This is one of the problems of our system: The President cannot possibly give all the secret information that comes to him to every member of Congress—there are so many of them that secrets would be certain to leak out—and yet he must have their support and cooperation for policies based on this kind of information. Bi-partisanship in foreign policy means simply that the President can repose confidence in the members of the other party and that in turn the leaders of that party have confidence in the President's conduct of foreign affairs.

'Among the Truly Great'

MR. TRUMAN and DEAN ACHESON
The President refused Republican demands that he fire his Secretary of State. He declares Acheson "Among the truly great Secretaries of State."

The way the American party system functions, leadership in a party depends as much on the accidents of seniority as it does on individual merits and achievement. This means that mutual confidence and bi-partisanship depend to large degree on who the leaders of the other party are.

Never Any Doubt About Vandenberg.

When Arthur Vandenberg spoke for the Republican Senators, there was never a doubt in my mind that his judgment and his discretion warranted discussion with him of the most sensitive diplomatic problems. He understood and appreciated, when Marshall and Lovett sought him out in private so as to talk over their headaches with him, that he was placed in a position of highest trust and gravest responsibility. There were occasions when Senator Vandenberg disagreed with my policies but he never attempted to sabotage them.

Senator Wherry and a few others that I could name, however, seemed to have a very different attitude toward bi-partisanship. To them, it was a one-way street. A bi-partisan approach to foreign policy seemed to them to mean that the President took no move whatsoever that was not first cleared with them. In turn, they would be under no responsibility whatsoever to support the President.

Some other people apparently think that bi-partisanship in foreign policy is something that can be had by setting up a mechanism for consultation or that you can get by including individuals who are listed as members of the other party, in some more or less important positions in the foreign policy field. That does not always mean that they are really representative of that party. But none of this will make any difference unless there is a spirit of trust and confidence. This working relationship is not possible, unless the members of Congress approached foreign policy in a responsible, positive way. It cannot work unless the President can rely confidently on the judgment and the discretion of the members of the opposition when he talks to them about matters which, if they were prematurely revealed would affect the security of the nation.

Unfortunately, the men who so loudly demanded Acheson's dismissal had given ample proof that they would use any information that might be given them as partisan campaign material—and they never stopped their partisan campaigning.

TOMORROW: Gen. MacArthur heard by Congress and Congressional committee. The finding is that "The Commander in Chief was entirely within his rights if he thought it necessary to remove a military commander."

Eisenhower Falls Into Soviet Trap

Quick Reply to
First Bulganin
Note Boon to Red
'Peace' Front.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1956.)
WASHINGTON.

THERE was a good reason why President Eisenhower held up his second reply to Premier Bulganin on a United States-Soviet friendship pact after firing the first reply back in Bulganin's teeth—he found he had fallen into a Soviet trap.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, as usual, had acted without consulting his advisers, especially astute United States Ambassador Chip Bohlen in Moscow. Instead, he acted as if Joe McCarthy was looking over his shoulder.

The trap Mr. Eisenhower fell into was that the Kremlin wants more than anything else to show us up as not wanting peace.

Most important popular development in Russia today, Ambassador Bohlen has advised, is that the Russian people have come to believe the Kremlin's peace propaganda. As a result, they could not easily be stampeded into war.

In the past, the Kremlin has had the whip-hand in starting war. It has no Congress to consult, no critical newspapers to worry about, no commentators to goad it. War could have been declared in the past at the drop of a hat. But since the Kremlin's peace propaganda has taken hold, sudden action would be difficult.

This was the reason for Bulganin's two friendship notes, namely, to maneuver the United States into rebuffing Russian friendship so that Kremlin can reverse itself and point out that the United States has spurned Russian friendship, that the United States wants war.

This is why our allies, plus skilled United States diplomats, wish Mr. Eisenhower had not been so hasty in slapping down the first Bulganin note. If he had waited a day or two to consult with Prime Minister Eden, he could have let Eden share responsibility for his slap-down, or he could have waited longer to appear to give the matter more careful study.

That was why he waited longer to answer the second Bulganin note which the Kremlin, having scored in the first

GALLUP POLL

61 Pct. of Voters Would Like To See Eisenhower Run Again

Popularity Within 2 Points of Highest Rating, Attributed to Independent Shift—5 to 3 Edge Over Stevenson.

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 15.

THE latest test of public opinion on the course the President should follow reveals that about six out of every 10 voters — 61 per cent—say they would like to see Mr. Eisenhower run for a second term.

Virtually the same number think that the President will seek re-election.

The President's personal popularity index is now within 2 percentage points of the highest it has ever been. More than three out of every four voters questioned in the survey said they approve of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling his White House duties.

As might be expected, an overwhelming proportion of Republicans would like to see the President run again, while Democrats are almost evenly divided on the question.

Wide Margin.

In the voters' choice for President, Mr. Eisenhower today runs ahead of Adlai Stevenson by the widest margin he has held at any time in the past year, largely because of a gain in popularity among independent voters.

In the Institute's latest "trial heat" election race, Mr. Eisenhower holds a 5-to-3 edge over Stevenson.

Among rank-and-file Democrats, Stevenson is the winner by a comfortable margin. With Republicans, Mr. Eisenhower comes out far ahead. It is the independent voters—the "in-betweeners"—who throw the over-all balance in favor of Mr. Eisenhower, by picking him over former Gov. Stevenson by about 3-to-1.

Each voter in the survey was asked: "Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If President Eisenhower decides to run and were the Republican candidate and Adlai Stevenson were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

The results:
Eisenhower 61%
Stevenson 45%

round for peace propaganda, fired back so quickly.

One of the most effective things Mr. Eisenhower did at Geneva was to convince the people of France, Italy, Germany, Greece, et al., that the United States genuinely wants peace. He played his cards perfectly, cut the ground out from under Moscow's continual claim that the United States wants war. But now, as a result of Bulganin's fast foot-work, part of that fine work has been neutralized.

Republicans' Election-Year Tactics Cagey

Legislative Plan Exploits Democratic Splits and Woos Voters.

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP
WASHINGTON.

AT this point in the current session of Congress, one thing is already apparent. The Eisenhower Administration's legislative program is a masterpiece of political strategy in an election year.

The program is brilliantly calculated to exploit the deep divisions in the Democratic party. As a result, the Democrats, in control of both houses, are paralyzed on a whole series of politically potent domestic issues. As one of the shrewdest observers on Capitol Hill has remarked, "the Republican candidate is going to have a dandy time denouncing 'that no-good, do-nothing, Democratic Eighty-fourth Congress.'"

Take the school issue. The Democrats were prepared to exploit this emotionally-charged issue by passing the Democratic school-aid bill as almost the first order of business in the House. But the Administration came up with a bill of its own, thus preventing the Democrats from claiming the sole glory for helping the school children. At the same time a Democrat, Adam Clayton Powell of New York, threatened to introduce an amendment forbidding federal aid to non-segregated schools.

Backed by G.O.P.

The Republican House leaders, Joe Martin and Charles Halleck, passed the word to support the Powell amendment, thus almost assuring its passage—and also, of course, assuring the bill's being filibustered to death in the Senate. But this will leave the Republicans in a happy situation.

They will be able to claim credit for supporting the Powell amendment with Negro voters. At the same time, they will be able to pin the blame for murdering the school aid bill squarely on the Democrats. In

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Race Plan Above Party

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Mr. Stevenson ends his careful statement on the issue of integration of schools with the hope that the issue can be removed from the "political arena," and discussed "without the emotional coloration of a presidential contest." He concludes: "I still consider this not only possible but essential."
Mr. Stevenson further distinguishes between this issue and the subject of the interference with the right to vote in the South and anywhere else. This interference he considers "very sad." Finally, he points out that much violence and miscarriage of justice can be dealt with only under state laws although he favors application of the federal law where it applies.

I do not crave space to discuss Mr. Stevenson's whole program, but simply to point out that so far he has neglected the one chance of at least reducing the impact of the related issues which he has discussed on the presidential campaign.

That one chance is the prompt appointment of a bipartisan commission with bipartisan support to study the facts in the field of denial of the right to vote, the miscarriage of justice, mob violence, and the adequacy or inadequacy of federal law and procedure for the protection of the basic rights of all American citizens.

This commission should be instructed to give a preliminary report within, let us say, two months. It is probable that a bipartisan report would help to prevent recurrence of violence by turning on the light. It might reduce the impact of the race issue on the election campaign and guide intelligent citizens, North and South, in more effective dealing with an explosive situation. It is conservative to say that what has already happened, and is now at the University of Alabama, has been worse for the reputation and influence of America abroad than the loss of a battle. Most emphatically this is the nation's business and it requires nonpartisan action in the interest of justice.

Honest men may differ on certain procedures with regard to integration. On elementary justice and the necessity of enforcing it, they must agree.

I am not asking Gov. Stevenson to emulate his great Democratic predecessor, Andrew Jackson, in opposition to nullification when I urge him to remember what I found out by inquiry; namely, that there is very little federal law now applicable, and that the application of what law there is has been thwarted by the atmosphere which the White Councils under Senator Eastland's leadership have created.

There is yet time for Mr. Stevenson, Gov. Harrison and Senator Keftauver to unite in support of a proper working out of President Eisenhower's suggestion of a bipartisan commission—a suggestion so far largely ignored by the President's own supporters in Congress.

New York.

Why the Fuss?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Why all the fuss about the $2500 for Senator Case? Is it not the same as the $18,000 given Richard Nixon when he had a vote in the Senate? If the gift to Richard Nixon was for Christmas cards, perhaps the gift to Senator Case was for Christmas "Checkers" and make a TV report to the nation.

A Pipefitter to a Judge

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Federal Judge Ruben E. Hulen has again shown his acute displeasure with the internal affairs of the Pipefitters' local union by choosing to term "unthinkable" payments being made by the union to the family of its former business manager, Lawrence Callanan, since Callanan was "incapacitated" by reason of his conviction in Judge Hulen's court.

On another occasion Judge Hulen expressed his irritation with the union's membership; then over our paying the legal expenses of the officers indicted in alleged racketeering charges.

In both cases, by his personal remarks published in the press, Judge Hulen extended an authoritative tone of voice beyond the jurisdiction of his office.

After all, what takes place within the membership of Local 562—so long as the action does not violate a statute—is purely the private business of the membership and, bluntly—none of Judge Hulen's.

However, while I realize Judge Hulen has the right to feel any attitude he wishes toward the membership of my local union, I am nonetheless offended by his pontifical attitude.

The judge, in this case, was entirely out of order.
LAWRENCE T. KING, Member,
Pipefitters' Local 562.

Gas Grab Balance Sheet

Who stands for the American consumer?
The question is appropriate since the United States Senate, prodded by lobbyists for the big oil companies, passed the bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal regulation.

The question is particularly appropriate for President Eisenhower, on whose desk the bill now lies.

To help answer this question, we present here a partial list of the influences at work for and against the gas bill, and for and against gas consumers:

FOR THE GAS BILL

55 United States Senators.
The Oil and Gas Lobby.
National Association of Manufacturers.

AGAINST THE GAS BILL

40 United States Senators.
The Mayors' Committee on Natural Gas representing 263 cities of 32,000,000 population, including:
New York, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Boston, Kansas City, Nashville, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Detroit, Pittsburgh.

Michigan House of Representatives.
Wisconsin Public Service Commission.
Missouri Attorney General.

The National Institute of Municipal Law Officers, representing 960 member municipalities.

The Council of Local Gas Companies, (60 companies) and other gas distributors, including:
United Cities Utilities Co. (Chicago).
Philadelphia Electric Co.
New England Electric System.
Public Service Electric & Gas Co. (N.J.).
Commonwealth Natural Gas Corp. (Va.).
United Gas Improvement Co. (Pa.).
Lake Shore Gas Co. (Ohio).
Consolidated Edison Co. (N.Y.).
Brooklyn Union Gas Co.
Long Island Light Co.

CIO-AFL

National Farmers' Union.

In sum, it may be said that the unorganized American consumer is not without his champions in the gas issue. The mayors' committee, the municipal law officers, the gas companies and the unions all represent or serve millions of consumers. Some 40,000,000 Americans use gas.

By contrast, the oil and gas lobby primarily represents a score of oil and gas producers which are among America's 100 largest industrial corporations.

Who stands for the consumer?
President Eisenhower can stand for the consumer by vetoing Big Oil's gas grab.

Let the Senator Be Warned

Before Senator Goldwater of Arizona gets too deep in the marvels of the electronic age, he ought to give a thought to human nature.

The Senator has installed a telephone-answering machine in his office. It is to be available night and day for any constituents who are suddenly moved to call their Senator. It will answer the phone, utter a canned greeting, and then record the constituent's message.

This is supposed to be the penultimate in senatorial service to constituents, and perhaps it is. But if Senator Goldwater will check up, he will find that a substantial segment of the population is inflamed almost to the point of violence by mechanical telephone messages.

Even an ordinarily mild person can be transformed into a raging fiend when he dials the wrong exchange prefix and finds himself being talked to by a disembodied, patronizing voice which cannot be answered back. Sometimes he is impelled to shout incoherently, and wrench the telephone from the wall—all because being addressed by a robot affronts his dignity. If these perfectly natural emotions are further confused by those attaching to the relationship between senator and constituent, no telling what might happen at the other end of Senator Goldwater's telephone line.

The DeVoto National Forest

While we agree that a rose would be a rose by any other name, there are occasions on which one name can be far more effective than another. An example is the proposal by two Oregon senators, Morse and Neuberger, to give the name of Bernard DeVoto to the Clearwater National Forest in Idaho.

There is more involved here than giving further publicity to the well-known writer who recently died, or the effort to keep his name fresh in the memories of his friends and admirers. Most of his life Bernard DeVoto fought tooth and nail to preserve the natural resources of the United States—especially its national parks and forests. These are precious beyond gold, yet there are always those who would nibble away at them for private gain at public expense.

There must always be vigilance against such plunderers. And there can hardly be a better way of keeping the American people on the alert in defense of their natural treasures than by reminding them of the active watchfulness of Bernard DeVoto.

A Peace Party in Russia?

Even Stalin with all his personal power used to surprise Westerners on occasion with the reminder that public opinion was a force to be reckoned with in the Soviet Union. If that was true for Stalin, it must be much more so for his successors. And therein may lie the explanation for Nikita Khrushchev's opening speech at the Communist party congress in Moscow.

If Russians are like people anywhere else in the world, they have a strong common-sense conviction that atomic warfare is out of the question. If it would not be surprising therefore if there were in Russia a strong public opinion in favor of an active peace policy. If so, it would naturally find expression at an all-Soviet party congress, and Khrushchev as a party leader seeking to consolidate his own position would have to take it into account.

Khrushchev's claim of invincibility for the Communist bloc, and of gnawing decay for the Western world, is old stuff. Not so old and not so orthodox are his statements that violent revolution is no longer necessary to achieve socialism, and that an "imperialist-vs.-communist" war is no longer inevitable. These ideas mark abandonment of two ancient tenets of the Red dogma. They suggest that the Soviets' peace campaign may be more than a mere maneuver.

Obviously, the Communists think that time is on their side. They do not have to commit aggression against the West, or even to stir up violent revolution there, because events and irresistible forces will ultimately make the world Communist anyway—that is the line.

If Moscow feels this way and is willing to act on this belief, the chances for peace are looking up. The West, of course, disagrees with the Soviet diagnosis of its alleged decadence, but that is nothing to go to war about. It would also disagree that the neutral nations are inevitably headed for Communism, but that also is a matter for peaceful competition rather than war.

The one thing the two worlds are compelled to agree on is that the competition between them must be peaceful. On that premise, it should be possible to reach meaningful diplomatic settlements in time.

The Doctors Report

President Eisenhower's physicians have now made their extended checkup on the current health of their distinguished convalescent. What they say is that the President "should be able to carry on an active life" in his high office "for another five to 10 years." Dr. Paul Dudley White, chief of the group of doctors, declined to recommend that Mr. Eisenhower seek re-election. "The choice," he said, "is his, not ours."

The first reaction to this is one of gladness—gladness that the President has recovered so well from the coronary thrombosis that struck him in September. If the doctors think Mr. Eisenhower can carry on for as long as 10 years, then the prospect is good that he will not be seriously ill again from a heart condition in the near future. The scare of last fall was more than enough for the country's ease of mind.

Although the President's political backers will be greatly encouraged by the report from the doctors, the presumption is that the decision is not yet made and that the seeming state of health will be only one of the factors weighed.

Indeed the President himself has said just this. Only a week ago he made the perceptive observation that doctors are concerned "solely with a patient's health," whereas he must "consider the emotional strains" and the "intense concentration of the office." Previously he had spoken of his "wearing, taxing job" and of his unwillingness "to pretend that my health can be restored to the excellent state which the doctors believed it to be in mid-September."

These then are the elements that the President must consider as he rests at Treasury Secretary Humphrey's farm in Georgia: on the one hand, the report of the doctors and the many appeals that he run again, and on the other, his concern that he might not be able to meet the requirements of his office or even there might be a "change in the government that is unexpected," to quote his own words again.

Since this is a decision so peculiarly belonging to President Eisenhower, why not give him a chance to work it out without undue pressure either way? Judging by the urgency of some of the demands that he run again, many of his supporters appear to be less interested in Mr. Eisenhower's health than they are in their hope that he can win another election for them. A man as warm and friendly as Dwight D. Eisenhower deserves a more human and kindly treatment than that.

Harry E. Pratt and His Work

Illinois' official State Historian, Harry Edward Pratt, for whom funeral services were held today at Springfield, was one of the best qualified officials at the state capital. His death at the age of 54 following a heart attack takes from the ranks of Lincoln scholars one of the most painstaking and devoted of those who have lived in daily contact with the career of the greatest Illinoisan. Harry Pratt's careful research filled in the record of what Lincoln was doing on many days that had been blanks.

This vacancy at the Illinois State Historical Library is not one to be easily filled. In all probability whoever is chosen permanently will serve through 1959 and that will be the year of the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth. Since that occasion will be important not only in Illinois but throughout the nation, the successor to Harry Pratt needs to be a highly qualified scholar and administrator.

The trustees, Alfred W. Stern of Chicago and Clarence P. McClelland of Jacksonville, will do well to take their time and be certain that their permanent selection to succeed Harry E. Pratt is the best they can possibly make.

South Side Storm Signals

If the Democratic city machine bosses take a look toward the South Side they will see thunderheads piling up, and they may hear the first low rumbles of a storm.

The warnings are coming from South Side ward leaders of their own party who have no taste for a campaign to frustrate reform of the city charter by condemning this as "something Mayor Tucker wants." Not only do these South Side Democrats feel that it would be incongruous—and perhaps worse—for them to work against a Mayor who is also a South Side and a Democrat, but they know that there is a genuine desire for the election of charter freeholders in all parts of the city—even in the few North Side wards in which the city committee satchels might be influential enough to mute the demand.

Six years ago the North Siders were able to bamboozle voters not fully alive to the charter issue. Since then people have become aware of how much room there is for improvement in City Hall. The voters also realize that greater governmental efficiency is needed to keep down municipal expenses and to facilitate the city's progress, and they are not inclined to turn their backs on progress for the sake of a few patronage politicians.

How widespread revolt may become within the party ranks we do not know. But many Democrats do not like the idea of a "lug" on public employees to prevent public progress. The so-called leaders may find that they have few followers except those directly beholden to them. Their strength at the polls is considerable so long as most voters are uninterested. But the thunder from the South is a warning not to count on such indifference this time.

The Young Texas Speaks Up

Texas virility is not dying out. The editors of the student newspaper The Daily Texan at the University of Texas have just given the university administration a good licking. Backed by the Texas Student Publications Board, composed of students and faculty members, The Texan printed an editorial charging that the Board of Regents was trying to suppress freedom of the press. Representatives of the Regents had tried to suppress the editorial itself.

The particular freedom of the press which the student editors were demanding was freedom to oppose the Harris-Fulbright natural gas bill. Faculty supervisors had gone so far as to forbid the student editors even to reprint a New York Times editorial critical of the bill.

In winning their right to protest in their columns the student editors have not won the war but they have won a battle. Considering that the University of Texas is an institution whose $240,000,000 permanent fund came primarily from oil and gas production on land dedicated to it, that was quite a victory to win.

The student editors spoke up, as did the editor of the Tuscaloosa News down in Alabama on the race riots there, at the place where controversy was the hottest—where it took the most courage.

It is good to know that, oil or no oil, quarter of a billion dollars or no quarter of a billion dollars, young Texans are still thinking and speaking for themselves.

"LET'S NOT GO BEYOND THE SCOPE OF OUR INVESTIGATION, SENATORS"

Meaning of the Bulganin Notes

Between Book Ends

The Mirror
Public Opinion

Russian Premier's offer of treaty with United States is propaganda aimed more at Asians than at West, but still requires skillful counter-measures, writer says; Washington should not fall into trap of seeming to reject hand of friendship, however false.

Joseph C. Harsch, Washington Correspondent, in The Christian Science Monitor

To say that a move on the world stage is propaganda is not the same thing as saying that the propaganda content is equally obvious to all men. What is Marshal Bulganin saying in this series of notes?

He is alleging that the Soviet Union wants "friendship" with the United States, that it seeks to find a solution to the race, that it seeks a safe settlement of the German problem, which is at the root of Europe's security problem.

In the course of saying these things he argues that the Soviets have given many evidences of their peaceful inclination, such as the reduction of their military manpower, conclusion of the Austrian peace, and surrender of the Porkkala isthmus to Finland.

He also contends that at the same time the United States has increased its military budget, has expanded its overseas military bases, presses for the rearmament of Germany, contains in the Government in Washington men who talk about war as though it were not entirely distasteful, and others who talk about keeping "on the brink of war."

Now, there is much that is specious in these arguments. The United States cut its arms budget before the Soviets cut their military manpower. Porkkala had ceased to have any military value. Moscow held up the Austrian treaty for nearly 10 years.

Bulganin's Contrasting Pictures
But Marshal Bulganin has painted contrasting pictures of a peacefully inclined Soviet Union versus a less peacefully inclined United States.

There was a time when this painting of contrasting pictures by Moscow was so obviously false as to be almost ludicrous. Picasso's peace dove was shot down by Communist bullets in Korea, and never carried any serious conviction from that time onward.

But is this new painting as unconvincing as was the old one? Moscow probably has long been aware not only that the old fraud had become transparent to all, but also that moral respectability is a valuable commodity in the market places of world opinion.

During the period of the Korean war the West had almost a monopoly on moral respectability in the eyes of the whole non-Communist world.

At an early stage in the post-Stalin era President Eisenhower challenged the Soviets to give evidence of their peaceful intent by deeds, not by words.

There have been some Soviet deeds. The deeds are not too impressive. As noted above, Moscow gave up no real strategic military position when it gave up the Porkkala isthmus. Yet it was a deed, and it gave a considerable sense of relief to the peoples of the Scandinavian countries. It can be said that Moscow is trying to buy moral respectability at bargain basement prices. But, and this is what is important, it is trying to buy and it is paying something, no matter how little.

In the process it is earning some reputation for moral respectability in the eyes of those who wish to be persuaded that what they see is real. Those who wish most to be persuaded are the uncommitted peoples of Asia. They want time to consolidate their newly won political independence and to achieve the industrial revolution. They listen attentively, and hopefully, to the voice which promises peace and friendship, and a relaxation of strife and conflict.

What Asian Ears Yearn for

If this analysis is correct up to this point, then the form of our answers to those notes becomes a most important matter. We can argue with all the documentation in the world that the voice is false, but still the voice will carry more weight than will our answer, for peace and friendship are what the ears of Asia yearn to hear.

And if this is so, then there is very great danger in putting ourselves in the position of appearing, no matter how falsely, to be the ones who reject the proffered hand of Soviet friendship.

It is an unhappy condition that Soviet relations with India have been improving as United States relations with India have been degenerating. The United States Ambassador to India, John Sherman Cooper, has reported this condition to the White House and to the Congress. He is pleading earnestly for steps which could reverse the trend.

It is the condition of these times and it is the condition which makes the Bulganin notes a real problem for Washington, for if it continues unchecked and unreversed for long, the time will come when India could take the Soviet side on just such issues as Germany.

But others are involved as well. The interview with the President of Italy published in The Christian Science Monitor shows that there are Europeans who also think that the Western position is out of date, is founded too heavily on militarism and not enough on compromise and conciliation.

Time for Western Revaluation?

When Austria can protest against United States propaganda balloons flying over Austrian air as well as against Czech military planes over the same air, and when the President of Italy calls for a revision of Western approaches to Germany, to alliances, and to economic aid, we have evidence before us that the superior morality of the Western position no longer is being taken as much for granted as it was during the period of the Korean war.

The Soviet position in the eyes of the world is improving. It is gaining acceptance. It is more respectable than it was five years ago. The time has come when it can be dangerous to reject a hand of friendship even when we know that the gesture is intended for propaganda.

Kansas in a Dither

From The Pleasant Hill (Mo.) Times

Kansas is in a terrible dither. She has a Governor, Fred Hall, who belongs to the wrong wing of the Republican party, or at least to the wrong faction, which is almost as unbearable as having a Democrat in the statehouse. Gov. Hall not only vetoed a "right to work" bill, but has condemned Dixon-Yates as a mistake and said a number of things that border on heresy to the G.O.P. A Topeka lawyer and legislator, Warren W. Shaw, has filed for the nomination against Gov. Hall, saying that "The reuniting of the Republican party in Kansas is a 'must,' and 'Confidence in out-state government must be restored.' Signs of panic in Kansas had not been discernible over on this side of the state line, where the holler-than-thou Jayhawk politician is one of the joys of our newspaper reading, but we doubt not the ability of the genuine, 24-karat Kansas Republicans to repair and restore the situation. Those boys are real pros, and not to be kept from the feed trough for very long at a time.

System That Pays Dividends

GIRLS ON PAROLE, by Katharine Sullivan, (Hough-ton Mifflin, 243 pgs., $3.)

Here they are a sorry procession of girls and women blundering into prison and sooner or later coming out again, 95 per cent of them, to have another go at life: alcoholics, prostitutes, unmarried mothers, homosexuals, con women, teen-age criminals, abortionists, defective delinquents. Every one a human being with a unique history, every one heaping up more human wreckage and needing more creative attention than most people seem to realize.

Their stories are told simply and humanly and without sentimentality by Katharine Sullivan who in her 10 years on the Massachusetts Parole Board has talked to some 3500 women in the effort to help them redeem the past by making good in the future. Her object in telling the stories is to bring us to a more sensible understanding of the girls who go wrong, the situations that produce crime, the purpose of prisons, the crucial importance of the parole board's function.

"A prisoner must be paroled at the right psychological moment and to keep her too long in prison is just as serious as releasing her too soon."

Every book is something of a self-portrait by its author. Miss Sullivan gives abundant evidence of being a woman with a clear, cool head and a very warm heart. Throughout the book are the fruits of her experience finding expression in a kind of epigrammatic form:

"In proper parole-release procedure the safety of society supersedes the interests of the individual."

"A lenient policy toward professional offenders is a serious mistake on the part of any parole board."

"Failures happen quickly and suddenly, while success is generally a long, slow, systematic process in dealing with parolees."

"When a woman has been arrested more than five times her prospect of establishing a completely new way of life are very poor."

"Slack morality is not confined to special types of communities."

"Crime is everyone's business."

"All workers in the rehabilitation field know that sympathy and humane treatment are the most effective tools with which to guide their clients."

"Try to get a young, inexperienced first offender out of the institution as soon as possible."

"I do not believe that the defective delinquent belongs in the prison field at all."

Social case workers and all professional people connected with the courts and penal institutions will find this a fascinating and instructive book. The chapter on "Looking Ahead" has, from the viewpoint of a layman, some very pertinent recommendations. But this is also a book for all of us. The parole system, at least as practiced in Massachusetts, pays great dividends. First of all in terms of human rehabilitation, but also in terms of money saved. "The expense of keeping a girl in the reformatory is $2564.18 a year compared to $93 per year to keep her on parole."

Finally, those of us who read the book are so far from sainthood we are brought to say: there, but for the grace of God, go I. RALPH C. ABELE.

Fine Color Printing

RAPHAEL. Text by Mary Pillauga. (Abrams, 312 pp.)

This new Abrams study is printed in Italy and gives American art-lovers another opportunity to examine the remarkable color printing now being done in that country. There are 42 reproductions in this oversized volume, 29 of them in color, and the color plates come as close to the originals as seems humanly possible.

WALTER LIPPMANN

To Keep Segregation Out of Politics

WASHINGTON. THERE IS MOUNTING EVIDENCE of grave trouble ahead over integration in the public schools of the Southern states. For in recent weeks we have come nearer to the question which can divide the country dangerously.

In the decision of the Supreme Court to be put into effect gradually and with the eventual consent of the leaders of the Southern states, the Federal Government is being called upon to enforce integration against the resistance of the South. This question poses as a dilemma as any internal American question that has arisen for several generations. It arouses great human passions which cannot be reconciled, which can only be assuaged and accommodated in this generation. They are passions which boil up quickly into violence, and they can be kept within bounds only when and only while there is great wisdom and resolution in the leaders of the country.

The temptation to play politics with these passions is almost overpowering. And it is the approach of the national election, the struggle between the two parties and also the struggle within the parties, particularly within the Democratic party, which have brought the dilemma to the surface.

Irresponsible Talk Most.

It is significant that the closer a public man is to the presidency, the more will he shrink from the idea of federal enforcement, as distinguished from persuasion and accommodation. Gov. Stevenson has been notably firm and decisive, and the President, though his words are a bit cloudy, is certainly not considering intervention by the federal executive power.

It is the position of the men who have little or no prospect of themselves being in the White House and bearing the President's responsibility, who are heating up the issue. There is no likelihood that the Republican Congress will agree to take the issue out of politics. For it is a most damaging issue to raise among the Democrats.

Nor is there much likelihood that Gov. Stevenson's rivals for the nomination will forswear to raise it. It is such an easy way to make things difficult for him.

No Change for Money.

The issue will have to be debated in the open. The fundamental question to be debated is whether integration is to be promoted by persuasion or by federal enforcement. These are two different roads, and no one should think he can go down both of them at once.

Consider, for example, the

OPEN LIBRARY SHOW

Edwin Brewer Holding New Exhibit—Museum Changes Its Plans.

BY HOWARD DERRICKSON

Thirty-four members of the Associated Artists of New Jersey, many of whom are represented in the country's leading museum collections, are showing diversified drawings and prints this month at the art room of the Central Public Library, 1301 Olive street.

The range of styles is from Grant Reynard's straightforward portrait drawing of the famous artist Walter Pach to John Ryzostski's "Obvious Creature," an abstract engraving whose subject actually is not obvious at all.

Detailed pictures in representational styles predominate. For each non-objective work, like Minna Citron's "End of Beliefs" there are several naturalistic views like George Mayne's "Longshoremen," Louis Lozowick's "Abandoned Quarry," and Ruth Star Rose's semi-documentary "Seminole." More evocative, less literal is "Prairie Night," by Henry Niese, winner of a Pulitzer traveling scholarship.

The show is enlivened by color prints, including a Luigi Rist woodcut, an Alf J. Stromsted pastel and two serigraphs, or silk-screen prints, by Leonard Pytlak.

Third One-Man Show.

Edwin C. Brewer, young University City artist, is holding his third St. Louis one-man show since coming here two years ago from Little Rock, Ark. His latest oils and water colors will remain on view through March 17 at Petit Dugalle, 4207 Lindell boulevard.

Mexico, where he recently studied on a $2500 fellowship, is again his major theme. In his new work he shows increasing interest in design and texture, rather than in his earlier subjective representation of scenery. Examples include "Pottery," an abstraction; "Textured Window," a representation of a window but concerned mainly with interplay of rough and smooth surfaces, and "Three Figures," a direct, semi-abstract water color.

The exhibitor, currently employed as a department store display man, is the son of Adrian Brewer, Little Rock's leading portrait artist, whose commissions take him all over the country, and the grandson of the late Nicholas Brewer, portraitist whose subjects included the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

COUNTESS GIVES BIG BALL, COUNT COUNTS SELF OUT

PARIS, Feb. 15 (UPI)—French society danced until dawn today at the most lavish and exclusive costume ball seen here since before World War II—despite a husband's protests.

Countess Maria Alajre de Nouailles gave the ball at her Paris mansion for 300 elaborately costumed guests. The count wasn't among them. He headed for the Riviera as soon as his wife announced her grand project.

The guests were ordered by the countess to appear in costumes recalling the "glories of the artists and writers of the fifteenth and nineteenth centuries" and each foreign guest was told to select a figure from his own nation.

Princess Troubetskoi appeared as Joan of Arc. Christian Dior went as Barbe d'au Arville, a French writer of the eighteenth century. French playwright Andre Rossin went as Alphonse Daudet, an eighteenth century dramatist.

Three Americans—Bruce Kay, Bruce Forbes and Arthur Bowie—went as Henry Thoreau, Mark Twain and Herman Melville.

Tomorrow's Events

Family affair program: Showing of "King of Kings"; St. Louis County Library, 6814 North Bridge road, Normandy; 8 p.m.

Film: "Barbara Frithie"; Cinema Guild, 453 North Boyle avenue; 7:30 and 9:30 p.m.

March 12 at City Art Museum, will be discussed next Monday at 3:45 p.m. over radio station KFUO in the museum's regular weekly program. Mrs. Edwin Grossman of the museum staff announced today. The announcement represents a change in plans previously listed.

Participants will be Edward E. Boccia, winner of a total of three $300 prizes in last year's show and this year's, and Miss Jaquelin Ambler, assistant supervisor of education at the museum. Boccia teaches art at Washington University. He was engaged as a speaker because of his unprecedented winning of three top prizes in two years, Mrs. Grossman said.

It was announced Feb. 2 that a recorded discussion of a Georges Braque painting by Gordon B. Washburn would be used on next Monday's museum program. The talk by Washburn, a juror of the show, has been postponed indefinitely. This talk was originally planned as Washburn's contribution to a museum panel discussion that was canceled because of weather conditions.

PULITZER BUILDING SEALED BOX OPENED

Contents of Cornerstone Repository Presented to Columbia U.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—A hermetically sealed copper box that was placed in the cornerstone of the Pulitzer building here more than 66 years ago when the structure was built to house the old New York World, was opened today by Manhattan Borough President Hugh E. Jack.

Contents of the box, sealed in the cornerstone Oct. 10, 1889, were presented to Columbia University's Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism in accordance with a request the late Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and son of the founder, made before his death last March.

The Pulitzer building, once New York's tallest edifice and long a newspaper "shrine," is being razed to clear the way for new approaches to the Brooklyn bridge. The newspaper itself was sold in 1931 to the Scripps-Howard syndicate, which merged it with the New York Telegram.

Spotted by Foreman. Hope of finding the copper repository had been virtually abandoned until an alert forman saw it dislodged Thursday as a heavy metal ball was breaking stone blocks near what had been the building's entrance. Previously, searchers had failed to find it at the place where building plans indicated it had been sealed.

The second Joseph Pulitzer had laid the structure's cornerstone at the age of 4 with a silver trowel. The same trowel was used by his son, Joseph Pulitzer Jr., present editor of the Post-Dispatch, in cornerstone ceremonies on Oct. 9, 1918, for the Post-Dispatch Building at 1111 Olive street.

In special ceremonies this morning in Jack's offices at the Municipal Building here, Dean Carl W. Anderson, of the Columbia journalism school formally accepted the gift. The Pulitzer family was represented by Mrs. William S. Moore of New York, daughter of the first Joseph Pulitzer and aunt of Joseph Pulitzer Jr.

The box contains copies of the morning and evening World and the Post-Dispatch, gold and silver coins of the period and various records and memorabilia. The latter included a parchment-embossed copy of a dedicatory address given by the first Joseph Pulitzer from Wiesbaden, Germany.

The World's Creed.

"God grant," the address said, "that this structure be the enduring home of a newspaper forever unsatisfied with mere printing news, forever fighting every form of wrong—forever independent—forever advancing in enlightenment and progress—forever wedded to truly democratic ideas—forever rising to a higher plane of perfection as a public institution."

"God grant that the World may forever strive toward the highest ideals—be both a daily schoolhouse and a daily forum—and instrument of justice, a terror to crime, and aid to education, an exponent of true Americanism."

"Let it ever be remembered that this edifice owes its existence to the public; that its architecture is popular favor; that its moral cornerstone is love of liberty and justice; that its every stone comes from the people and represents public approval for public services rendered."

"God forbid that the vast army following the standard of the World should in this or future generations ever find it faithless to those ideals and moral principles to which alone it owes its life and without which I would rather have it perish."

Other Articles in Box.

Other articles in the box included photographs of the Pulitzer family, a picture of the $2,500,000 Pulitzer building and the plans for its erection; a silver medal commemorating attainment of 250,000 circulation by the World; a $20 gold coin, and $10 and $5 gold coins dated 1889.

The collection included a World Almanac, New York City directory and World office directory, all dated 1889. There were two "phonographic cylinders" on which were recorded words spoken at the cornerstone ceremony by members of the World staff.

There were also copies of an address delivered on the occasion by the then celebrated orator, financier and politician, Chauncey M. Depew, and of remarks made by Col. John A. Cockerill, of the World organization, speaking on behalf of the founder because of his enforced absence.

Newspapers in the box included the Sunday Post-Dispatch of Oct. 6, 1889, and an edition published the next day, copies of the World and other New York newspapers dated Oct. 10, and the World edition of May 11, 1883, in which the founder announced he had acquired the newspaper.

Ackerman called attention to the splendid condition of the newspapers, all in an excellent state of preservation as were other articles in the collection. He recalled they were printed on rag instead of wood pulp paper. He declared that the gift was a "valuable and historic addition" to the Pulitzer collection.

Photographs found included one of the founder made when he was about 40 years of age, and of his wife, the late Mrs. Kate Davis Pulitzer. There were also childhood pictures of their children.

One of the distinguished guests who attended the 1889 ceremony was the inventor Thomas Edison, who gave the World's executives assurance that the voices of speak-

Wife Attends Heart Luncheon As President Gets Heart Verdict

MRS. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER receiving orchid corsage from MRS. CORNEAL MACK at Heart Fund Valentine luncheon at Washington yesterday. DR. JOHN A. REISINGER, president of the Washington Heart Association, looks on.

Mrs. Eisenhower Keeps Engagement in 'Show Must Go On' Tradition.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in her role as First Lady, gave a performance yesterday that lived up to the standard: regardless of one's personal feelings—"the show must go on."

Mrs. Eisenhower some time ago accepted an invitation to be guest of honor at a luncheon of the Washington Heart Association to raise money to help medical research in heart disease.

It was an event doubly appealing to her. Since she was a child she had had a minor heart murmur. As a wife she has experienced the worry over a husband stricken with a heart attack. Also St. Valentine's Day is especially memorable to her. It was 40 years ago in San Antonio, Tex., that she became engaged to the young army second lieutenant who was to become President of the United States.

This St. Valentine's day the doctors were to tell her husband in their combined opinion his recuperating heart could stand up to the burdens of an active life.

The time set for their formal report to the President was 1:45 p.m. She was due at the luncheon at 1 p.m., and that is about the time she arrived.

Mrs. Eisenhower talked animatedly with her hostesses at the head table and showed no sign of tension during the long program.

The sterling silver trowel used in placing the first cornerstone of the World, the Post-Dispatch building was kept by the second Joseph Pulitzer at his home in St. Louis. It is now in the office of his son and successor.

Measuring 15 1/2 inches in length, with a blade 10 1/2 inches long and 4 1/2 inches wide, the trowel has the following inscription on the face of the blade:

"This trowel was used by Joseph Pulitzer Jr. at the age of 4 years laying the cornerstone of the Pulitzer Building erected for use of the New York World on Park Row and Frankfort street, Oct. 10, 1889."

"This trowel was again used by Joseph Pulitzer III at the age of 3 years laying the cornerstone of the Post-Dispatch Building erected for use of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch on Twelfth and Olive streets, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9, 1918."

FATHER MACELWANE DIES, GEOPHYSICIST

St. Louis U. Dean Was World Authority On Earthquakes.

The Rev. James B. Macelwane S.J., dean of St. Louis University's Institute of Technology and a renowned geophysicist, died at St. Mary's Hospital today of a liver infection.

In ill health for almost a year, the 72-year-old priest had been in the hospital for the last two months.

Father Macelwane, a stout quiet man whose ruddy face almost always wore a smile, started the Western Hemisphere's first department of geophysics at St. Louis University in 1925. He became one of the world's foremost authorities on earthquakes.

Made Major Discoveries. He made and assisted in a number of major geophysical discoveries. One dealt with the increase of earthquake surface wave periods in relation to the distance from the tremor's origin.

With another Jesuit, the Rev. J. E. Ramirez, he suggested the possibility of tracking hurricanes and extra-tropical storms at sea by means of microseisms of four-to-six-second wave periods observed with tripartite stations on land.

He and Father Ramirez also discovered that surges of rapid micro-oscillations in the atmosphere were roughly correlated with meteorological conditions.

The seismograph established by Father Macelwane at St. Louis University earned for his department a nation-wide reputation for accuracy in reporting earth tremors.

Studied in Europe. The priest was a member of numerous scientific and geophysics organizations and studied in France and Germany. He was president of the Seismological Society of America in 1928 and 1929. In addition, he was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and, in 1937, served as president of the Missouri Academy of Science and the Academy of Science of St. Louis.

He was president of the American Geophysical Union, a post to which he was elected for a three-year term in 1933. The organization awarded him the William Bowie Medal in 1948 for his excellence of work over a period of years.

He was chairman of an 11-member panel of American scientists who began in November a geophysical study of Antarctica. He did not make the trip because of his age, but was to help analyze the data gathered.

In 1954 President Eisenhower named him to the National Science Board of the National Science Foundation. Father Macelwane received honorary degrees from Washington University, John Carroll University, Marquette University and St. Norbert's College. Last May he was awarded the Mendel Medal, an honor given annually.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, Grand and Lindell boulevards. The office of the dead will be read at 9:30 a.m. Burial will be in the Jesuit seminary at Florissant.

MEDAL OF FREEDOM GIVEN TO DR. JOHN VON NEUMANN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UPI)—President Eisenhower today awarded the Medal of Freedom to Dr. John von Neumann, an outstanding member of the Atomic Energy Commission. The famous atomic scientist received the award in his wheel chair. The ceremony took place at the White House minutes before Mr. Eisenhower left for a vacation at Thomasville, Ga.

Instead of reading excerpts from the citation, as is customary, Mr. Eisenhower read it in full. Then he pinned the red-ribboned medal on the lapel of the Budapest-born scientist.

Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go to once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or, you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed either to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you. On the card accompanying the flowers, and addressed to one of the family, you write "With sympathy," or "With deepest sympathy," or "With heartfelt sympathy," or "With love and sympathy."

Woolly worms and "woolly longjohns" are finding ready purchasers. The Missouri trout season opens on March 1. The experienced trout angler recalls that March is more apt to come in like a lion than a lamb, and is making ready for opening day. Lines may freeze on the reels and warming fires may dot the banks of the water-courses of Montauk, Bennett Springs and Roaring River, but thousands of anglers will brave the weather, regardless.

Recent rains and snows have considerably improved the low water conditions that have harassed Missouri trout streams for several years and additional moisture may mean that they will be in ideal fishing condition for opening day. Dr. George B. Herndon, chief of the Fisheries Section, Missouri Conservation Commission, says a wet February is just what is needed for a perfect trout season opening.

"We have the fish but we have about run out of anything to use for water at a couple of the trout hatcheries," he said. "We have been pumping almost constantly for auxiliary water supply at Montauk for almost a year. We are also forced to pump intermittently or one-third of the time at Roaring River, Bennett Springs Branch is also very low but it has such a large normal water supply, 100 million gallons daily, that conditions are not so bad there."

Taking advantage of low water and open weather, work crews have completed stream improvement work at Montauk and will complete their work at Bennett Springs before opening day. The work consists mainly of building or repairing self-cleaning stream improvement devices, low dams and the removal of undesirable under-water vegetation.

Reservations Heavy.

State Parks Director Joseph Jeger said about $30,000 is being spent on refurbishing cabin facilities at Montauk, Bennett Springs and Roaring River. Reservations for opening day at all three parks are heavy. There has been no increase in rates for cabin and camping facilities.

For years the Fisheries Section has planted catchable size trout, not less than 10 inches in length, at the rate of 2 1/2 fish per acre sold in the trout fishing parks. This is said to be an ample number for satisfactory fishing, and many trout fishermen catch their daily limit in relatively short time. On that basis last year 181,178 trout weighing 118,305 pounds were released. The trout tag sales in 1955 were Roaring River 21,383, Bennett Springs 21,383, Montauk 19,234.

Dr. Herndon said, "We have enough trout averaging about one-half pound in size to take care of far more fishermen in 1956. We are prepared to release fish on the same basis as last year, and we have a number of Missouri fishermen anticipated in 1956. Our present inventory of adults and fingerlings, not including this season's hatch, is as follows: Roaring River, 40,532 adults and 100,000 fingerlings; Bennett Springs, 17,466 adults and 97,073 fingerlings; Montauk, 33,289 adults and 100,000 fingerlings." This makes a possible release of nearly 400,000 trout of catchable size during the trout season.

"Put and Take" Fishing. Missouri trout fishing is often referred to as "put-and-take" angling. This is not only true in Missouri but it is also true in the western states that stock rainbow. Due to their very low reproductive rate in the wild, the streams must be restocked with hatchery-reared trout if angling is worthwhile. Colorado, in 1955, planted 800,000 pounds of trout, or more than 12,000,000 fish. California stocked 7,600,000 catchable size trout weighing 1,191,428 pounds. These states, of course, have a far greater water area suitable for trout than is found in Missouri. With only three favorable state park waters and six co-operative trout management areas, Missouri is limited in this type of fishing.

Even with its limited resources, Missouri attracted some 75,000 trout fishermen to the three state parks and the six co-operative management areas in 1955. The angler with the know-how had little trouble in taking the limit of six. The fishing is varied from fancy flies to plain old "candy huckles"—the lowly earthworm.

And, as Dr. Herndon expressed it, "I feel sure that we will have a good trout season opening this year provided we have the predicted warm, wet February. The 1955 trout fishing season was considered by many trout fishermen to be highly successful in spite of low water conditions and heavy road pressure. The 1956 season should be as good and could be considerably better."

Whether it be a balmy day or the ground is covered with snow, the guys and gals who thrill to the landing of each speckled beauty will be on hand in full force when the opening whistle blows.

Roy Sievers Rejects Fourth Contract Offer

St. Louis Roy Sievers, No. 1 slugger of the Washington Senators who has rejected four contract offers, said today, "I intend to stay at home until they send me a satisfactory contract."

Pointing out that Calvin Griffith, president of the Nats, gave him a bigger raise last year when he hit 24 home runs and drove in 102 runs than he has been offered after whacking 25 homers and getting 106 RBIs last season, Sievers said, "I think I'm worth more."

Dons Keep Dribbling Toward All-Time Record, Win No. 45

Brooklyn's St. Francis Continues Unbeaten

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Now that they've matched the second longest success streak in college basketball, the San Francisco Dons have nothing more to look forward to this season except a repeat as N.C.A.A. champions and a share of the longest winning record in the books.

The merry rolling Dons, as expected, skipped past San Jose State last night, 76-52. That stretched their successive successes through 45 games and matched the second-best college mark, hung up by little Pittsburgh (Pa.) in 1930-32. Little Peru (Pa.) holds the all-time winning record of 55 straight and the Dons can tie it by rolling through the rest of their regular season (six more games) and then taking their second straight N.C.A.A. crown. That would leave them ready to set a record in the first game of the 1957 season.

The Dons, 19-0 for the current season, set a record for major colleges when they won their fortieth in a row a few weeks back.

St. Francis of Brooklyn, the only other major unbeaten team, stretched its string to 17 games last night by jarring Manhattan's hopes of a post-season tournament bid, 98-75. The Terriers, rated thirteenth in this week's Associated Press poll compared to San Francisco's No. 1 ranking, already are entered in next month's N.I.T.

North Carolina State (No. 4), the only other team in the top 10 active last night, barged into a three-way tie for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead by disposing of Duke, rated No. 11, 90-81.

George Washington regained a share of the Southern Conference top spot by lacing William & Mary, 81-69, while Virginia Tech beat Washington & Lee, 68-64. Maryland topped Clemson, 81-69, in another A.C.C. game. South Carolina, an A.C.C. member, belted Furman of the Southern, 109-97, despite a 40-point performance by All-American Darrell Floyd.

The Dons, No. 1 in defense, allowed San Jose State just 13 field goals—six in the second half when State went 7 1/2 minutes before scoring a basket. All-American Bill Russell, high with 21 points, blocked most of the shots whenever San Jose managed to elude a pressing defense operated by Harold Perry and Casey Jones.

St. Francis had too much height for Manhattan. Don Mannix led the scoring with 30 points while teammate Al Inniss scored 23 and took 24 rebounds. Ron Shavlik again led N.C. State, dominating the boards and scoring 25 points. Duke's Ron Mayer scored 26, but the Blue Devils never had the lead as they fell to fourth place while the Wolfpack joined Wake Forest and North Carolina, who met tonight, in the A.C.C. lead at 9-2.

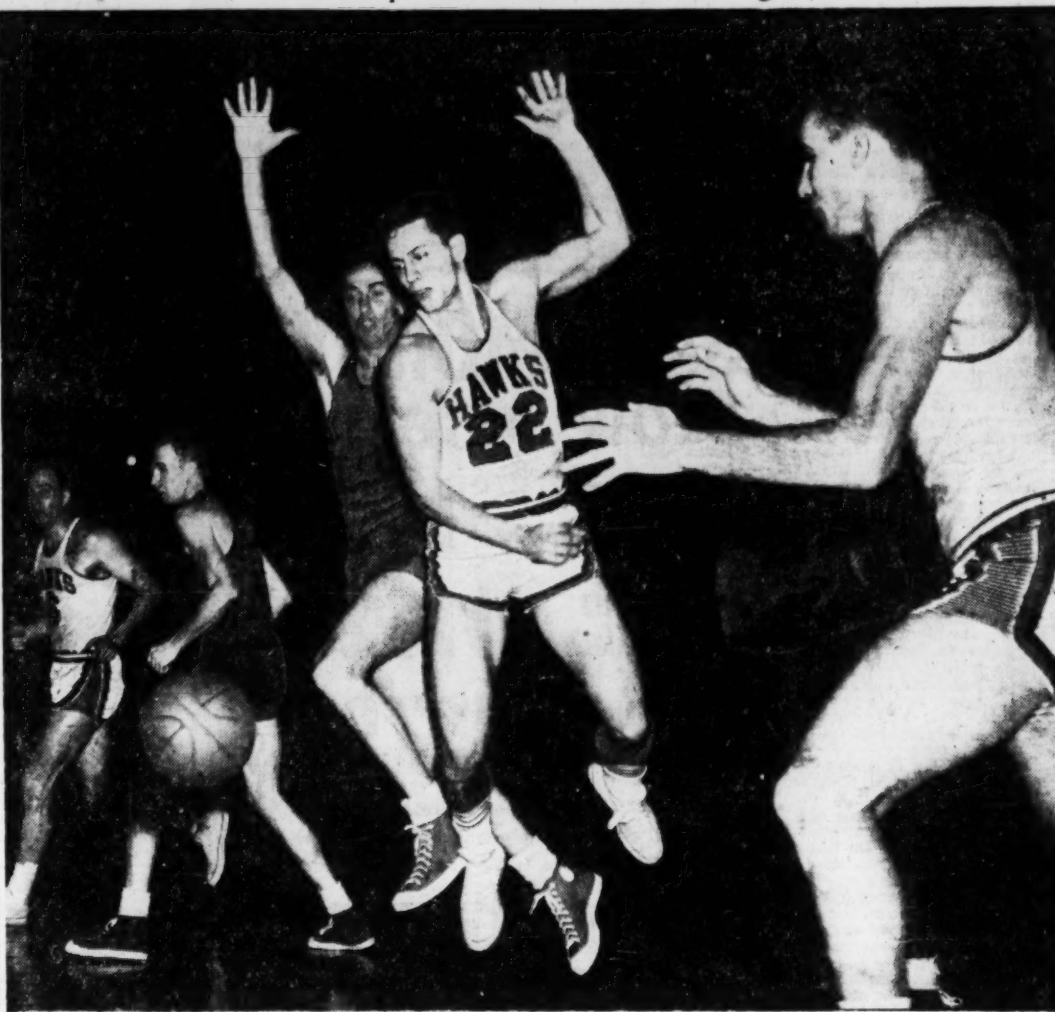

Joe Holup scored 27 and Joe Petecovich 25 as George Washington peppered William & Mary, beaten by West Virginia, 105-90. Monday night the Mountaineers took momentary command of the Southern lead. Marquette, an N.I.T. entry, rolled past Creighton, 73-65, as Terry Rand hit for 28 points. Wagner College upped its post-season tournament hopes by clipping St. John's of Brooklyn, 92-90, for a 15-2 mark on a last second basket by sub George Blomquist.

A similar last-ditch shot—a desperation throw from mid-court by Gordie Holmes at the buzzer—gave Providence an upset 85-83 decision over Notre Dame in overtime. Wayne (Mich.) made it 14 in a row by beating Valparaiso 75-52. St. Bonaventure sent its home court streak to 62 games by whipping Gannon (Pa.) 83-65.

Hands Up as Hawks Fall Again

AL FERRARI (22) of the Hawks, and CARL BRAUN of the New York Knickerbockers try to figure out how to get control of the bouncing ball in some under-the-basket action at Kiel Auditorium. The Knicks were more fortunate in gaining control of the sphere and came off with the National Basketball Association victory, 103-99, handing the Hawks their fifth straight defeat. The Hawk at the left is ALEX HANNUM and at the right MED PARK.

Hawks' Play-off Chances Slump as Team Suffers Fifth Straight Defeat

By Harold Flachsbart
Nine straight victories didn't seem to do the Hawks much good in the National Basketball Association race because today they are buried down in last place again in the Western Division standings and they're looking up with probably the best player in the game.

Bob Pettit, a jump-shot performer from down Baton Rouge way, who doesn't give up and who has topped the pro league through 25 games, scored 30 points, tallied 30 points last night against the New York Knickerbockers, but they weren't enough. The Hawks lost a badly offloaded game, 103-99, because they had a poor third quarter of only 11 points. In pro basketball parlance, that isn't good.

The fifth straight defeat for Red Holzman's team—and this one was considered a "must" game—hurt the St. Louis play-off chances, because in the first contest of the Kiel Auditorium doubleheader Minneapolis walloped Rochester, 110-79. The Hawks, moving the ball well in the first half, were a winning team after the first two periods, 57-51, even though they had 28 fouls called against them compared to 20 against New York by referees Mendy Rudolph and Bill Smith. They flubbed in the third quarter, however, and the game quickly was tied at 64-64. Then the Knicks, sparked by Harry Gallatin and Dick McGuire, forged ahead, 64-69, by the end of the third quarter.

School was out then even if the Hawks, who don't give up easily, didn't know it. Ken Sears, a blond-topped rookie from Santa Clara, also was an important guiding hand as the Knicks, winning for the second time in four days for their new coach, Vince Boryla, former Notre Dame and Knickerbocker hero, stayed ahead.

Ohio Bowler Rolls Season's High of 835

AKRON, O., Feb. 15 (AP)—Forty-three-old Gale Richey bowled the highest three-game series of the year, 835, Monday. The previous 1956 high of 825 was held by Jim Vrenick of St. Louis. Richey had frames of 280, 258 and 297. In the last game he had bowled 11 straight strikes, then left a split of pins 6, 7 and 10 on his last ball.

Meramecs Win, Tie Jefferson for Lead
The Meramec Caverns went into a tie for first place in the Midwestern Girls' basketball league by defeating Jefferson, 48-44, last night at the Salvation Army gym. Both the Caverns and Jefferson have 6-4 records, with two games to go. In the second game, Kutis moved into a tie for third place with Rock Alumnas with 4-6 marks by beating that team, 41-35. Kutis needs a 12-3 margin in the final period to pull the game out of the fire. Phyllis Henken, 17 points, and Anita Ward, 16, paced the Meramecs and Bev Lambur topped Jefferson with 15. Dotie Vonderhaar was high for Kutis with 14.

61 Score for Harrison in Texas Tuneup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 15 (AP)—E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the old campaigner, had the eye of the gallery today as golf's winter tour went through final tuneup rounds for the $20,000 Texas Open.

The old Arkansas Traveler, who plays out of St. Louis, caused them to buzz yesterday when he shot his finest round in 25 years—a 10-under-par 61—in a pro-amateur.

It was at the Oak Hills Country Club course, a 6135-yard layout that isn't as tough as the Fort Sam Houston course, where the Open is to be played. But it showed that the man who won the Texas Open twice in the past—in 1939 and 1951—was to be reckoned with in this year's tournament.

Harrison had 29-32 with six birdies on the front nine and four on the last. He missed only two putts under 10 feet and had two 30-footers. He won $400 as the low professional, finishing five strokes ahead of Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.; Jack Burke of Klamath Lake, N.Y.; and Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, O., who each won $180 for tying for second with 66's.

Finsterwald used an 8-iron to make a hole-in-one on the ninth hole—his fourth ace in his career and first in competition.

At Fort Sam Houston 177 of the lesser lights of the tour and many not on the tour shot for qualifying places in the open with Henry Williams of Reading, Pa.; Manuel de La Torre of Milwaukee and Billy Phillips of Winchester, Va., leading the way with 4-under-par 68s over the 6464-yard course. Gene Bone of Detroit and Don Clark-son of St. Louis were next in line with 69s. A 74 was necessary to qualify with 42 professionals and seven amateurs gaining places in the open.

COURT RULES OUT TAX DEDUCTION ON TERMITE DAMAGE

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The cost of repairing damage to a residence caused by an invasion of subterranean termites cannot ordinarily be deducted as a casualty loss on an income tax return, the United States tax court has ruled.

In a case involving Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Dodge of Spartanburg, S.C., the court reviewed various federal court decisions on termite damage and stated: "It is thus seen that the weight of authority is to the effect that, generally, termite damage does not give rise to a deductible casualty loss. This is for the reason that it does not occur suddenly, unexpectedly or from an unusual cause; it is rather in the nature of a gradual erosion or deterioration of property."

The tax court cited three decisions of United States appellate courts and said that "only in exceptional cases where the invasion and measurable damage have occurred within a relatively short period of time has the loss been held deductible as a casualty loss."

The Dodge residence was inspected in 1948 and no termite infestation was discovered. In 1952 infestation and substantial damage were found. The Dodes claimed a casualty loss of $2074, a sum that covered treatment with chemicals and repair of the damage. This was disallowed and a tax deficiency of $705 was determined.

Both Parties Split on Putting Racial Relations in Campaign

Eisenhower, Stevenson the Moderates—
Nixon, Harriman, Kefauver Intruding Issue in Politics.

By JAMES RESTON
The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15—The solemn debate in the nation over the Supreme Court's desegregation decision is providing some striking evidence about the leading candidates for the presidency.

President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the leaders of the two major parties, are emerging as the moderates who wish to keep race relations out of the campaign as much as possible.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the other leading candidates, are, in contrast, pressing the issue and intruding it into the presidential race.

The President has spoken of this question since the University of Alabama crisis with great caution. He has taken the position that the fulfillment of the Supreme Court's school desegregation order is still before the courts and that aggressive federal action now can only inflame and retard progress toward racial equality.

He has also refused to support those who would deny federal funds to states which do not comply with the court's desegregation order.

Stevenson's Position.

Stevenson has taken the same position, and meanwhile appealed for patience and unity in working toward a gradual solution of the problem.

"I can think of no greater diservice to our country," he said in a statement in Portland Sunday, "than to exploit for political ends the tensions that have followed in the wake of the Supreme Court decision."

Meanwhile, Nixon, in a return to his slashing political style after several moderate speeches, took precisely the opposite position in New York Monday night.

He discussed the issue in wholly partisan terms before the seventyish Lincoln day audience at the Waldorf Astoria, stating that the "Democrats know that their hybrid party is helpless and futile in this field and will stay that way."

They know, too, he added, "that President Eisenhower's great Republican Administration has registered the greatest advance for the rights of racial minorities since the Emancipation Proclamation itself."

Lists What G.O.P. Did.

He thereupon stated that the Republicans had abolished racial segregation in the District of Columbia, the armed forces, and in federal contracts and civilian employment; that they had "abolished racial discrimination in travel by bus, boat and rail; and that a great Republican Chief Justice, Earl Warren, speaking for a unanimous Supreme Court, has ordered an end to racial segregation in the nation's public schools."

Nixon's conclusion was that "the only hope for continued progress toward the realization of the American dream of equal opportunity in every respect for every American is through the election not only of a Republican President but a Republican House and Senate.

All the candidates agree with the objective of the Supreme Court decision, but they clearly differ about how it should be put into effect, what role the Federal Government should play in the University of Alabama case, and how the segregation issue should be debated in the campaign.

Harriman said Sunday, "I think the executive branch of the (Federal) Government should see to it that the orders and decisions of the Supreme Court are enforced."

Stevenson said, "as a practical matter we must recognize that punitive action by the Federal Government may actually delay the process of integration in education."

On U. S. School Funds.

Harriman would deny federal school building funds to states that maintain segregation. Stevenson, like President Eisenhower, has taken precisely the opposite position.

"True integration," he said, "requires more than the mere presence of children of two races in the same classroom; it requires a change in the hearts and minds of men. No child can be properly educated in a hostile atmosphere. . . .

"We will not . . . reduce race prejudice by denying to areas afflicted with it the means for improving the educational standards of all their people."

Kefauver has been much nearer to Harriman's position than to Stevenson's. Thus there is a basic difference in both parties: with President Eisenhower avoiding any partisan argument over the race question and Nixon embracing it; with Stevenson using all his eloquence for patience and Harriman and Kefauver advocating federal action and sanctions to achieve the end of equality.

Politically, this lineup creates an interesting contrast in opinion, policy, tactics and character. If President Eisenhower runs again, Nixon's views will, of course, be overwhelmed by the President's views.

If the President does not run again, however, the campaign could very well develop into a contest between the moderates and those who speak and advocate more extreme and partisan solutions of great national problems.

Nixon Back to Old Position.

Accordingly, it was a matter of some comment here that the Vice President reverted Monday night to the old position of the aggressive divisive attacker, while Stevenson sides with the President in calling for unity and harmony.

Nixon's role is, on the whole, popular with many political elements that will be powerful at the Republican convention in San Francisco, while Stevenson's position is not popular with the liberal elements which may very well dominate the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Nevertheless, the former Illinois governor is carrying out in

KINLOCH VOTES TO SEEK U. S. HELP IN REHABILITATION

Voters of the City of Kinloch took a preliminary step toward urban rehabilitation yesterday by approving, 458 to 15, the submission of a "workable program" to the urban renewal agency of the Federal Housing Authority.

As a result of the voters' action in the special referendum election, the regional director of the federal agency at Fort Worth, Tex., will be asked to send a team of experts to Kinloch to help city officials work out a program of urban renewal, City Attorney Edward T. Wright said. The program, which is expected to include sewers, highways, parks and playgrounds, will then be submitted formally to the regional agency for approval.

Kinloch is a predominantly Negro community in the northern part of the county.

FRENCH INFLUENCE ON AREA DISCUSSED

Laclede Persuaded Indians to Stay Away, Professor Relates.

French influence in history of the Mississippi Valley, including the founding of St. Louis by Pierre Leclerc in the 1760s, was discussed today at a conference sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts of Washington University.

John Francis McDermott, associate professor of English at the university, described how Laclede, after attending a military academy in his native France, went to New Orleans and then traveled upriver to establish a trading post on the bluffs here.

With Laclede came 14-year-old Auguste Chouteau, who served as his clerk and assistant. Laclede selected the site and described it as not only beautiful, but offering "all the advantages that one could desire to found a settlement which might become very considerable hereafter."

McDermott recalled that a group of friendly Missouri Indians tried to settle down at the new trading post. During a council of several days, Laclede

ADENAUER HAVING MORE COALITION PARTY TROUBLE

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

BONN, Feb. 15.—The bitterness that exists against Chancellor Adenauer among some of his coalition allies in West Germany has come to the surface in a move being made against him by the Ruhr branch of the right-wing Free Democratic party.

The Ruhr Free Democrats, whose party belongs to Adenauer's coalition in Bonn, have joined the powerful left-of-center Social Democrats in an effort to oust Adenauer's Christian Democrats from power in North Rhine-Westphalia, West Germany's most heavily populated state.

"We are resolved to ward off, with all the means at our disposal, the threatening danger of a one-party domination in all the phases of politics, economics, social affairs, freedom of religion and conscience and, above all, freedom of the press and in many respects 'swallowed up' the original settlers.

The Creoles were gay and buoyant, gregarious by nature, and tended to settle in villages like Vincennes, Kaskaskia and Ste. Genevieve. They got along well with the Indians, whereas the Anglo-Saxon newcomers tended to be lone wolves who lived in a permanent state of war, van Ravenswaay said.

The French Creole culture produced craftsmen and artisans in proportions unknown elsewhere in the American frontier, it was said. There was an unusual number of well-educated men among them.

Charles van Ravenswaay, director of the Missouri Historical Society, called attention to cultural differences between the French Creoles who came first to the Louisiana territory, and the hard-bitten Anglo-Saxon pioneers who followed, and in many respects "swallowed up" the original settlers.

Called for equality of tax treatment, the truckers announced the "unhesitating and unequivocal support" of the Democratic-backed road financing program contained in a bill by Rep. Hale Boggs (Dem.), Louisiana.

The Boggs bill would apply proposed tax rate increases equally to all motor vehicles. The American Automobile Association claims this would impose an unfair burden on ordinary motorists to the advantage of heavy truck operators, who it contends would get most use from an improved interstate highway system.

Present Rates. Bresnahan told the committee the truckers now pay a per-mile fuel tax "four or five times higher" than passenger car drivers. He said tire taxes are automatically "much higher" because of the added weight and size of trucks.

Irving Eishenbach, vice president of Dayton Roller Co., also called the Boggs plan a "fair" one.

The American Farm Bureau Federation told the committee it opposes the boosting of federal road user taxes, contending the states "should continue to have the primary responsibility for financing highways."

The federation, one of the major farm organizations, advocated instead "continuation of the present level" of federal highway spending—about $700,000,000 a year—and "termination of the federal gasoline tax so that this source of revenue may be made available to the states."

The federation's position was set forth in a statement prepared by Matt Triggs, its assistant legislative director, for the House Ways and Means Committee.

Tax Proposal.

The committee opened hearings yesterday on a Democratic-backed bill to boost levies on gasoline, diesel fuel, tires, trucks, busses and similar items by 12 billion dollars over a 15-year period.

Added to an estimated 22 billion anticipated from federal road user taxes under present rates, this revenue would be applied to paying the federal slice of a $52,500,000,000 highway improvement program. The states would be expected to furnish the rest.

Interviewed in advance of that session, Boggs disputed a contention by Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, who testified yesterday, that the Democratic bill would fall far short of bringing in the necessary additional revenue.

"I think we have about as much revenue as we can get in the bill," said Boggs, its sponsor. "I think we've got as much as we need."

Predicts OK for Bill.

He predicted his bill would be approved by the committee without any great change.

The Farm Bureau Federation said it "does not favor the increase in excise taxes" proposed under the Boggs bill.

"State governments should continue to have the primary responsibility for financing highways," it said. "We do not maintain strong and autonomous state government by constantly diminishing the scope of state responsibility."

Noting that state highway spending has been rising about $500,000,000 a year, the federation asserted that "state government was assuming a responsibility for financing highways."

The farm group argued that the proposed tax boosts "will bear with particular severity on farmers—and will result in a further reduction in net farm incomes." The federation said such increases are reflected in truck transportation rates "and in the case of farm products or farm production supplies are actually paid by farmers."

In other testimony, a representative of Inter-city bus line operators said increased federal taxes on tires and fuel would put many of them out of business.

A spokesman for small business men said proposed boosts in the federal excise tax on tires and retread rubber (camel-back) would only emphasize the tax disadvantage he said is now suffered by independent service station operators.

TAXPAYER GROUPS URGE REDUCTION IN U. S. SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Representatives of 28 state taxpayer organizations called yesterday for reductions in federal spending and the federal debt. They also urged tighter congressional supervision of expenditures and programs.

The recommendations were adopted by the National Conference of State Taxpayer Association Executives at its annual meeting.

The group is composed of officers of taxpayer councils in 37 states, all but nine of which are represented at the closed sessions.

TRUCKING GROUP BACKS HIGHER ROAD USER TAXES

Farm Bureau Takes Opposite View — Says Rise Would Hurt Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The American Trucking Association today gave its support to proposed across-the-board increases in highway user taxes to finance new super-highway construction.

William A. Bresnahan, trucking spokesman, told the House Ways and Means Committee that trucks already pay "very substantial dollars and cents differentials" because of their higher per mile use of fuel and tires, on which taxes are levied.

Calling for equality of tax treatment, the truckers announced the "unhesitating and unequivocal support" of the Democratic-backed road financing program contained in a bill by Rep. Hale Boggs (Dem.), Louisiana.

The Boggs bill would apply proposed tax rate increases equally to all motor vehicles. The American Automobile Association claims this would impose an unfair burden on ordinary motorists to the advantage of heavy truck operators, who it contends would get most use from an improved interstate highway system.

QUEEN ELIZABETH OPENS NIGERIAN PARLIAMENT GATE

IBADAN, Nigeria, Feb. 15 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II used a golden key today to unlock the gates leading to Western Nigeria's new parliament buildings.

Then she handed the key to the Oni of Ife, president of the House of Chiefs (upper house). The region then was ready to start on a course of legislation which its leaders are confident will lead to complete self-government this year.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, who are winding up their eventful Nigerian tour, inspected the handsome parliament building. It cost £370,000 ($1,036,000) and was built in 15 months.

There are separate chambers for the House of Chiefs, which has 46 members, and the House of Assembly, with 80 members.

When someone's counting on you... you can count on life insurance

As the years of your marriage go by... and you pause for a fresh look at your responsibilities... it's comforting to know that your life insurance stands ready to meet your changing needs.

Just as you could count on the protection of your life insurance when your children were young, you can count on these same policies to help provide security in later years... for your wife, or for both of you when you retire.

Many policies, for example, offer income plans that bring a check regularly each month over a period of years... even for a lifetime. Last year alone such income payments totaled more than $700,000,000.

This is one of the reasons why you can count on life insurance... and why it is America's most widely used form of thrift.

Most policies give you a choice of several income plans. Your life insurance agent will be glad to explain how these various plans work, and help you arrange your life insurance policies to fit your needs.

You'll also find helpful suggestions in the new booklet, Your Life Insurance—and How to Use It. Your free copy will be mailed promptly; simply send your name and address on a postcard to Dept. F.

5 COUNTY AREAS PASS SCHOOL BOND ISSUES

$6,460,000 Authorized by Districts—Largest Proposal Is $2,650,000 in Kirkwood.

Bond issues in five county school districts, authorizing a total of $6,460,000 for new buildings and improvements to existing schools, were approved by voters in separate elections yesterday. Each issue required a two-thirds favorable majority for passage.

The largest proposal was the $2,650,000 issue in the Kirkwood R-7 District. It passed, 3338 to 888. The bonds, which will cause an estimated 21-cent increase in the current $3.26 tax rate, will provide for a new junior high school, expansion of the Kirkwood High School, additions to elementary schools, acquisition of a site for a new elementary school and some maintenance work for existing buildings.

Voters of the Mehlville R-9 District approved a $1,410,000 building program by a vote of 1194 to 196. The bond issue will finance the construction and equipment of additions to the senior high school and four elementary schools. It is estimated the present $2.28 tax rate will be increased by 15 cents this year and an additional 8 cents the following year.

A bond issue of $1,100,000 in the Berkeley School District was approved, 460 to 63. It will provide additions to junior and senior high schools and three elementary schools, as well as the acquisition of a site for a new junior high school building. It is estimated a 19-cent increase in the present $2.16 tax rate will be needed to service the bonds.

In the Parkway Consolidated District a $750,000 bond issue passed, 793 to 121. Of the total, $350,000 will be used to supplement existing funds for a junior-senior high school building and $400,000 for additions to five elementary schools. The tax rate will be raised an estimated 20 to 25 cents from the present figure of $2.05.

Two separate propositions totaling $550,000 were approved by voters in the Clayton School District. A proposal for $250,000 for additional classrooms at two elementary schools passed, 514 to 41. A $300,000 proposition for a new swimming pool at the high school carried, 471 to 84. No increase in the current $1.68 tax rate is expected because the total value of assessed property is growing in the district.

FINNISH PREMIER URHO KEKKONEN NAMED PRESIDENT

HELSINKI, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Finns today elected Urho Kekkonen, 55-year-old Premier, as their President for a six-year term.

Kekkonen will succeed 83-year-old Juho Paasikivi March 1. He won the election in a third round of voting by the 300 members of the electoral college. The electors were chosen in a popular election Jan. 16-17.

Electors bolted party lines and cast 151 votes for Kekkonen, who has been Premier five years. He beat Karl August Fagerholm, the Socialist candidate and speaker of the parliament, by two votes.

Kekkonen is the Agrarian party's leader and head of the current Agrarian-Social Democratic coalition, which has followed a program of friendly co-operation with the Soviet Union.

25 NEIGHBORHOOD GROUPS IN TV HOUSING PROGRAM

Formation of 25 neighborhood "listening groups" to discuss and evaluate a series of eight half-hour television programs on housing, sponsored by the Citizens' Council on Housing and Community Planning, was announced at the annual meeting of the council last night at the Ethical Society, 3646 Washington boulevard.

The first program of the series, called "Neighbors Talk," will be telecast over Station KETC at 9 p.m. Friday. The remainder of the programs, intended to mobilize public opinion for community progress, will be telecast every other Friday night at the same hour.

"Housing is everybody's business," Dr. W. H. Reals of Washington University, president of the council, said. "Those fortunate parts of the metropolitan area which today seem to have no problems or difficulties will find themselves confronted in time with the issues of spot zoning, decay and creeping blight. There are even many spots in St. Louis county that will be slums in 10 years, unless we take thought and take care."

AFL-CIO URGES U.S. PLEDGE ON DESEGREGATION

Wants Executive Statement on Withholding Funds — Opposes Powell Proposal.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15 — The AFL-CIO executive council urged President Eisenhower yesterday to give public notice that the executive branch of the Government is bound to act in compliance with the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decision and will withhold federal funds from any state or school district which "maintains segregation as a fixed policy."

The council expressed the unanimous opinion at its closing session that the pending Powell amendment to the proposed federal school aid bill, which would make desegregation essential before a school district could receive federal aid, is unnecessary.

The policy-making council of the new 15,000,000-member labor body charged that the Powell amendment was receiving "cynical and hypocritical backing from scheming politicians who want to use it as a lever to prevent enactment of any school aid bill."

In joining in the unanimous council vote, Walter P. Reuther, former president of the CIO and now head of the United Automobile Workers, reversed a previous position.

Reuther told the Post-Dispatch he subsequently had become convinced that the law as set out by the Supreme Court automatically precluded federal aid to areas defying it. Reuther's attitude, as well as that of other council members, was influenced by separate but identical legal opinions by the AFL-CIO attorneys, Albert Woll and Arthur J. Goldberg, formerly of the CIO.

Meany and Stevenson. In a discussion of the council's position at a press conference, it was disclosed that George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, was in sharp disagreement with Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential aspirant.

"I am in complete disagreement with Mr. Stevenson," Meany stated, "who has said, in effect, that the best way to handle the problem is to run away from it. If Stevenson acts in disregard to conditions, how could he be President?"

"I don't think his position was very courageous," Stevenson said recently on the west coast that if elected he would deal with school segregation in a moderate manner and would not refuse federal funds to segregated schools.

The A.P. quoted Meany as saying he realized school segregation could not be "cured overnight" and favored patience in letting states gradually desegregate so long as they made continued planned progress in that direction. He said Stevenson's position seemed to favor "postponing things forever and that's nonsense to me."

Refers Only to One Issue. Meany made it clear, however, that he was only referring to one issue with Stevenson, who received the endorsement of both the AFL and CIO in his 1952 presidential campaign, prior to the merger of the two labor organizations.

"I also do not like President Eisenhower's silence," Meany said, "and while I think that patience is required in dealing with the race problem that is not the question at issue. We are not going to solve the race problem overnight, but we should keep our objectives before us."

Detroit Dispute Settled.

Meany announced settlement of a jurisdictional dispute between the United Auto Workers and building trades unions at a Studebaker-Packard Corp. plant in Detroit.

The controversy rose in early January when Packard received an Air Force contract to convert an auto plant to jet engine production. Not enough UAW members regularly employed by Packard for relocating machinery were available.

Building trades union workers were called in to augment the work force and a squabble developed as to what work UAW members or building trades members should perform.

When building trades workers walked out and set up picket lines, UAW members continued working and Packard brought in other UAW members with the required skills from other Packard plants to do the job on an all UAW basis.

Meany said the "compromise" solution was that those UAW members who had been first available in the plant for the work will continue at the job, with building trades union members providing the required supplemental work force. About 200 UAW members brought in from other Packard plants will be returned to their regular assignments, Meany said.

Stevenson Says Meany Didn't Understand Statement.

SEATTLE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson last night telegraphed President George Meany of the AFL-CIO that he didn't understand Meany's statement.

"I can only assume," Stevenson told Meany, "that you have not read the statement of my position regarding desegregation released in the Monday newspapers. Otherwise I do not see how you could interpret anything I have said, either as running away from the problem or suggesting that it be postponed forever.

"What it said is that I would oppose the use of force, and I think you would too."

Meanwhile, in Chicago Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said she trusted Stevenson's "integrity and... his judgment" as to the best way to deal with the Civil Rights question in the South.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Stevenson "has never quibbled in any speech as to his stand on civil rights. His answer to a question in Los Angeles, opposing the use of federal troops to enforce desegregation in the south, was entirely correct."

"We are opposed to force and we believe that the spirit of men in the south is changing in the right direction but troops and bayonets will not bring about a change."

"From where I sit it looks like a stampede to Rum-on-the-Rocks!"

What a surprise you get, says Joe Stetson, the first time you taste today's great Puerto Rican dry rums. These are two-fisted drinking rums. Distilled at very high proof. Clear and mellow. And so dry. Tremendous on the rocks with a twist of lemon. Terrific in a tall glass with any mixer. Ordinary drinks don't even come close! Joe's Best Friend says, "You have a choice of many fine brands of Puerto Rican rum, so it's worth your while to try several." One of the driest of all the superb Puerto Rican dry rums is Merito.

What's new in General Motors Cars?

He and some 20,000 others are getting special mechanical training each month

THE GENERAL MOTORS MOTORAMA, now touring the country, gives vivid evidence of the fact that General Motors leads the way in the development of new safety, convenience and performance features.

They sparkle with advanced engineering developments. But have you ever thought of this?

Every time the engineers come up with a new advance in automatic transmissions—or power brakes—or power steering—or V8 engine design—or air conditioning—thousands of dealer mechanics have new things to learn.

Even a veteran mechanic needs to know how these new features are built—how they operate—how to take them apart and put them together expertly when they need service attention.

Automobile manufacturers, of course, have tried—in a small way—to pass on this information for years, with shop manuals and training classes.

But never before has there been anything which can even approach the General Motors Training Center program launched last year.

This involved building thirty brand-new, specially designed and specially equipped training centers, conveniently spread throughout the country.

It involved providing specially trained instructors, and well-equipped classrooms, where the mechanics enrolled can actually perform every service operation themselves.

And it involved getting dealers to recognize the advantages of this training. But that was easy.

After all, General Motors dealers are good businessmen. They know the advantage of giving their customers the finest possible service.

So from the day the first Training Center was completed, it was crowded to capacity.

By the end of the year, when all thirty Centers were in operation, enrollment for the year had topped 100,000.

And now—as we start a new year with all Centers in operation—registrations are coming in at a rate which runs 20,000 a month.

This is one more reason why the 16,957 General Motors dealers throughout America have such a leadership in sales. They know that success smiles on those who deserve it.

STOCK BOOM ON EISENHOWER'S DOCTORS' VIEW

Encouraging Report Brings Gains of $1 to $6 at One Time —
Close Off From Top.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—The stock market made a good advance today, retaining gains of from 1 to around 3 points after leading issues had gone ahead around 6 points earlier in the session.

Trading was heavy at the start but gradually slackened off until the close when activity was quiet.

The advance was general, affecting all major divisions of the market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.90 to $174.90 with the industrials up $3.30, the rails $1.50 and the utilities 40 cents.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 4.92 points higher at 470.64 at the close. The 20 rails gained 1.77 at 156.28 and the 15 utilities rose 12 of a point to 64.56.)

Of 1178 issues traded there were 832 advances and 162 declines. There were 18 new 1955-56 highs and 5 new lows.

Among exceptions to the general trend was Ford Motor stock which slipped to 61 1/2, 62 1/2 asked in over the counter trading, compared with 62 bid yesterday.

Volume totaled 3,000,000 shares compared with 1,590,000 yesterday. It was the first three-million-share day since last Oct. 11.

Leading issues scored gains of from 1 to 4 points in the wake of the medical report that President Eisenhower's health was good enough for him to go on actively "for another five or 10 years."

In the earlier rush of heavy trading the gains stretched to around 6 points and the ticker tape, which reports transactions, fell as much as 3 minutes before it cleared up 40 minutes after the market opened.

Volume for the day was estimated at around 3,000,000 shares compared with 1,590,000 yesterday in the heaviest trading since October.

Outstanding strength was shown by steels, motors, aircraft, copper stocks and oils.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngtown Sheet & Tube were all around 2 points.

General Motors and Chrysler were both ahead better than a point. Kennecott Copper and Reynolds Metals went up around 3 points. Du Pont advanced better than 4 points. Standard Oil (New Jersey) rose around 2 points.

Douglas, United Aircraft and General Dynamics went ahead 2 points or more.

Some of the best gains were shaded after the initial spurt of trading but in late afternoon prices again improved, though still below their best for the day.

London stocks were sharply lower again, the Financial Times index sliding 2.6 points to a new 1955-56 low of 174.3.

(The United Press said that natural gas issues, exceptions to the trend, declined on indications to some traders the President will veto the natural gas bill in view of the unfavorable publicity surrounding that measure.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—American Cyanamid Co. reported its net profits for 1955 rose to $38,713,666 equal to $4.07 a share from $27,050,370 or $2.95 a share in 1954.

Johns-Manville Corp. declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a common share, 25 cents from the rate paid in previous quarters. The dividend is payable March 9 to holders of record Feb. 27.

General Steel Castings Corp. reported 1955 net income of $2,338,000, equivalent to $4.95 a share, compared with $1,879,000 or $3.05 a share for 1954.

Directors of the Procter & Gamble Co. have recommended a two-for-one split of common stock, and called a special meeting of shareholders for May 22 to vote on the proposal. Stockholders will be asked to approve an increase of common stock from 15,000,000 shares without par value to 25,000,000 shares of $2 par value each.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. declared a quarterly payment of $2.25 on the common stock or the same that had been paid in prior quarters. The dividend is payable April 10 to stockholders of record March 12.

Laclede Steel Co. reported 1955 net earnings of $4,047,053 equivalent to $19.62 a share compared with $2,943,409 or $14.27 a share for 1954. Sales were $58,191,000, against $45,364,000.

First National Bank in St. Louis declared a dividend of 50 cents a capital share payable Feb. 29 to stock of record Feb. 17. Similar payments were made in preceding quarters.

American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co. voted a dividend of 25 cents a common share payable March 28 to stock of record Feb. 29.

Crucible Steel Co. America declared a first-quarter dividend of 75 cents payable March 30 to holders of record March 13. This company has previously common stock dividends of 50 cents and a year-end extra of 50 cents in 1955. At the

U.S. CHALLENGES RULING ON NAMING OF FORMER REDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Government asked the United States Court of Appeals yesterday to reconsider a 2-to-1 decision that congressional committees have no right to compel witnesses to expose former Communists when no valid legislative purpose is served thereby.

The Government petitioned for a rehearing with all judges taking part. There are eight judges, with one vacancy. The court ordinarily decides cases by three-judge panels.

The decision being challenged was handed down Jan. 26. It ordered acquittal of John T. Watkins of Rock Island, Ill., who had been convicted in district court here of contempt of Congress.

More Japanese Earthquakes. SAPPORO, Japan, Feb. 15 (AP)—A slight earthquake was felt in central Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island today. No damage was reported. A stiff earthquake jolted Tokyo yesterday, injuring eight persons.

2 EX-EMPLOYEES OF GOVERNMENT MUM ON RED TIES

Refuse to Tell House Committee Whether They Ever Were Communists.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Two witnesses with long records of past Government employment refused to say today whether they were Communists when they worked for a string of federal agencies.

Irving Richter of Detroit and Morris Levine of Chicago, both sworn to the House Committee on Un-American Activities that they are not Communists now. But both invoked the Fifth Amendment guarantee against forced self-incrimination when asked if they belonged to the Communist party when they worked for the Government or any other time in the past. Levine declined on that ground to answer questions about whether he transmitted any government information to members of the Communist conspiracy while he worked at Army headquarters in Tokyo from 1946 to 1950, or when he worked on a survey of defense industries in 1940.

Evidence of 10 Cells. The House group says it has evidence of 10 Communist cells in federal agencies in the past. However, Chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), cautioned before today's renewed hearing that it is "premature" to conclude that "any number of Communist party members" are still in federal service.

Today's testimony brought out that Richter left the Government in 1943 after working as a clerk for the Federal Emergency Relief Administration in 1934-35, then coming to Washington to work in turn for Works Progress Administration and the wage and hour division of the Department of Labor.

Levine said he left as a Government statistician and economist in 1950 after 20 years in federal jobs. He said he was with the Bureau of Census beginning in 1930, went with the Department of Agriculture in 1932, with the Labor Department's bureau of statistics in 1933 or 1934, the War Production Board in 1941 or 1942, and then shifted to a civilian job with the Army from 1946 to 1950.

Now Selling Toys. Richter, who said he now is selling toys and novelties in Detroit, had been expected to "co-operate" with committee questioners today.

He was named as a WPA Communist cell member yesterday by James E. Gorman, a recently-resigned Civil Aeronautics Board official.

Richter declined to say, among other things, whether he was a CIO United Auto Workers representative in Washington in 1943-48, nor would he tell whether he was "fired" at the end of that time in the UAW's drive to clean out Reds. Levine, 44 years old, a nervous witness who testified in barely audible tones and conferred frequently with counsel sitting beside him, said he is now working "in a typesetting establishment" in Chicago.

He testified he had worked as a civilian statistician and economist at Army headquarters in Tokyo from 1946 to 1950, and was discharged from the job. "Were you discharged as a security risk?" asked Richard Arens, committee counsel. Levine declined to answer.

Radio Listener Sentenced. VIENNA, Feb. 15 (AP)—A Czechoslovak people's court at Prerov has sentenced farmer Josef Vykoukal to three years in prison for listening to Radio Free Europe and for spreading its war-mongering propaganda. Czechoslovak papers said yesterday.

Some Homes Sell for as Little As $35 to Make Way for Road

Homes Auctioned in North St. Louis County Must Be Moved or Demolished.

Some houses in north St. Louis county were sold yesterday for as little as $35 to $110. Reason for the bargains is that the houses must be moved or demolished not later than Aug. 1 to make room for the Mark Twain Expressway. They were acquired from the original owners by the Missouri Highway Department by condemnation or purchase. The auction sale on behalf of two Kansas City firms that have the contract for clearing this portion of the right-of-way continues today and tomorrow. A total of 90 parcels in the neighborhood of Jennings road and Lillian avenue in Pine Lawn was sold yesterday for prices ranging from $3 for a shed up to $1310. Sales resumed today at 10 a.m. at 4828 Edgewood avenue as the auction crew of the Shopen Realty Auction Co. of Kansas City moved westward toward Lindbergh boulevard. Some purchasers planned to move the houses to new sites nearby or to convert them into clubhouses beside the Meramec or Mississippi rivers. Others expected to dismantle the structures and use the materials in new construction. In some cases the successful bidders wanted to obtain only a serviceable furnace or hot water heater. Cecil F. Shopen, who alternated with Robert Powell at the auctioneer's microphone, said

FLOWING CONTEST FUNDS REQUEST CALLED TOO BIG

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Sponsors of a world plowing contest in southern Ohio were told Monday they want far too much federal money to underwrite the affair. Chairman Cooley (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Agriculture Committee said their request—for $300,000—could easily be cut in half. Representative Poage (Dem.), Texas, asked why the Federal Government should put up anything. Cooley and Poage voiced their criticisms at a hearing by an agriculture subcommittee on a bill by Representative Polk (Dem.), Ohio, to authorize federal funds for the contest. The contest and conservation exposition is scheduled for Sept. 17-21, 1957, at Peebles, Ohio. This will be the first time it has been held in the United States. The exposition's co-chairman, Bob Miller, Cincinnati, said the contest may not require as much as the $300,000 from the Federal Government. He said sponsors merely wanted assurance they would have enough federal funds available if needed. The whole affair, he said, will cost about $400,000. He suggested the Ohioans who appeared before the committee yesterday go to Secretary of Agriculture Benson and get his opinion before going further.

BULK OF MENCKEN ESTATE LEFT TO LIBRARY, HOSPITAL

Flashes of Life

Education's Benefits. SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Although Joel Noah White pleaded guilty of the burglary of film producer Judson King's home last summer, he has escaped a prison sentence—because of his scholarship.

Superior Judge Stanley Mosk placed him on five years probation, saying he was reluctant to impose the sentence because of White's "impressive educational background." White told arresting officers he holds a master's degree from Ohio State University and is a Phi Beta Kappa scholar.

Hig Big Mouth.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City man who claimed to be a deaf mute was arrested on a vagrancy complaint by officers who said he just talked himself into trouble. Officers said he introduced himself to those who answered their doorbells with a card explaining that he was an unemployed deaf mute and needed help to support his family. The scheme worked until one woman turned him away. Police said he made the mistake of voicing his indignation at people who would "turn a deaf mute down."

A Ticklish Job.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Two Lexington youths reported to juvenile court they had completed picking up the last of a 100,000 feathers. They admitted scattering when they broke into a novelty firm.

PHONY FUR THEF CHARGED

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Feb. 15 (AP)—Furrier Al Teitelbaum, who caters to movie stars, was charged yesterday with staging a phony robbery of his salon. Five other men also were seized as the result of an investigation under way since Teitelbaum reported a $280,000 holdup last Dec. 27. "It's a lot of hokum," Teitelbaum said as he was booked on conspiracy to defraud an insurance company and conspiracy to commit grand theft. "I'll have plenty to say later."

WOMAN BOOKKEEPER HELD IN THEFT OF $244,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 15—A 38-year-old bookkeeper, regarded by her employer as a "competent and trusted employee" of 15 years' standing, was charged yesterday with having stolen $244,000 in company funds. Miss Frances Ranne was arraigned on charges of grand larceny for the alleged thefts from Rouchard Transportation, Inc., operated of barges and tugboats. The thefts, District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said, had taken place in the last five years. Her salary was $100 a week and last Christmas she received a $2500 bonus. Hogan said Miss Ranne raised the amount of checks for day-to-day expenses after they had been signed by company officials. The amounts were covered by listing certain accounts receivable as unpaid although they had been paid.

CARLSON DIFFERS WITH PRESIDENT ON FARM ISSUE

Kansas Republican Says He Will Work for High Supports, Two-Price System.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (UP)—Senator Frank Carlson (Rep.), Kansas, usually one of President Eisenhower's staunch supporters in Congress, broke with the Administration today on the farm issue.

Carlson told the United Press he favors price supports at 90 per cent of parity for wheat this year and a two-price system for the crop starting next year.

Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson oppose both proposals.

Carlson voted for the Administration - sponsored flexible price supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity in 1954, but he said there must be "90 per cent supports to do wheat farmers any good this year."

Two Price Plan.

Carlson said he and two other Senators, both Democrats and Republicans, from wheat-growing states first will make a determined effort to put a two-price provision for wheat in an omnibus farm bill recently approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee, but conceded defeat.

A two-price system would guarantee farmers from 90 to 100 per cent of parity for that part of their crop consumed domestically by humans. The rest would sell for world market prices, with possibly Government supports at about that level.

Senator Richard B. Russell (dem.), Georgia, said he will seek a two-price system for cotton. "It won't pass now, but we're coming to it," he said.

By the Associated Press. Two developments indicated increased G.O.P. stress on farm issues:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Benson, in a Lincoln day speech at St. Paul, Minn., assailed some Democrats by name and accused them of trying to block helpful farm legislation this year.

2. Senate and House Republican campaign committees announced "an aggressive program of public education" through the farm belt by newspapers, radio programs and other media.

Assails Stevenson.

Benson criticized Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, an opponent of many Administration farm moves, and Adlai E. Stevenson, an active candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination which he won in 1952.

Declaring that Stevenson now supports price supports after opposing them earlier, Benson said:

"That, of course, was before Hubert Humphrey explained to him the political facts of life about Minnesota's Democratic primary. You don't play on Hubert's private course if you shoot under 90."

Humphrey has been urging price supports at 90 per cent of parity—a standard said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

ANTI-RED POLES TO PRISON

VIENNA, Feb. 15 (AP)—Eight anti-Communist Poles have been sentenced to prison terms from three to 14 years by a court at Zielona Gora (Gruenberg) in Upper Silesia, the Polish newspaper Gazeta Zielonogorska reported today.

They were charged with the distribution of leaflets and with anti-state propaganda.

EDWIN CLARK URGES CIVIC PARTICIPATION

Tells Famous-Barr Supervisors 'We Must All Volunteer.'

If St. Louis is to be the kind of city St. Louisans want it to be, all the people must co-operate in civic improvement projects, Edwin M. Clark, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and president of Civic Progress, Inc., said last night.

In an address at a dinner meeting of supervisory employees of Famous-Barr Co. at that "we must all volunteer to do part of the job, for if we let our city die our security goes."

He praised Mayor Raymond R. Tucker for providing leadership in the field of civic improvements and urged the executives to "be salesmen of our city" by pointing out the good things about it rather than criticizing the bad features.

Clark declared that "the thing that makes this country of ours great is management, and nothing else. We hear talk today of scientists, engineers and concert singers but if it wasn't for management there would be no concert stage."

The difference between the United States and a country like China is simply that China has no management," the speaker declared.

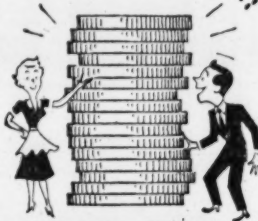

Morton D. May, president of May Department Stores Co., described expansion of May stores in Los Angeles, Denver, Pittsburgh and Cleveland, and announced a broadened group life insurance program for Famous-Barr employees. The plan provides up to $10,000 in insurance for each employee.

SECOND COBBLER EUROPE COLD SNAP
SCORES IN OPERA GOES ON, 16-INCH
QUIZ, WINS $64,000 SNOW ON RIVIERA

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—
A second Italian-born shoemaker made good in the television quiz show business last night.
Michael Della Rocca of Bal-win, Long Island, won $64,000 with his knowledge of opera.

Della Rocca thus bettered the winnings of his compatriot who went before him on the CBS show "The $64,000 Question."
Gino Prato, who was with Della Rocca last night, had stopped at $32,000.

The contestant has the privilege of bringing along an expert. Della Rocca chose Prato.

The question, with Della Rocca's answers, was:

Part one—Name Richard Wagner's four operas that make up Der Ring des Nibelungen.
Part two—Name the composer of the opera "La Gioconda."

Part three—Under what two teachers did Enrico Caruso study (Guglielmo Vergine and Vincenzo Lombardi); on Nov.
16, 1908, Caruso sang in a great performance at the Metropolitan Opera. What was the opera, his role, and who made his debut that night (Aida, Radames, and, said Della Rocca, "that immortal conductor, Arturo Toscanini").

LONDON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Eu-

ern Denmark.

Ice stopped all in land shipping in West Germany. The Rhine was flooded because of icepacks at guards blasted away ice to re-

TO HAVE BEEN SEEN IN S. CHINA SEA

BANGKOK, Feb. 15 (UP)—
American and British destroyers were reported today to have sighted an unidentified submarine in the South China sea Monday.

Robert Pierpont, a Columbia Broadcasting System reporter, said he learned of the incident from American naval officers in Bangkok.

Pierpont said British destroyers first picked up the under-sea craft on their radarscopes while on their way to Thailand for the Southeast Asia treaty alliance maneuvers now under way.

He said American naval officers told him a United States destroyer picked up the same submarine on its own radar a few minutes after the British discovered it.

The entire task force which was accompanying the United States aircraft carrier Princeton went on immediate alert, but continued toward Bangkok without incident. It was presumed the unidentified submarine was either Chinese or Communist or Russian.

Southern Informality
By Tennessee Ernie

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.

WHAT with Tennessee Ernie Ford, John Henry Faulk and Dinah Shore all a-twangin' away on the air these days, well, ah tell you we're all a-gonna be a-talkin' like a bunch of pea-pickin' Confederates if we don't watch ourselves closely.

TENNESSEE ERNIE FORD

Tennessee Ernie snuck up behind me while I was looking the other way, encoined himself in day-time television and is now firmly dug in (NBC-TV 11 a.m. C.S.T. Mondays through Fridays). Another couple of years—you mark my pea-pickin' words—this hillbilly philosopher is likely to become a household fixture as immovable as Arthur Godfrey, though mercifully, more tractable.

This half-hour show is a very shrewd mixture. There hangs over it just a little of the spirit of a revival meeting. There is also a sort of country store informality, the charm of the cracker barrel. There is a suspicion of the Godfrey morning show, just a whiff, not too much. And I suspect that as far as the women are concerned there is the added enticement of sex appeal, though, of course, I wouldn't know about that.

IN THE MIDDLE of it all is Tennessee Ernie. Ford looks a bit like the elder Douglas Fairbanks and, like Fairbanks, one of his great assets is a flashing smile of great warmth. (In the case of Fairbanks, they used to call it the $1,000,000 smile and at that rate of exchange, I would assess Tennessee Ernie's at around $200,000. No one—but absolutely no one—is ever going to match the candlepower of the elder Fairbanks' smile.)

Just at the moment Ford is chiefly noted for a song called "Sixteen Tons" which has been blaring out of the jukeboxes and the radio—and it sometimes seems—out of the very woodwork for the last couple of months. There can hardly be a soul among you who is not familiar then with Ford's resonant, deep baritone. It is lifted on this show frequently and just about all the songs sound as if they came out of the same bin as "Sixteen Tons." He likes to sing about John Henry "the steel drivin' man" or about "talkin' to the angels in the sky."

EVERY SHOW ENDS with a spiritual sung by Ford himself, that revival meeting atmosphere I was talking about. The Friday show, like Godfrey's, ends with an admonition to go to church on Sunday—but with one important difference. Godfrey just advises you to go to church; Ford tells you to go. Points his finger right at you and says: "Don't send the children to church. Take 'em!"

His humor is easygoing and relentlessly folksy. "My grandfather once said all marriages are happy. It's the livin' together afterwards that causes all the trouble." Or he may poke a little fun at, say, women's spring hats. The other day he read an ad: "Spring hats to have froth"—then added: "They're not kiddin'. There'll be plenty of froth when the old man gets the bill and starts foam'in' at the mouth." Well, it's not Noel Coward but what do you expect around noon on a weekday?

NOW TO GET BACK to that accent, an insidious thing. I once attended a boy's camp in which there was one boy from Atlanta, Ga., surrounded by 125 unreconstructed Northerners. And did all that Northern influence undo the Southern drawl? Not a bit of it. By the end of the summer, the 125 Northerners were all talking like Scarlett O'Hara and the Georgia boy's drawl had deepened to the point where he needed an interpreter to be understood at all. What I mean is that if you come home and find your wife saying "awn" for "on" or "news" with the W vibrating like a tuning fork, you can bet your bottom dollar she wasn't doin' her housework around noon time. She was listening to Tennessee Ernie.

There are some other people on the show—Molly Bee, Doris Drew and Skip Farrell, all singers, and Jack Fascinato and his band—and they engage in occasional horseplay with the boss. Mostly, though, it's all Tennessee Ernie with his folksy songs and folksy jokes and even folksy commercials. The sincerity he can put into the statement that "Dreft makes the whitest suds you ever saw!" will take your breath away.

And, at the end of the show, he bids you goodbye with an expansiveness that could hardly be surpassed in any old homestead in the Deep South. "Thank you very much for lettin' us in your homes. Drive carefully. God bless your little pea-pickin' hearts. Come see us again some time." And, if it's Friday, go to church. That's an order.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

THE following letter comes from an eighth-grade teacher who tells me: "The ages of my pupils range from 12 to 14. Some of the girls have started to wear lipstick to school. I think it is in very bad taste and at the risk of becoming very unpopular with my pupils I have made the girls remove it. I said that I didn't care what they did outside of school but that I would not have them wearing it to class. Don't you think it is improper for girls this age to wear lipstick to school, and am I right in asking them to remove it?"

I thoroughly agree with you!

DEAR MRS. POST: I am to be a guest at a large fashionable wedding very soon and have been told by a friend that I am supposed to leave my coat in the back of the church before walking up the aisle. Will you please tell me if this is correct? I want to be sure to do the right thing.

Answer: You wear your coat to the pew where you then take it off or keep it on as you please.

Value of Vitamins

By Josephine Lowman

IF we do not take seriously the new information which appears continually concerning the importance of vitamins in health and prolonged youthfulness, we might as well be living in the "Horse and Buggy" days.

Long ago the British Navy discovered that unless its seamen had lime juice on long voyages they contracted a fatal and terrible disease (scurvy, although the malady had no name then). This was due to vitamin C deficiency. Ever since then the picture has been unfolding, and the speed with which it is revealing facts in modern life is unbelievable.

The citrus fruits are our best source of vitamin C. Even today surveys show that vitamin C and vitamin B deficiency are widespread. The first goal is to eat a well-balanced and as varied a diet as possible. Many informed nutritionists and physicians feel that added synthetic vitamins are a bonus, not just in deficiency diseases but in attaining the wish to remain youthful and energetic for as long as possible.

Beauty Treatments on Volunteer Basis

St. Louis Cosmetologists Provide Services in Hospitals, Children's Homes

By Mary Kimbrough

THIS is National Beauty Salon Week, and that should be good news for hundreds of St. Louis women and children, many of whom have never set foot inside a beauty shop.

They are the patients in hospitals and girls in homes who receive free beauty service at the capable hands of members of the St. Louis Cosmetologists' Association. Begun six years ago as a means of observing National Beauty Salon Week, the program now has spread to 12 institutions, eight of which receive year-around service.

Volunteer cosmetologists give their leisure time, their days off, their evenings, to take beauty into unfamiliar places. They may set up shop in the laundry of an institution or in a tiny hospital room. And if the patients are too ill or elderly to come to them they'll go to their wards or rooms.

Last year alone, more than $5000 in free beauty service was given in the form of approximately 325 permanent waves, 1500 haircuts, and 1200 shampoos and sets. Supplies are furnished by beauty supply houses as their contribution to the philanthropic project.

Now on a year-around basis, with teams of workers visiting patients or children whenever the need arises, are St. Louis State Hospital, St. Louis Chronic Hospital, Mount St. Rose Hospital, St. Joseph's Hospital for the Deaf, Missouri Baptist Children's Home, General Protestant Orphans' Home and Evangelical Children's Home. To be visited this week, as an annual contribution to the welfare of the community, are Miriam Hospital, Missouri School for the Blind, Board of Religious Organizations and Good Samaritan Home for the Aged.

OUR people get their pay in the satisfaction of knowing their doing something for someone else, said Miss Margaret Kiel, officer of both the local and state organizations and a leader in the welfare program since its inception. "Since many of the beauty shops are closed on Monday, that's when a lot of the girls volunteer their time to work in the hospitals and homes. I know two girls who live in north St. Louis who go faithfully."

ly all the way down to 9101 South Broadway to help the patients at Mount St. Rose Hospital.

Approximately 50 cosmetologists serve on the welfare program. Miss Kiel directs the work in the south and central area, while the north side institutions are served by teams under the chairmanship of Miss Wanda Bell. Buddy Walton is chairman of the 1956 National Beauty Salon Week.

Both Miss Kiel and Miss Bell actually work in the institutions as well as assigning others to specific times. Walton and Mrs. Florence Faires, president of the local group, also are volunteer workers.

"We have no set schedule," said Miss Bell, "but we're always ready to go whenever the children's homes want us. We may visit one home four or five times a year. How long we stay each time depends on how many girls want their hair done and how many want permanents."

Miss Bell also has given many hours of volunteer service at the Missouri School for the Blind, where the partially sighted as well as the completely blind are eager for beauty work.

"A blind girl will tell me, 'It looks fine,' after she has felt her new hair-do and 'sees' by touch," said Miss Bell. "Those girls want beauty work just as much as the others."

MUCH of the hospital service must be done at the bedside since the patients are too ill or infirm to visit the makeshift beauty shop.

"Then it's a matter of doing the best we can," said Walton. "If a bucket is the only thing we can find to hold the shampoo water, then that's what we use. Of course, we have to use hand dryers so that means standing by the patient's bed for 20 or 30 minutes. If a person is bedfast, sometimes we have to clip the back of her hair short and give her a flattering coiffure at her face."

"But we feel there's more to it than merely setting hair. We always go into a hospital ward with the feeling that we want to do something for these people, and we try to be as pleasant as we can. We tell them jokes occasionally, and try to make the whole thing a pleasant experience for them."

Another volunteer, Mrs. Ann Fritz, treasurer of the local group, told of helping a woman at Firmin Desloge Hospital.

"The woman had beautiful red hair, but she was blind and ill and had lost all interest not only in her appearance but in everything around her," she said. "I washed her hair, cut it short and styled it, and as we went back to her floor one of the nurses said, 'How lovely you look!' The woman just beamed and later this nurse told me, 'You've done more for her than anyone else could have done.'"

Hospital authorities have been enthusiastic in their reception of the program. Donald Glynn, occupational therapy director at Firmin Desloge, called it one of the major morale boosters in the institution.

"Even the women going to surgery want to have their hair fixed before they go," he said. "And those who are elderly, perhaps have suffered a stroke and are incapacitated, are helped immeasurably by this work. You know they begin to feel useless and unattractive and then when they have their hair done and begin to think that they can be attractive even though they are ill, you can't imagine what that does for their morale."

But the older ones aren't alone in their desire for beauty, the cosmetologists have found. They're among the most popular visitors at the children's homes.

from the Hand of an All-Loving Father. There is not a human being alive who, when darkness gives vision scope, and when he is alone with himself, does not say that he is afflicted less than he deserves; strokes are fewer than the crimes and lighter than the guilt. St. Paul went so far as to say that if we rebel under the chastisement, then we are illegitimate children and not sons. It is the very quality of sonship that exposes us to that loving discipline of a father who would mould us in the ways of righteousness. The indignation of a father rises against a son when he tells a lie, but this indignation is not born of hatred for the son, but because of love for him.

Sometimes in darkness the soul says: "I wonder if God really loves me," or, "I wish that He would tell me that He loves me." In such moments, one need only look down to the fevered hands to read the answer, as we need only look to glorious Easter scars to see love written there. Trials can arrest the sinner, deepen the loving sorrow of the penitent, and advance in perfection the saint. This is the reassuring truth that issues not from fate or chance, but from Divine Love which would purge us of the evil that would most estrange us or ruin us. As Francis Thompson has put it, perhaps all our sorrow and pain "is nothing but the shade of His hand outstretched caressingly."

The Shade of His Outstretched Hand

By Fulton J. Sheen

WHEN misfortune strikes, or there is a bereavement, sickness or impoverishment, the heart may look upwards or down w a r d s.

When it looks up, the patient's dust, there is no sense whatever that the affliction has been sent; it may be regarded either as chance, fate or "just my luck." When it is looked at from a heavenly viewpoint, then it can be regarded as "a chastening of the Lord."

The evils that God permits are actually just as much a part of His Providence as His blessings. As darkness is an important role in the universe as the daylight, so too does pain fit in the plan of life as well as joy. One hardly ever hears quoted the Divine Truth: "In this world you shall have tribulation."

THE TRIALS of life can be either an exercise in faith and patience as they are for the saints, or they can be rewarded as a cleansing in order to make evil more odious.

Franz Werfel has written profoundly on the subject. Only the sick man who no longer possesses it can estimate the overwhelming strength that is consumed by that senseless, interminable, mutual preening and posturing that is termed "social life." The curse of illness invites us either to heaven or hell. It is like an ultimate X-ray examination of the supreme value of a man. Illness either delivers a man, bereft of soul, to matter or, offered as a sacrifice, it liberates his saintliness by letting his ego grow more transparent, more soaring, more encompassing, until the hour of death. How great is man's destiny if he can transform even the most horrible of curses into a blessing.

The tragedy of misfortune of all kinds is how much of it goes to waste. There is nothing in pain or loss which of and by itself can profit a soul; what makes the difference is how the soul reacts to it. No one is better because he has suffered; he can be immensely worse. Pain may burn, sear and torture the soul as it did the thief on the left side of Our Lord. Neither is it to be believed that a person has a misfortune because he has been evil. Good never has need of anticipating the Final Judgment. It is often the good who have the heavy hand of scars laid on their brows. When Our Lord was asked about the afflicted youth, whether he had sinned or his parents, Our Lord answered: "Neither."

BUT TRIALS are permitted for the sake of chastening from evil or for preparing for greater blessings. Never, however, is a cross sent that is stronger than the shoulders can bear. As a prudent physician consults the strength of the patient as well as the nature of the disease and the strength of his medicine, so bitter ingredients are dispensed by the Wise Prescription of God, according to the degree of strength in His children. When we were children our parents often gave us bitter medicine, and though we complained, they told us it was for our own good. This chastening was essential for health of body, as some chastening now is essential for health of soul.

Proper Storage Furniture

By Elizabeth Hillyer

WHAT storage furniture for the room? Let a measuring tape decide. How much wall space is there for it?

For so many reasons — because no home ever has too many places to put things, because housework eases when things can be hidden away — the best storage furniture for a room is usually that which uses every inch of wall space.

This may mean a single piece, but let it be the longest that fits. Or it may mean several pieces if they're the kind that makes a smooth, clean sweep of it lined up side by side. And don't forget its stacking talent which boosts capacity by reaching upward on the wall.

Wall measurements can be the top determiner in choosing today because so many sizes of good looking chests and cabinets are available. And especially in the new spring furniture, there's handsome variety in both traditional and contemporary design. Drawers are less likely to repeat pulls endlessly—two kinds are used for the center chest at top and the desk. Doors and drawers break up flat surfaces, as the sketched door cabinets and drawer chests at right and below show.

Steam Radiator Air Valve Troubles

A FEW WEEKS back we mentioned the fact that if the little air valve on a steam radiator becomes stuck, the air can't get out of the radiator. If it can't get out then there's no room for steam and you end up with a cold radiator.

Now while there are some radiator air valves that become stuck and won't let the air out, there are others that go to the other extreme and not only let the air out but also the steam and maybe even some water as well.

Radiator air valves are so constructed that when the steam starts to come up, the air in the radiator is driven out through the air valve. If the air valve is in proper working condition, it continues to allow the air to escape until its inner workings are effected by the high temperature of the steam in the radiator. At this point the air valve is supposed to close up tight and prevent any of the steam from escaping out of the radiator.

If you have a radiator and steam comes out through the little air valve, you should replace the valve. It is worn out and is no longer working effectively. A leaking valve reduces the heating efficiency of the radiator because it allows the steam to escape, and it also wastes fuel. What's more, that steam isn't doing the wallpaper or paint on the walls around the radiator one bit of good and it's also adding to the humidity of air in the house.

DR. PAUL POPENOE

Mrs. F. is on the wrong track when she writes: "I have reached an impasse after seven years of marriage. I feel we need competent help. We have no church connections, so we can't seek help from the church. We have decided that I should take a trip." . . .

IN THE FIRST PLACE, Mrs. F., no one need hesitate to call on a clergyman for counsel. His interest is not limited to the members of his own flock.

Much of the best marriage counseling nowadays is done by clergymen, and as a class they are becoming more and more skilled in it. The American Institute of Family Relations furnishes training and materials to ministers all over the continent. Large city churches, especially, seek to render a service in this field—one in Connecticut, for instance, has four assistant clergymen who devote their time almost wholly to counseling.

IN ANY EVENT, don't think you will solve your problems by running away from them. People are sometimes told: "If you'll separate for six months you'll miss each other so much that you will come back together happily." It's not true. If you do come back, you haven't solved the problems that drove you apart in the first place.

The way to deal with marital conflict is to face it frankly, analyze the causes, and deal with them in detail.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN JR. . . HIS DRIVE IS CONCEALED UNDER A CASUAL, INFORMAL MANNER.

GOLDWYN ON LOCATION WITH BARBARA LAWRENCE, WHO PLAYS ONE OF THE LEADING ROLES IN HIS FIRST MOVIE AS A PRODUCER, "MAN WITH THE GUN."

Another Goldwyn Tackles Hollywood

Samuel Jr. Starts in His Father's Footsteps by Producing His First Movie—He Directed Gen. Eisenhower

By Edward A. Harris

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

FIVE years ago in Germany a tall young Army lieutenant quietly watched Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as a roomful of his aides chattered like chipmunks in advising him how to talk and act for a documentary film on postwar Allied unity.

Each assistant had a different notion as to how it should be done. Suddenly Eisenhower strode briskly over to the tall young lieutenant, who was dressed in a low cocktail table. He wore a tweed sport coat, dark gray trousers and a fire-engine red vest that could have been a present from his mother or his wife, but never from his father.

His blue eyes are large and expressive behind horn-rimmed glasses, and there are times during conversation with him when you feel he would make a pretty good actor himself had he not chosen to be a producer-director.

Chances are he'll stick to the executive end. "I think movies are my life now, first, last and always," he said. "I've always wanted to do anything that I can be truly enthusiastic about, and there's a tremendous excitement about movies, at least to me." . . .

Man With the Gun, his first Hollywood effort, was a hit. Young Goldwyn, unwilling to ride into the hierarchy of filmland on his father's coattails, formed his own production company to produce the picture, which was released by United Artists. In battling in a box office run his first time up, he converted another studio's fumble into a home studio score.

HE had enough energy and certainly was big enough for almost any job in the Army. Out of the Army he's still big (six feet three, 185 pounds) and energetic, but his drive is concealed under a casual, informal manner. Perhaps "concealed" is not the word for young Goldwyn. One of the most direct, honest-speaking and friendly personalities in the cardboard city called Hollywood.

He has a stimulating and creative mind, and like his widely-known father an exceptional ability to concentrate on a problem until it is solved, excluding superfluous distractions. But Goldwyn Sr. tends to be formal and circumspect, while talking about "Guys and Dolls." Young Goldwyn was happy that his father had not criticized the picture too sharply. He has a genuine admiration for Samuel Goldwyn Sr. as a producer—and, especially as a father.

He taught me, among other things, to avoid pretension," said young Goldwyn. "He always said that the greater people are, the simpler they are."

His father, at 73, is one of the vigorous wonders of Hollywood, strong and erect and highly active in the industry, which he helped pioneer since the day in 1913 when he first walked into a nickelodeon in New York. From a persuasive glove salesman he turned overnight into a movie-maker, hiring a young playwright named Cecil B. DeMille to direct his first picture, "The Squaw Man." . . .

Years later he was one of the founders of what became Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, largest in Hollywood. For the last 33 years he's been an independent producer, head of Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc., where his son maintains his office and produces his pictures.

The senior Goldwyn always wanted to maintain his own independence, and his son, in forming his own company, is acting like the proverbial chip. He is not, however, like the Sammy in "What Makes Sammy Run." He has no overpowering ambition for fame, but an earnest desire to make good pictures and to contribute his part to the industry's growth. He has a simple and candid explanation for the fact that he isn't the fictional Sammy "I've never had to run."

HELL get a quick chance to duplicate his "Man with the Gun" success. Next he'll produce "The Sharkfighters," and then "The Proud Rebel," based on a short story. He'll try hard to make them quality pictures. He believes that American-made films generally are every bit as good as foreign films, including the Italian output, and points out that Americans see only a small percentage of the Italian production—and only the best.

To the industry, young Goldwyn brings a wide background of experience for so young a man. After service in Germany in 1945 as an infantry lieutenant, he was assigned to the production of soldier shows and organized traveling troupes that played to units throughout Europe.

Instead of rushing home after his Army stint, he elected to stay on in England, where he joined the J. Arthur Rank film company as writer and associate producer. He also produced a play in London, "The Gathering

Try and Stop Me

AT THUNDER stepped his harrangue to fasten his attention on a young man in the front row who showed no sign of repentance. "Don't you want to be saved?" roared the revivalist. "Well," said the sus, ected sinner, "I'm a member of the press."

"Oh," nodded the revivalist respectfully, "I beg your pardon."

A YOUNG CROONER stopped signing autographs long enough to peruse a draft notice that had come in the mail. Then he tossed it to his secretary. "Tell them," he instructed, "I can give them the last two weeks a year from now."

Mix sugar, grated orange rind and orange juice. Spread on hot buttered toast and then run under the broiler. Nice for after-school snacks.

The bidding:
East 1♥ South 2♦ West North
Pass 4♦ Pass 3NT.
Pass

West opened the heart king, but on sight of the dummy, with its formidable heart suit, he promptly shifted to a club. Dummy won, and the ace and another trump were played. East took the king and continued with a club. Declarer discarded a second diamond, then led a diamond from dummy. East's diamond ace was now the only trick the defense could collect, and the contract was safe.

In view of South's bidding, which announced at least six diamonds and five spades, the defenders should not have worried about establishing dummy's hearts; they should have kept on leading that suit as the one chance to defeat the contract.

Actually, continued heart leads would have made South's problem insoluble. Let's follow the play:

West, after winning with the heart king, leads a second heart. East puts up the ace and declarer must ruff (or concede four tricks very quickly.) Now, whether South knocks out the spade king or the diamond ace, he must soon lose control of the hand. Let's suppose he leads a spade to the ace and returns a spade. East wins and leads another heart. Again declarer must ruff, and now he is reduced to one trump. All East has to do is hold up his diamond ace for one round, and South's beautiful diamonds wither on the vine.

Thus, as has been shown, the very defense that would appear most East-West in actual play is the immediate establishment of dummy's long heart suit—was the only defense that could defeat the contract.

St. Louisans on Holiday In Late Winter Season

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

TODAY, the first day of Lent, finds many St. Louisans traveling and a few former St. Louisans visiting here. Mr. and Mrs. Alden Sanford Blodgett Jr. of Sewickley, Pa. (Louise French) are expected Friday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley French, 6326 Alexander drive, Clayton. Monday Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Trimble Pierpont Jr., returned to their home in Worcester, Mass., after a visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Crago, 21 Westmoreland place, during which they were entertained at several informal parties. Mr. Pierpont had been in Tulsa, Okla., on business and his wife, the former Miss Georgia Simmons of St. Louis, joined him here.

A holiday in Honolulu is in prospect for Mrs. John A. Holmes, 19 Berkley lane, Ladue, and Mrs. Elizabeth Luyties Sheldon, who lives with her mother, Mrs. Frederic A. Luyties, at 10 Brentmoor, Clayton. They will sail on the Lurline the middle of March from Los Angeles to be away several weeks.

Mrs. Robert Hazlett Gross, who divides her time among her several married sons and daughters, is now in New Orleans, visiting her son, Oliver Gross, and his family. She had been here with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Kinsella. Leaving about a week ago, Mrs. Gross was accompanied south by her daughter, Mrs. Sewell Pangman, who remained for Mardi Gras and returned home last night.

Dr. and Mrs. William B. Lytton Jr., are due home today after a trip West. They departed three weeks ago and last week attended the wedding of Miss Grace Anne Guggenheim to Lee Verdin Langan Jr., in West Los Angeles. Later they accompanied a group of friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Laugan Sr., former St. Louisans, to La Jolla, Calif. The Lyttons are returning home by way of Seattle and Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Langan plan to make a short visit to St. Louis relatives and friends on their way back to their home in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Petersen, 750 Kent road, Ladue, will depart early in March for about two weeks in the East. They will go first to Boston for a short stay, and then to New York where they will be met by Mrs. Petersen's son, James Dowling, who attends school near Philadelphia, and will be celebrating his eighteenth birthday.

Reception at Francis L. Gross Home.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS LINTON GROSS gave a small reception last night at their home, 9715 Litzinger road, Ladue, in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farrell Dempsey, who have just returned by plane from their honeymoon in Acapulco, Mexico. Before the wedding Mrs. Dempsey was Miss Patricia Linton Gross.

Guests, relatives and close friends of the principals and their parents were received from 6 to 8 o'clock by the host and hostess, the guests of honor and by Mr. Dempsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dempsey, 900 Alanson drive, University City.

Spring flowers decorated the Gross home. The new Mrs. Dempsey wore a pale blue lace dress and a corsage of white butterfly orchids; her mother was in beige lace and the senior Mrs. Dempsey wore French blue faille.

Several other parties are being given for the bride and bridegroom, among them a buffet supper tomorrow night at which Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Landesman will be host and hostess at their home, 516 East drive, University City. Mrs. Landesman was matron of honor at the wedding.

The Dempseys are occupying an apartment until their new home at 155 North Bemiston avenue, Clayton, is ready for occupancy. They will take possession April 1.

St. Louisan at Olympic Games in Italy.

MRS. WILLIAM BARRET OAKES JR., the former Miss Nancy Naunheim, with her husband, an Air Force lieutenant stationed in Italy, attended the last two days of the Seventh Olympic Winter Games at Cortina. In a letter to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Naunheim, 7610 Springdale drive, Normandy, Mrs. Oakes tells of their 30-mile drive in sub-zero weather from their home in Pardinone, Italy, to Cortina.

"I wore two pairs of knee socks, fur-lined boots, gray wool slacks, a T-shirt, two sweaters, a parka ski jacket with a hood, a woolen cap and scarf and two pairs of gloves. I could barely squeeze into my fur coat but I was perfectly warm.

"After parking our car, we tramped over the mountains and watched the skiing. It was fabulous. The mountains were breath-taking, glistening with snow and ice and the two days that we were in Cortina the weather was perfect—cold and clear. But we had to be careful where we walked for the ice under the snow sneaked up on us.

"A man in the front of us at the games, a Russian, had on the most wonderful full-length Persian lamb coat and shako that I would have given an eye tooth to own. We saw many Russians and noticed their surprise when their contestants were applauded on winning various events. We talked with persons from Belgium and France in the best Italian we knew and gave some of the Belgians a lift in our car back to the hotel where we spent a pleasant evening with them. As I write this I am listening to Don McNeill's Breakfast Club. It is like having a friend in your house when you get radio programs from the States."

Mrs. Oakes tells of the difficulties of housekeeping in an apartment with no central heating and marble floors, with a temperature outside of 12 below zero. Because it has been impossible to obtain drinking water during an unusually cold spell, she says that she and her husband have had their meals at mountainside inns and spend all their leisure time driving in their car to keep warm.

Lt. and Mrs. Oakes, who were married here April 30, have been in Italy since early July. In that time they have taken trips to Rome, Naples, Austria and Germany and were joined in Pardinone for Christmas by Lt. Oakes's brother, Pvt. James A. Oakes, who is on duty with the Army in Frankfurt, Germany. They are planning a spring trip to France, Switzerland and Holland.

Lt. Oakes and his brother are sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Barret Oakes of Scarsdale, N.Y., who have visited the Naunheims several times.

February Events For Residents Of Kirkwood

MISS JANET McKEE, who has made her home in Los Angeles for the past year, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Logan McKee, 1308 South Geyer road. She plans to return soon to California.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee and their daughters have just returned to Kirkwood from a month's trip to the Caribbean. Their itinerary included stops at Havana, Montego Beach Hotel, Jamaica and San Juan, Puerto Rico, where they stayed at the Caribe Hilton; and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Home from a week's trip to New York are Mr. and Mrs. William G. Frazier, 420 North Dickson avenue. The visitors were guests at the Waldorf-Astoria. Just before going East they gave a dinner party for former St. Louisans, Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Bryan, who now live at Fennville, Mich. The Bryans were here en route to the Southwest for a winter holiday.

Miss Mary Lou McClure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. McClure, 2 Sappington Spur, has returned to Wellesley College where she has begun the second half of her junior year. A Wellesley student for the two years, she attended Washington University for the fall semester.

Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell, 6 Elm avenue, Glendale, will depart today to spend the remainder of the week in New York.

Mrs. Campbell and her mother, Mrs. James W. Brown, 5 Hill Crest drive, Town and Country, have just returned from Boulder, Colo. There, they visited Mrs. Campbell's son, James Jr., a student in the School of Electrical Engineering at the University of Colorado. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The travelers were accompanied home by Mrs. Campbell's daughter, Miss Lila Karen Campbell, who attended Colorado for the first semester of her freshman year. She has transferred to the University of Missouri.

Another college freshman from Kirkwood who transferred the second semester to Missouri is Miss June Diekroeger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick F. Diekroeger, 405 East Adams avenue. Miss Diekroeger, who is pledged to Delta Delta Delta sorority there, previously attended Smith College.

Many small informal parties were given in honor of Mrs. Emma Jackman, 333 West Madison avenue, who departed a few days ago for Evanston, Ill. She is making her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Rieser.

Comment on Question of Fluoridation

By Eleanor Roosevelt

IWENT to Detroit Saturday to speak at a dinner in the evening, and whenever I go to Detroit I have the fun of seeing my niece, Mrs. Edward Elliott, and her family. So I had a jolly tea party during the afternoon before I attended the dinner for Bonds for Israel and took a plane back to New York.

IN NEW YORK CITY at present the question of fluoridation is being discussed. Some time ago I mentioned the statistics I received on two upstate cities which showed there apparently was some advantage to teeth if there was enough fluorine in drinking water. But at that time many people said that this had not been sufficiently well proved.

Now there are a number of scientific organizations that think it is a safeguard to children and adults when enough fluorine is put into the water to prevent tooth decay but not enough of it to affect the general health adversely.

My information says that tooth decay is a major New York City health problem. It affects 80 per cent of our children under 6 and 95 per cent of the older people. On the whole, it is a neglected problem because there is a shortage of dentists and the cost of dental treatment is so high that an inexpensive and automatic aid to the prevention of cavities would be an advantage.

ALL COMMUNAL WATERS naturally contain some fluorine. Fluorine is a potential poison but some medical authorities say there is a tremendous margin of safety at the level of water fluoridation. Scientific studies have demonstrated that where the amount of fluorine is about one part to 1,000,000 parts of water the population exhibits a 60 per cent reduction in dental decay as compared with those in nonfluorine areas.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:

My husband and I have four children, the youngest only four months old. My husband is seeing another girl and the situation is very serious. We are about to lose our home, our bills are unpaid and my husband has been drinking. The children, of course, are the ones who suffer. There is no companionship, affection or even kindness in our home. When a man drinks morning coffee with someone else, eats lunch with her and drinks with her after work there is nothing to fight for, and I am constantly told that if I don't like the situation I can leave. I have tried to ignore it. I have tried to discuss it frankly, but am only told I am crazy. However, I have positive proof that there is someone else.

Your home and children and your marriage—as unhappy as it sometimes seems—are worth fighting for. Try not to run away. If you can bear the hurt and the fear and the desperation, it is always possible that he will come to his senses and try to make his marriage worthwhile once again. But along with the waiting, take the positive step of seeing professional help. Your husband would be wise to go with you, but under the circumstances he probably would refuse. Don't let that scare you. Go yourself. There are a number of fine agencies in the city and county where sick marriages can be analyzed—and often healed. Your minister or priest can also help you, and can refer you to other community resources.

Dear Martha:

I WOULD LIKE TO ADD a few words to the letter signed, "Ready to Drop Dead." I don't have eight children, as she does, but I too wish my neighbor would stay in her own backyard and mind her own business. That woman has given me advice about what to wear, what to cook, how to arrange my house furnishings, what colors to paint my walls, how to dress my children. She went so far as to tell me I should leave my husband, take the children and get a job. She has been in my house so much that naturally she has been present when my husband and I exchanged sharp words. We love each other very much and wouldn't dream of separating. This woman has tried to tear me apart. I feel I would like a cabin in the woods or in the middle of a field just to rest and be alone with my family.

Maybe your husband just gets tired of seeing her around and quarrels because he's fed up with busybody neighbors, but you make a serious mistake to let her overhear those sharp words. If you must quarrel, wait until you're alone, not in the presence of a neighborhood gossip. (Maybe if you postpone it you'll forget those sharp words and never get around to a quarrel.) But don't let her make you miserable. You owe her no obligation other than to be as courteous and pleasant as you can, and you've gone overboard in that direction. If she's so insensitive that she can't realize how much of a nuisance she is, she won't be hurt much if you ask her not to interfere in your life and let her know that you can make your own decisions. And if you offend her in the process, let her say she asked for it.

IN ANSWER TO J.S.: The Family and Children's Service, 4643 Lindell boulevard, PForest 7-2840, will help. Also get in touch with the Salvation Army which operates Booth Memorial hospital, 3740 Marine avenue, PProspect 3-0980. Another source of counseling is the Pastoral Counseling Service of the Metropolitan Church Federation, CEentral 1-3770. Don't hesitate to call on any one of the three. You will find understanding help.

Her Lucky Nail

By Helen Worden Erskine

MOST of us, whether we admit it or not, have a pet superstition. Mine is nails. When you read this story you'll understand why.

I happened to be walking along Sixteenth street in Denver one morning when I saw an enormous steel nail lying on the sidewalk. I picked it up for luck and dropped it in my purse. That evening Mary Reed and I went on a beefsteak fry up Morrison Canyon with two beers. A full moon silvered the plains as we started home. The long road back dipped briefly into a dark and forbidding arroyo. Somebody remembered that only the week before a boy and girl had been brutally murdered here. Suddenly, Mary, who was driving, jammed on the brakes. The right rear wheel had fallen off and plummeted into the gully below.

As we peered into the dark shadows I thought I saw a man creeping along the creek bed. Not being certain I said nothing. There was a tool chest in the car. The wheel would soon be fastened in place.

BUT THE JACK used to raise the car from the ground wouldn't work. Mary and I volunteered to ask help from people in a ranch house on the opposite hill. Fearfully, we followed the deserted road to the hill's crest. Our repeated knocks brought no response from the silent house. After what seemed an eternity we heard a window being raised on an upper floor. A man leaned out. At our plea for help he bellowed, "I'm not leaving this house. There's a killer roaming these hills."

The whole business seemed a nightmare. As we turned into the road again I noticed a black car without lights edging along the butte.

"Probably the murderer himself," said Mary, now prepared for the worst. We raced back to warn the boys. To our relief they had got the wheel on the car, but the pin which fastened it was missing. A big nail would do the trick!

EXCITEDLY I FUMBLING in my purse. Yes, the nail I picked up that morning was still there. Speechless, I handed it to the boys, holding my breath while they hammered it in place. The wheel was at last secure. As Mary started the motor, she gave a little scream. Blocking our way was the black roadster we had seen on the butte.

"What are you doing here?" shouted the man at the wheel. "Don't you know there's a killer in this section?"

"Beat it," he advised. "There might be some shooting."

We didn't need to be told a second time. By the grace of God my lucky nail held on the wheel all the way to Denver.

Next morning the newspapers carried headlines. The murderer, returning mothlike to the scene of his crime, had been captured by the three policemen in the very arroyo where we lost our wheel.

Your Food Problems

Canned Salmon Week

By Edith M. Barber

NATIONAL CANNED SALMON WEEK CAN BE CELEBRATED EASILY AND INEXPENSIVELY IN YOUR HOME WITH THIS DELICIOUS SALMON, CASSEROLE OR A SIMPLE SALMON SALAD.

IT has been some time since a food week has been proclaimed. The oversight is being corrected. Feb. 15-22 is National Canned Salmon Week. This period is a natural choice, coinciding with the beginning of Lent. Fish is always featured more often during this time, although not to the extent that it was a few centuries ago when abstinence from meat for the eight weeks of Lent was a common practice.

ONE of the finest products from the chilly waters of the Northwest is salmon, the canning of which has become one of the most important industries all the way from northern California to Alaska.

It was not long after the organization of the canning industry that salmon became a staple item on grocery shelves. It was the only sea food available in this form and has retained its popularity, notwithstanding much recent competition.

WE USE canned salmon most often in casserole dishes and a salad. For the latter the salmon must be drained and flaked. For casserole dishes the liquor should be saved, but the liquor should be drained and added with other liquid to the sauce. There is flavor in that liquor.

The recipe shown today is well named Olympia as this is a famous name in the Northwest.

Salmon Rice Olympia. One can condensed cream of mushroom or cream of celery soup, one and one-fourth cups milk and salmon liquor, one-fourth to one-third cup finely chopped onion, one teaspoon lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, one and one-third cups (five-ounce packages) packaged precooked rice, one one-pound can salmon, drained and flaked; one 10-ounce box quick-frozen green peas, thawed, one-half cup grated cheddar cheese, paprika.

Combine soup, milk, salmon liquor, onion, lemon juice, salt and pepper in a saucepan. Mix well. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Pour about half the soup mixture into greased one-and-one-half quart casserole. Then in layers, add the packaged pre-cooked rice (right from the box) salmon and peas. Add remaining soup mixture; top with cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Remove cover during last three to five minutes of baking and place under broiler to brown the cheese. Yield: six servings.

Salmon Salad. One pound can salmon, one-half cup chopped celery, one-fourth cup chopped pickle or relish, two teaspoons capers, optional, one-half cup mayonnaise, salt and pepper, two large tomatoes, few grains onion salt, salad greens, lemon wedges.

Break up salmon with fork and combine with celery, pickle, capers, mayonnaise and seasoning. Toss together lightly. Cut tomatoes in half crosswise. Season with onion salt. Heap salmon salad on tomatoes and garnish with stuffed olive slices. Serve on salad greens with additional mayonnaise if desired and with lemon wedges.

Substitution Hint You can substitute beet sugar for cane sugar in any recipe with the same results. They're chemically identical, so use what's available and economical.

Cuban specialty: steamed rice topped with black beans and finely chopped onion. Serve in soup bowls as a first course.

Evils of 'Smother' Love

By Angelo Patri

JOHN THOMAS was a healthy, handsome boy—the apple of his parents' eye. When he entered school for the first time, his mother accompanied him to the classroom, instructed his teacher about his needs, habits and general welfare. As she was about to leave the room, she turned and said, "I'll be right out here in the hall, dear, if you want anything." The other boys and girls in the class looked at John—some grinning broadly, some with compassion, all with too close an interest. John Thomas was uncomfortable.

This went on all through elementary school. Each report card was scanned with eagle eyes. "B" would not do at all. "B plus"—well, of course if he could do no better, it was too bad. "Father never got below 'A' and was graduated from his college and university with honors."

THOSE "HONORS" were held before John Thomas' eyes every morning before he left for school and every evening after he returned. They were mentioned to each teacher at every report card, test, or P.T.A. meeting time, and the teacher made to feel that the same results were expected of his labors.

No matter what the occasion—a class play, a reading before the assembly, or appearances on the playground events—Mother and, whenever possible, Father were on hand to coach, criticize and push John Thomas. Before graduation from elementary school, this hovering, hampering supervision began to take its effect on the boy.

He would make no movement whatever without first looking, fearfully, toward whoever was in charge. He had lost all will to do, all spontaneity, all initiative. "Something has to be done here," said the Head. "Hints have failed. We must speak out plainly, and now is the time." So he spoke and John Thomas was removed from the school, to his great loss.

CHILDREN WHO ARE PHYSICALLY and mentally fit need but little hovering. They need freedom to strike out for themselves, freedom to try new ways, freedom to fail, even to get hurt as they try. Only so will they gather the power of initiative, the spirit of adventure, the strength to face and use life's forces.

Children are tougher than some parents believe possible. They can stand mud on their clothes or in their eyes. They can work hard at something they have planned to do. They can survive the knocks and bumps of childhood, as long as they know they have home to go to and that love waits for them there. Give them their chance to grow by experience.

African-violet fanciers will like this simple hobby tip. Remove the perforated lid from a gray enamel chick feeder available in feed stores and fill with a half inch of pebbles and vermiculite. Stand the plants in their clay pots in the feeder. They can all be watered at the same time without mess.

Worst Type Of Shyness For Teens

By Elinor Williams

IT'S the worst kind of shyness—the grim embarrassment that makes you self-conscious and tongue-tied with boys or girls you like most! Two high school girls describe it like this in their letter:

Q.—"We find it very hard to talk to a boy we like. Both of us find it easy to talk to other boys. We just shy away from boys we like because we are afraid they'll think we're flirts. Could you please help us with this problem?"

A.—Time and dates—being with the "special" boy you like best—will help to cure this gruesome shyness.

Meanwhile, try to force yourself to be natural with him. Sometimes it helps to think in advance of something to say when you see him; have it ready! When you're with him, think of how you act and what you say to other boys, and do exactly the same with him.

It also helps to remind yourself to "Take it easy!" and "Relax!" When you do this, you'll stop frantic worrying and things to say will pop into your mind.

Some girls find that it helps them to bolster their confidence by pretending to themselves that they're the prettiest, most popular girl in the world. They've found that if they ACT confident and gay with a bright smile, the boy responds and almost any remark will start a conversation... he'll probably do most of the talking himself.

Once the conversation is started, ask questions, if necessary, to keep it going... and three little sentences will do wonders when they fit into the chatter:

1. What do you think of...?
2. That's interesting! Tell me about it.
3. Aren't you wonderful!

Tasty Tricks

Mix sliced hard-boiled eggs, pimiento, canned mushroom soup, grated cheese and canned hominy. Pour into greased casserole and bake in medium oven until hot and bubbly.

Florence's Cookies

Ingredients: One package (3 ounces) cream cheese, one-fourth pound (one-half cup) butter or margarine, one-half teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups sifted flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup red jelly, one and one-half teaspoons sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon.
Method: Cream together the cream cheese and butter; add vanilla, flour and salt. Mix thoroughly. Chill. Divide dough in half; roll one-half on a prepared pastry cloth so it is about one-fourth-inch thick. Cut out rounds with a floured cutter. Roll out remaining half of dough and cut out matching rounds with a floured doughnut cutter. Put together in pairs, having the cut-out round on top. Fill centers with jelly. Sprinkle with a mixture of the sugar and cinnamon. Bake in hot (400 degrees) oven 15 or 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes about 30 cookies.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

It was now a month since Abraham Lincoln had written his emancipation proclamation and read it to his Cabinet. Secretary Seward had maintained that the proclamation should follow a military victory rather than defeat, otherwise it might appear as an act of despair. Since the weeks that followed had brought only additional defeat, the proclamation still lay dormant in his desk.

In July Abraham had named Gen. Henry W. Halleck as General in Chief of the Army, the position formerly held by Gen. Winfield Scott. Halleck promptly ordered McClellan's army of the Potomac to move north by water and join forces with Gen. Pope's freshly organized Army of Virginia. But Confederate Stonewall Jackson struck first, at Cedar Mountain, badly defeating Pope's army. The army, cut off from McClellan by the combined forces of Gen. Lee and Jackson, was driven from the field in a second disaster at Bull Run. Thousands fled the capital, riding trains, carriages, wagons, even as they had in April, 1861. Again there were bags of cement in front of the Treasury, horsemen carrying away important War Department documents, clerks from the civil departments drilling in the streets.

Mary Lincoln spent her time at the General Hospital, bringing what comfort she could to the wounded. Soldiers lay on blankets in the hallways, in operating rooms where surgeons were amputating arms and legs, digging bullets out of backs and viscera. She thought, death is the only victor; we work and hope and pray and fight, we win a little; but death takes all.

Abraham had reports from the War Department, bringing advance information of Lee's advance into Maryland, giving the Confederate general an open road to Pennsylvania. For the first time a rebel army had invaded the North.

"I have no choice," he said. "We must use what we have. There is no one in the army who can man these fortifications half as well as he can.

More Rain or Snow in Prospect

Heavy rain accompanied by thunder and lightning fell in St. Louis and St. Louis county last night in the first thunderstorm of the year.

At Lambert-St. Louis Field, 94 of an inch of rain fell. Only 24 of an inch was recorded in the city, bringing the total rainfall so far this year to 2.51 inches. Normal amount for the same period is 3.28 inches.

Occasional rain or snow tonight and tomorrow was forecast by Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren.

Low temperature in the middle 20s tomorrow morning with a high tomorrow afternoon in the upper 30s was forecast.

Potomac, the war was no more over than it had been before Antietam.

State elections brought defeat and repudiation, the Democrats sweeping New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, New Jersey, all of which Abraham had carried in 1860.

Then Mary received a letter from Lexington, telling her that her brother David had been mortally wounded in a battle on the Mississippi.

On New Year's morning, when gloom and gloom covered Washington like a battered army tent, Mary put on a gown of black velvet trimmed with thread lace, and went downstairs with Abraham to greet the diplomatic corps, the Army and Navy, the judiciary, members of the Senate and House.

At 11 the gates were thrown open and the public came in, jamming the corridors and the public rooms, many pausing a moment in line as they shook hands with Abraham and then with her, to offer an encouraging word.

At mid-afternoon Abraham led her up the main staircase, followed by a dozen men of the Cabinet and Congress. From a pigeonhole in his stand-up desk he took a copy of the Emancipation Proclamation into which he had inserted that morning the names of the states in rebellion to whom the proclamation would apply.

He sat down in his accustomed chair at the big table, the men grouped behind him, Mary at his side. She read: "Now, therefore I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, by virtue of the power in me vested as Commander-in-Chief, of the army and navy Chief, of the army and navy of the United States in time of actual armed rebellion against authority and Government of the United States, and as a fit and necessary war measure for suppressing said rebellion, do, on this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, order and declare that all persons held as slaves within said designated States, and parts of States, are, and henceforward shall be free, and I further declare and

Uncle Ray's Column

EARLY in the present century a Chinese monk raised money to restore the Caves of the Thousand Buddhas on the western boundary of China. Those caves were used as monasteries by men who lived from 900 to 1500 years ago.

While fixing a cave wall, the monk discovered that bricks had been used to block the entrance to a dark room. Taking out some of the bricks, he crawled through the opening.

In the dark room he was in the midst of a vast number of rolls of material which had been covered with writing or printing. There were more than 14,000 rolls! They had been saved from decay because the cave was at the edge of a dry desert area.

SEVERAL YEARS AFTER that discovery, a British scientist reached the place. He was Sir Aurel Stein. He managed to purchase about 300 of the rolls along with four printed books. The rolls and books were turned over to the British Museum and that famous museum placed one of the volumes on display as "the first printed book." It is believed to date back 1088 years.

Early printing in China was done with blocks of wood. Words were carved on the wood, also pictures. These were printed on paper. Inks of crude kinds were used. Many of the imprints were smeared. One old record, left by a Chinese official, states:

"During the Han dynasty... I saw men from Wu and Shu who sold books that were printed from blocks of wood. . . . If the classics could be cut in wood and printed, it would be a great help."

THAT OFFICIAL was named Feng Tao, and he lived more than 1000 years ago. Thanks to his urging, the emperor ordered the classics to be printed. A mistaken notion later grew up in China that Feng Tao was the inventor of printing.

For two or three steps she retained her running movement, then fell. Her head hit something hard and sharp. It was as though all the Fourth of July fireworks she had bought for Tad were being shot off in her brain.

One lid fluttered open. The room was black. She tried to move her head. The second lid fluttered. Where was she? Home in the main street house in Lexington? Then where was Ann's bed? No, it must be the house on Eighth street in Springfield. She pushed up on one elbow, looking for the walnut wardrobe. There was nothing familiar here. Why did her head feel so strange?

She slept, and when she awakened again there was a cream-colored gray in the sky. What was this anxiety gnawing at the pit of her stomach? In an instant her mind flooded with indignation: What kind of man would write such an article? Pretend that he was eulogizing the President, only make a mockery of his marriage
